

PRESS LEADER ASKS CONGRESS STOP STRIKES

NEW ORLEANS, March 20 (AP)—Charles P. Manship, Baton Rouge publisher and president of the Southern News paper Publishers' association, Thursday issued the following statement in response to a query as to "what congress should do regarding strikes, overtime and holidays":

"All over the south there is a growing demand that congress with or without the blessing of the White House, put an end to strikes in defense plants, put an end to labor union racketeering, put an end to war profiteering, 40 hours a week, to boondoggling, to 'social gains' as usual.

"Plain folks are demanding that Washington wake up and realize that we are fighting an all-out war, upon which our very existence as a nation depends, and that up to the present time we have been losing this war.

"They want to stop reading about strikes and lockouts in defense plants, when our soldiers and sailors are facing death on land and sea.

"They want an end to federal experimentation, boondoggling, and all sorts of foolishness that has been going on in the name of 'national defense.' They are tired of seeing their money recklessly spent, and precious time carelessly wasted by Washington planners who are pushing dubious 'social gains' in the name of national defense. They are weary of indecision and cockeyed forms of radicalism.

"We say to congress: 'keep your eyes open and face the gravest crisis in history.'

"We say to the folks at home: 'keep on writing.'"

Langlie Cuts Washington Speed Limit

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 20 (UP)—Governor Arthur B. Langlie Wednesday night issued an order, effective at midnight, reducing the speed limit on all state highways from 50 to 40 miles an hour, in line with President Roosevelt's suggestion that motorists drive slower in order to conserve rubber.

State Highway Director Burwell Bantz also issued an order under the highway code setting the limit at 40 miles, and directing changes in speed signs.

The governor asked county commissioners to take similar action on county roads.

Beating Beneficial, Victim Tells Judge

NEW YORK, March 20 (AP)—Two years ago George W. Henry, then 58 and in poor health, was beaten severely during a labor dispute.

He swore vengeance against John Ward, 28, and Joseph Whalen, 27, and caused their indictment for the assault.

Yesterday an astonished judge dismissed the indictment at Henry's request after the latter insisted the defendants had done him a favor by trouncing him.

Henry said that when he went to a hospital after the assault, doctors discovered he was suffering from a chronic ailment, and cured him.

Langell Valley

Frank Dearborn received the sad news that his sister, Mrs. Eva Jenkins of Santa Monica, Calif., passed away on Wednesday. Mrs. Jenkins and family had visited in Langell Valley many times.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Revell and Mrs. W. D. Campbell enjoyed the concert in Klamath Falls Monday evening.

Mrs. Cleda Wells of Bonanza visited several days last week with Mrs. Cora Leavitt and family.

Mrs. Homer Roberts left Saturday for Seattle to visit for two weeks with her daughter and her son.

Because engines always stop in the same position, thus weakening valve springs unevenly, it is desirable to touch the starter button lightly for a another half turn as the car is being put away for the night.

Australia Better Equipped To Fend Off Japs Than Any Territory Allies Have Lost

EDITOR'S NOTE: Harold Guard, United Press correspondent who covered the battles of Malay, Singapore and Java, outlines, in the following dispatch, Australia's prospects for withstanding Japanese invasion. It is one of the first dispatches of its kind to be filed from the Australian front.

By HAROLD GUARD
MELBOURNE, March 20 (UP)—Australia has more fighting equipment than had any territory overrun by the Japanese thus far, military experts said today.

Furthermore:
1. Man for man, the Australians are better fighters than the Japanese. They proved it when they stuck it out in the losing Malaya campaign against terrific odds.

2. The army defending Australia is much larger than those the Japanese conquered in Malaya and Java, and it is an army of white men—fighting for a white man's country. So far the Japanese have encountered largely native armies defending the administration of their soil by one colonial power against the encroachment of another.

3. The Japanese successes have been scored in countries teeming with native civilians which enabled the invaders to disguise themselves, whereas in Australia they will confront hostile, intelligent people.

Defense Planned
4. The Australian army will be led by seasoned campaigners injured by axis tactics in the European and Pacific theatres. Ever since the first World War, Australian leaders have been planning the commonwealth's defense, have been haunted by the nightmare of a Japanese attack with no time for mobilization.

That nightmare no longer exists. That is one of the disguised blessings the war in the Pacific brought to Australia. Since Dec 8—Dec 7 by western reckoning of time—the Australian Imperial force has been tightening training and discipline while bringing the army to its full strength. In addition, Australia was enabled to accumulate sizeable reserves of supplies, according to authoritative comment here.

Sparing no Efforts
The Japanese must make an effort to defeat Australia, military experts say. Any talk of a choice between India and Australia ignores the realities. Japanese military tactics more often than not follow the policy of attacking strength rather than weakness. It is logical to assume that the Japanese army's next assignment will be an effort to subjugate Australia in order to wipe out the main base for supplies and manpower from the United States.

Aware of the situation, the allied command is sparing no efforts to mass the greatest defensive and offensive forces in the history of the Pacific not only to stem the Japanese tidal wave but to reclaim the overrun territories.

Already Attacking
The Japanese successes have been scored by a Nazi pattern, including disguised troops, infiltrators armed with Tommy guns, reliance on mortar rather than artillery fire. Always the Japanese command has followed the policy of landing either at several places simultaneously or going through the motions of landing at one point while launching the main attack elsewhere.

From the military viewpoint such tactics will prove difficult in Australia, the vastness of which can be likened to an ocean with three "islands" separated by 500 to 1000 miles of arid country.

The Japanese air force already is attacking the northwest "island" comprising Port Darwin, Wyndham, and Broome. The attack may herald an invasion attempt to establish naval and air bases for an onslaught against shipping in the Indian ocean.

Alternative
Alternatively, they might attack the second "island" of western Australia to gain a springboard for an invasion of southeastern Australia. That seems improbable because such a venture would entail difficulties of transport and supply across the tableland.

Another alternative would be to keep naval vessels and transports working south along the north Queensland coast, which would present a more suitable attacking route to the heart of Australia, the fertile stretch from Newcastle southward.

Authoritative sources say that until Japan has obtained a firm foothold in that area, her task is hopeless because until then Australia will remain the springboard for an allied counter-campaign.

Should the Japanese occupy either all or part of northwest Australia, they would have three possible objectives—naval and air bases—preventing the use of airbases and ports from which the allies could prosecute the war effort, and the diversion of large forces from east and southeast Australia, where the main battle must be fought.

There is only one thing authoritative quarters believe can defeat the army of Australia—the failure of civil cooperation, both here and in the United States.

SHIPBUILDER WILL HIRE OWN WORKERS

PORTLAND, Ore., March 20 (AP)—The Kaiser company announced Wednesday it would hire its own shipbuilding employees for its new Vancouver, Wash., yard through its own office regardless of union affiliation.

J. O. Murray, personnel director for Kaiser, said an office would be opened in a day or two in Vancouver and that workers—ultimately to total between 25,000 and 30,000—will be hired on application and called from the application lists.

No request for any union affiliation will be made. What the workers do after they are employed is up to them, Murray said. He made it clear that the yards, now under construction, are being built by AFL workers. The firm has an agreement with AFL Building Trades unions.

AFL officials here refused to comment on Murray's announcement. The federation has a closed shop coastwise contract for most shipyards. CIO spokesmen were joyous over the announcement. The congress has for many months urged that workers in new yards be given a choice as to affiliation.

Other union observers predicted the plan would result in an NLRB election after the yards are in operation to decide whether to have a union and if so, what union.

Food Rations Cut In Germany, Report

LONDON, March 20 (AP)—Reuters said the Berlin radio was heard today announcing that food rations are to be reduced in Germany beginning April 4.

The broadcast reported that there will be cuts in bread, fat and meat rations, but that these will affect only the normal consumer, about 40 per cent of the population.

to keep naval vessels and transports working south along the north Queensland coast, which would present a more suitable attacking route to the heart of Australia, the fertile stretch from Newcastle southward.
