

MALIN FORMS JUNIOR RED CROSS UNIT

MALIN—Students of the senior high school last week merged patriotic service with the American Red Cross through organization of a Junior Red Cross unit under the leadership of Mrs. Harry Jackman, Klamath county Junior Red Cross chairman, A. E. Street, faculty advisor and Mrs. Rose Van Meter, community sponsor. The move was a stride forward for the young people of the Malin community who through the junior unit will assume their share of responsibility in the present world crisis and in future need.

The members will cooperate with other community service units in a number of projects, the specific one now underway being the establishment of an emergency cabinet in the gymnasium of the Malin high school. Services will be volunteered with a pledge given for help in making stretchers and otherwise equipping the first aid cabinet. Bedding must be provided also and to girls of the unit will fall the task of helping to make linens and quilts.

Other projects suggested were participation in the American Red Cross war fund campaign; organization of Junior Red Cross first aid detachments, and the waging of a war on waste.

With each pound of vital raw material saved hastening the country's military victory, members are urged to gather metals, waste paper, rubber and rags in the "Salvage for Victory" campaign. The campaign is educational in character and the problem is one that needs to be attacked collectively with every Junior Red Cross member on his or her toes.

Members will gladly learn the discipline of scarcity, the first education of total war being a Spartan one. There will be fewer new clothes, fewer metal toys and bicycles, fewer jaloopies, less candy and perhaps patches before long will be patriotic. In joining the Junior Red Cross the prospective member is cognizant of all these facts, and his name added to the membership roll is the sign that he is willingly adding his efforts to those of his adult relatives in the all out war for victory.

The three major aims for 1942 are training for preparedness in internal defense, the conservation of home resources and strengthening national unity.

Betty Lou Dalton will serve the Malin unit as president, Lee Petrasek as secretary and Merle Watkins as secretary.

Students of the Junior high school organized some time ago with Mrs. Frank Payr as faculty advisor.

20-30 CLUB PLANS DANCE AT TULELAKE

TULELAKE — Twenty-Thirtians meeting Thursday night, March 5, made plans for their second annual blood donors dance to be held in the near future. The dance is given to raise funds for expenses involved in carrying out the project of giving blood throughout northern California and the Klamath basin free of charge. Members of the group have been called to Klamath Falls, Yreka, Alturas and as far south as Redding, and the call is answered regardless of time or place. Appointed as a committee to work out plans for the affair were Bruce Brickell, chairman, Al Porter and Lisle Shearer.

A joint meeting with members and their wives will be held the evening of March 12 at Siegler's inn on the Tulelake-Canby highway south of Tulelake. Dick Nolte will act as chairman on arrangements, with Ralph Ellis as his assistant. Dinner and an entertainment is promised, the meeting to be called at 8 o'clock.

Farmer Jones Nite is also on the calendar of future activities for the club and is tentatively set for March 24. Francis O'Connor, Bill Bond, Fawil West, Dave Meeker and Lisle Shearer will get behind this project to assure its success.

Carl Sudderth, principal of Winema school was a guest at the meeting.

ALGOMA CREW SETS LOGGING START MONDAY

FORT KLAMATH — Logging operations locally by the Algoma Lumber company are scheduled to start for the season on Monday, March 16, when a crew of 20 timber fallers will start work on the Yawkey tract near Fort Klamath.

Several of the local employes who remained here all winter have been working overhauling the logging equipment in the woods preparatory to starting work. It is expected that the day crew and truck drivers will start work in about two weeks after the fallers commence, on about the first of April.

The local hotel maintained by the company for its employes will re-open on March 16, it was stated. Ruby Smith, company cook, will arrive this week from Gray's Harbor, Wash., where she has spent the winter with relatives during the shutdown of the hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitney have been occupying the hotel during the winter, Whitney being employed as caretaker for the winter months and as bullcook during the logging season. Mr. and Mrs. Whitney enjoyed a few days vacation over the weekend when they visited relatives at Dunsmuir, Calif.

W. K. Dyche of Klamath Falls is logging superintendent in charge of local operations.
