Radio technicians and RADAR maintenance men are wanted by the marine corps immediately, according to Staff Sergeant Carl K. Cook of the Klamath Falls recruiting station. Applications will be accepted from any man 17 through 35 years of age, holding a high school diploma and an amateur radio operator's license. In the absence of above license, a man may have a commercial radio telegraph or radio operator's license or have been engaged in actual repair of radio equipment for at least three months. Upon passing the physical examination, such an applicant will be sent to the base signal battalion at San Diego for further assignment to a special course in RADAR maintenance. Recruit training is waived and a rating of staff sergeant is offered immediately. Men who fail to qualify in the schooling will be discharged or retained in the service for other duty as requested. Others with less experience will be enlisted for general radio duties, given regular recruit training, and then assigned to the signal battalion as privates. Those who fail in this schooling will be retained for general duty with the marine corps. Uniform No Entry To Defense Areas, Navy Announces. The wearing of a navy uniform is not sufficient identification or authority for access to vital defense plants, Rear Admiral C. S. Freeman, commander of the 13th naval district, indicated today. In a letter addressed to the managements of commercial plants of importance to naval procurement in the thirteenth naval district, including oil companies, utility companies, transportation companies and certain warehouse and storage companies, the commandant said, "All guards protecting the entrances of establishments of importance to the navy's national defense program should be directed and indoctrinated in the fact that persons in uniform, as well as others, shall be required to furnish proper credentials of identity and authority to enter such areas." "It is well known that enemy agents have illegally worn uniforms of the United States armed forces." The average man is worth only one cent an hour as a source of energy, according to a professor.
