CHURCHGOERS SEE MOVIES OF SCENIC SWEDEN

On Saturday, March 21, moving pictures of Sweden will be shown at the First Covenant church, 823 Walnut avenue. The meeting begins at 7:45 p. m. Two reels of the picture, "Scenic Sweden—The Land and the People," will be shown. These views will give a comprehensive pictorial tour of the country, from the farmlands of the south to the forests and streams of Norrland. It also will include airplane views of the deepsea fishing fleet, of Gothenburg harbor, of Masthugur church, and of the great power station at Trollhattan. The pictures also display Sweden's modern highways, electrified railroads and air routes.

"Life in Stockholm" will be displayed in one reel. After a brief series of scenes which offer a general view of Stockholm and its fine harbor, this film deals with various aspects of the city as seen by an energetic visitor making a stay which extends over both summer and winter, rather than the conventional tourist sights. The unloading of ships presents Stockholm as one of Sweden's great seaports. Then we see it as a modern metropolis with all the busy, ceaseless traffic of a great city.

Several reels of "Sweden at Work and Play" will be shown. This picture is rich in scenes seldom encountered by the tourist. From it the spectator gathers a vivid impression of the source of much that is strong in the national life, for it is a panorama of Sweden's people and their work on the offshore islands, in the rural districts, in the mountainous region, in typical small towns, and finally in Stockholm. Here are Swedes of all sorts, seen at their daily tasks or in their moments of recreation.

The public is invited to see these scenes of modern Sweden.
