Another Son Born

I had no part in being born into this world; I just arrived. My parents saw to all that. Nor did I have any part in being born into God's family, i. e. to the act itself. God saw to that. It was done of him, all in an instant. Up to then I belonged to the fallen sons of Adam. A sinner by birth, choice and practice, I was. Then on an instant, God breathed himself into my soul and I was born again. Ye must be born again, said Christ, as I was. First I had a human father who gave me his human nature and now I had the Heavenly Father, who gave me his God-nature.

What led up to it? Daily Bible reading and family prayers in the old home, laid the foundation. On Sunday afternoons, in the winter, we cracked nuts and ate popcorn beside the old coalstove—New York state, it was—while father told us Bible stories. I learned about God and that we were here to do his will. But down inside I was heavy. I had not done his will; I saw myself a sinner and lost. Then I was told that God had a Son who died for my sins and I laid hold on Him.

What part had I? By God-given faith, I laid hold on him. By that spark of faith I took Christ as my Saviour and God that instant breathed his life into me. Eight years old was I, and from that day I have had peace as to my standing with God. "Being therefore JUSTIFIED by faith, we have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ." JUSTIFIED — In God's sight JUST-AS-IF-WE-HAD - NEVER SINNED.

But I was rough. All these years since, the Holy Spirit has been showing me my many sins. The old Adam in me is like Johnson grass — it keeps sending up shoots. Looking toward the century mark and after more than half a century of service under the banner of the cross, John the Apostle said the same: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." And he gave the rule for getting back into step: "If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." John 1:8-9. God wanted me. By Christ's death he cleared the record that in righteousness, he might pour in the new life. And he wants you. May Christ become your Saviour and then your Cheer, Hope, Joy, Peace, Wisdom, Strength all the day all the way. This space paid for by an Oregon business man. GEO. N. TAYLOR, Cloverdale, Ore.

SERVICE BOARD TO RECLASS 1B, 4F REGISTRANTS

Klamath county selective service boards Saturday were under orders to re-examine all 1B and 4F registrant classifications with a view toward reclassifying those whose physical deficiencies lie within new army standards announced earlier this week.

Major Ted Case, Klamath draft director, said that all 1B and 4F cases would be reopened immediately and new final type physical exams ordered in those instances where it was deemed necessary. He said the review would be completed before the next visit of the traveling army examination board next month. The new regulations affect those who have been deferred because of dental and visual defects. The army will now accept men for combat service with sufficient teeth, artificial or natural, to adequately handle army rations. Vision restrictions have not been relaxed for combat service, Case said, but have been altered to make former 1B men available for noncombatant duty.

Army standards still require vision of 20/100 corrected or correctable to within 20/40 for combat duty but were changed in a draft announcement Monday to put those with vision within 20/200, corrected or correctable to 20/40, into class 1A for noncombatant service.

Case said the boards had received no orders to re-examine 3A cases, those with dependents, although there had been a number of rumors afloat since the first of the year regarding the classification.

He said that the 1H and 4A classifications no longer existed. The 1H class included those over 28 years of age and the 4H division those with previous military service.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By MAURICE O'CALLAGHAN
Hobbies were in abundance Friday afternoon at the first showing of the hobbies of local people.

Fifty-three various works were not required to remain in the show sponsored by the Parents-Patrons club.

Displays of woodwork, needlework, coins, stamps, pictures, dolls, butterflies, baskets, mineral specimens, geometric figures, airplanes and old books and magazines were shown along with a list of many more too numerous to mention.

At the afternoon showing, the students crowded into the girls' gym to get a peek at the work done by the hobbyists. Those who had tickets for the show were not required to remain in the sixth period class, but they could go to the gym and look around.

The Parents-Patrons were assisted by members of the local chapter of the Hi-Y.

Some of the exhibits were to be displayed by men who could not be there in the afternoon, and it was believed that several more interesting exhibits would be brought to the show after the men got off work.

Proceeds from the show will go toward the expenses entailed in planning and executing the senior banquet later this spring.

Violators of the schools traditions will be dealt with in the near future if a measure before the student congress goes through, as it probably will.

Violations of the old-standing traditions have been so neglected of late that the traditions committee has petitioned the student congress for powers to enforce them. It is believed by yours truly that it is time that power of some type be granted that organization so that the seniors' privileges can be preserved.

The violation that has been most, we'll say obnoxious, has been juniors and underclassmen sitting in the center of the auditorium at pep assemblies. This section has been the seniors' place ever since any students now in KUHS can remember and even before that.

Underclassmen walking on the upper classmen's walk has also created no little huff among the seniors and sitting on the senior bench and defacing it has brought about no little protests from those whose rights have been infringed upon.

Innumerable have been the examples of this fine spirit in the telephone's history. been set, but traffic squad is a thought provoking idea.

Remember that defense stamps are being sold in room 316.

A quiet rally was held for the Pelican basketball team just before its departure for Prineville Friday morning.

From what we hear as we type this out, Dutch French is on the line from Prineville with not very happy results. The rally didn't do much good.

Steve Stewart, unaccompanied, led yells from the hood of an automobile parked in front of the school—fortunately it was his.

Due to the weather, many of the students stayed within easy walking distance of the warm building, and the yelling was not what it could have been if the entire student body had braved the cold to show that they were behind the team.

That appears to be a standing thing with the students of KUHS. They are all for a team until it infringes on their own personal comforts then it's "take what I can get and let the team look out for its own support." We may be a little over zealous about the above, but we believe that is the general opinion of the students in many cases. In fact, we find in one of our courses that is a trait in most all humans.

WALTER PIERCE ANSWERS NOTES ABOUT PENSION

Congressman Walter M. Pierce was sick at home with la grippe when congressional pensions were voted, but if he had been on the floor of the house he would have voted NO, he declares in a letter received by The Herald and News Friday.

The letter follows:
"My Dear Mr. Editor:
"I have received two anonymous pieces of mail and one signed post card from Klamath Falls about Congressional pensions. Since I cannot reply to those who went to the expense of securing copies of the certificate addressed to me as 'One of the self perpetuating parasites,' and desire to reply frankly to them, as well as to those who very properly make inquiry as to my record on the matter, I would very much appreciate it if I may reply through your paper to any one who addresses such a communication to me.

"The communications were misdirected, as I did not vote for the Congressional pensions. I was sick at home with the gripe, but I would have voted NO if I had been present. I did vote NO when the matter was before the House in July, 1939.

"I am not a believer in pensions for elective officers, and if I had believed in them, I would not have voted to add any privileges now to any class. This is no time for such business. The reason there were so few people present on the floor when the House voted was that, apparently, no one knew the question was to be up and the procedure was most unusual.

"I bitterly regret such an incident at a time when we need all our forces and all the confidence of all the people toward waging a terrible war.

"Very sincerely yours,
"WALTER M. PIERCE, M. C."
