WAR DEP'T.

Joltin' Joe DiMaggio, base-ball's No. 1 holdout and 1940's bighest salaried player, is ada-mant. J. Joseph is $40,000 worth of adamant.

And Ed Barrow is equally unbending. The gap is some 3000 seeds—or somewhere in the neighborhood of eight per cent of J. Joseph's 1940 wage which was, disregarding Uncle Sam, the missus and J. Joseph Jr., exactly $37,000.

J. J., Sr., recently broke open his lean, poker-faced jaw to tell Judson Bailey of the AP that he thinks he deserves a raise on the basis of the record. The record shows that J. J. hit safely in 56 consecutive con-tests last season for a new major league mark, hit 30 homers, led the loop in runs batted in with 125 and was named the most valuable player in the American

"Did I get a bonus for my batting streak?" asks Joseph. "Hah, I did not. I didn't even get a pat on the back. No-body even said thank you."

J. J. has written to Mr. Barrow who has written to J. J. The substance of J. J.'s message is obvious. Mr. Barrow's dealt with war conditions and other things, but not a raise.

Joltin' J. is therefore on a Joltin' J. is therefore on a spot—what with war conditions and other things. A lot of guys earning $21 each and every month are figuring that nobody has the right to be arguing over the kink of money when they don't even have to face Bob Feller.

But J. J. is figuring that Ed ward Barrow and the front of fice probably took in consider-ably over $3000 last season when Gus and Gussie Phan poured out to the park to watch Joseph extend his batting streak. Inasmuch as Joe did the work leaving Edward with nothin more to do than count the dough Joe figures he has somethin

To Gus and Gussie the fituation is, when compared to other situations, confusing. It would seem that all of us should sacrifice something but if J. Joseph does the sacrific-ing what then is Edward Bar-

From here, it looks very much like E. Barrow is giving up noth-ing more than the ready with which to buy defense bonds-

Then, too, J. Joseph may have in mind those guys who are demanding—and getting—their time and one-half for overtime and double time for holidays, while the $21 per month guys aren't even get-ting enough time for sleep.
