

KLAMATH GIVES 1420 BOOKS TO VICTORY DRIVE

Klamath county has donated a total of 1420 books to the Victory book drive, it was learned here Thursday as headquarters supplied by Rudy Jacobs at 602 Main street were closed. The final counting showed a generous response. The books have now been boxed for shipment to army and navy camps as well as marine headquarters.

Of these books there were 80 class A fiction, published recently and in good condition; 642 class B fiction published earlier or in less wearable condition; 48 class A non-fiction, 203 class B non-fiction, 88 text or technical books. There were 86 books judged not of interest to soldiers and kept for the use of women and children in devastated areas. Among those not counted in the total were a few first editions which may prove of value, and some books which were discarded and given to the Boy Scouts for the paper drive.

Eleanor Stephens, state librarian, was in Klamath Falls February 21 and directed the task of sorting books. Those who aided in this work included Mary McComb, chairman; Mrs. E. P. Livingston, Phillip Blodgett of the county library, Enola Hawkins of the city library.

Those who have not yet made donations may leave books at the county or city libraries or chamber of commerce, Safeway stores or Standard Oil stations. Appreciation was expressed to press and radio for publicity given the Victory book campaign.

AFL TO STUDY NEW PINE PRICE CEILING

Delegates from all AFL district councils in the western pine producing areas this weekend will consider the effect of the new pin price ceiling on future union wage demands in a meeting at Baker, Ore., this weekend, local officials of the union said here Tuesday.

A copy of the new OPA ruling is expected to be in the hands of the assembly by Saturday. It will be studied thoroughly, according to M. T. Pavolka of the AFL's Lumber and Sawmill Workers union, and a general LSW program determined on the basis of findings.

The Klamath basin district council of the LSW recently proposed a master plan of union negotiations to Klamath area employers. The idea has been stated since early in February by the OPA ruling and appeals to the original promulgation.

New Office Space Nearly Complete In Copco Building

Enlargement of second floor office space of the California Oregon Power company was nearly complete Wednesday and part of the Copco office force shifted into the new section.

The power company recently took over the Loomis building space formerly occupied by the Kuykendall law offices in order to make room for the transfer of the Copco construction office from Riverside avenue.

The expansion will also enable the firm to provide additional space for other departments.

AFL Files Petition For Certification At Weyerhaeuser

Harold Mackenzie, representative of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers union (AFL) said Wednesday that the union has filed a petition with the national labor relations board seeking certification as bargaining agent for the 850 mill employees of the big Weyerhaeuser Timber company.

He said that the LSW claimed in the petition that the organization lists as members a ma-majority of the Weyerhaeuser workers.

It was expected that the petition would result in a board-ordered hearing and subsequent election. The International Woodworkers of America (CIO) is expected to intervene.

INTERNAL REVENUE OFFICE 'SWAMPED'

"Swamped" was the way W. J. Owsley, deputy collector of internal revenue, described the situation in his offices in the federal building as hundreds applied for federal income tax forms and assistance.

Deadline for filing federal tax returns is Monday, March 16, instead of March 15 which falls on Sunday this year. Owsley is being assisted by Walter H. Fleet, internal revenue agent, and H. H. Adley, deputy collector.

Any person in need of assistance in filing their federal returns may obtain aid from those in the office.

State income tax returns must be filed April 1, these returns going to the state tax commission, Salem, Ore. It is understood that a representative of the commission will be here next week to assist persons in making out their tax reports. Headquarters will be in the courthouse.

Machinery Pool Would Net Plenty

SALEM, March 12 (AP)—If all the machinery in Oregon's 477 automobile dealer shops could be pooled, an arms factory of about 3,290,000 square feet could be harnessed to the war effort, Joseph W. Frazer said Wednesday.

The president of the Williston Overland Motor company submitted a survey to Governor Sprague showing that such utilization would employ 2300 skilled mechanics and produce thousands of parts for tanks, guns, planes, boats and other weapons. Most of the equipment, he said, is now lying idle.

The Oregon report was part of a nation-wide survey.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By MAURICE O'CALLAGHAN
Well, here we are in the middle of the week which marks only 10 more to go this year.

School will be out for the seniors May 15 and graduation on the 29th.

The graduation will be held at night this year. First in some time that this has been done. It is placed at this time so more parents can attend the final services.

With no spring vacation school will get out one week earlier. This is done so that students may enter into vital places in the defense system sooner.

It won't be long now until the seniors have their final spree of school. They are scheduled for two important events which have been held for years, senior skip day and senior hick day. That was just a reminder to the seniors to prepare any plans they might have for skip day and hick day.

A few of the classes attended educational movies Tuesday. One was on sound waves and the other on light waves. The names of the pictures were "Light Waves and Their Use" and "Sound Waves and Their Source."

This week's Kraters which are out Thursday were completely put out by the Krater cubs.

This edition, put out by unskilled freshmen and sophomores who had to work on the paper in their spare time, will rank with the others put out this year.

The work of the cubs is reported to be close if not in some cases better than that in other editions of the Krater.

Pat Morgan is editing the Krater Cub edition of the high school publication.

Fifteen other cubs worked on the paper.

Mr. Emery's home room was granted another half-day holiday for scholastic honors which they have made this year. It is the third time since school opened that this room has won honors in scholarship.

Bill Bayless and Virginia Howard have been chosen to play the leads in the senior class play, "Ever Since Eve."

"Ever Since Eve" is a new comedy. It was first released a year ago. The play is based on high school students. It is said to be a very fitting play for the seniors to give this year.

The play will be presented on April 24.

It is really something to wait for.

The rest of the cast hasn't been completed.

It's always good weather when good fellows get together—but there's often a storm when they get home.

250 SIGNATURES ON BONNEVILLE PAPERS

More than 250 signatures have been obtained by backers of a current petition seeking Bonneville power service in Klamath county, Wilbur Yeoman of the AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers union revealed Wednesday.

Yeoman said that less than 500 names are needed to request a survey of the county by the state hydraulic commission. He described the survey as the first step toward putting the Bonneville power proposition on the next referendum ballot.

Once the survey has been made, he said, and assuming that it is favorable toward Bonneville power, the proposal for public power will be placed on the next ballot for general referendum.

Yeoman said the petitions are "going swell" and asserted that the required number of signatures will be turned in within the next two weeks.

PUGET SOUND NAVY YARD CALLS WOMEN

BREMERTON, Wash., March 12 (AP)—Offering starting wages of $4 a day with the promise of eventual earnings of $10 a day and overtime, the Puget Sound navy yard sent out a call today for 1000 women to be employed as mechanical learners.

The notice, issued from the office of Rear Admiral C. S. Freeman, navy yard commandant, said the women were needed to speed up production and to relieve men who could serve in the armed forces.

The plan opens to women ratings and classifications on the navy yard payroll from which they previously have been barred.

The navy hopes to recruit the majority of its feminine workers from Bremerton and vicinity so that a sudden influx will not add greater burden to the already serious housing situation.

Applications must be submitted to the 11th civil service commission district office in Seattle.

Two Companies Sign Union Shop Contract

Local officials of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers union (AFL) said Tuesday that a union shop contract was signed this week between the LSW and the Mount Pitt Lumber company of Central Point, Ore., a Rogue River valley firm employing some 50 persons.

The contract, according to J. J. Wolf, covers mill and woods workers of the company. The area is within the jurisdiction of the Klamath basin district council.
