Military observers said the Japanese would probably strike on the first night that rain blacks out the waters between Corregidor and the mainland. The rainy season starts in the next few days.

Burma Village Falls

A British communique said Japanese troops driving up the Irrawaddy river had captured the village of Migyaungye which is only 22 miles south of the Minbu oil fields.

The British also reported increasing Japanese pressure between Taunggyingyi, 90 miles north-east of Prom, about midway between the British-defended right flank and the Chinese-guarded left flank of the main allied defense line.

From Australia, United States and Australian fliers blasted anew at Japanese invasion bases at Lae, New Guinea, and Koe-pang, Dutch Timor, attacking ships and airdromes. Four Japanese planes were shot down or damaged.

Algoma Highway Fill Threatened By Flood Water

Portions of the highway which crosses the flooded area north of Algoma were threatened Monday as water washed over the roadbed and in many places took out the banks to the pavement.

A large number of trucks was dispatched to the area by the state highway department and for hours carried rock to the threatened section. Damage was done mostly to the east side of the highway.

Early Tuesday trucks and a paving crew were sent to the area and the repair work started. Traffic was handled in a normal manner over the highway at that point, it was reported.

in other words

by JOHN CLINTON

Except when I see a movie about the desert, get thirsty, go sailing or take a shower, the question of water and its uses rarely enters my consciousness... rarer still "way from my door!"

Consequently when Chuck Duncan remarked that my Hispano-Plymouth would, if its cooling system was disconnected, generate enough heat to warm a neighborhood theatre, I was astonished. And when he topped it by saying that an inefficient cooling system could cost me from 1 to 2 miles per gallon in gasoline, I gave in!

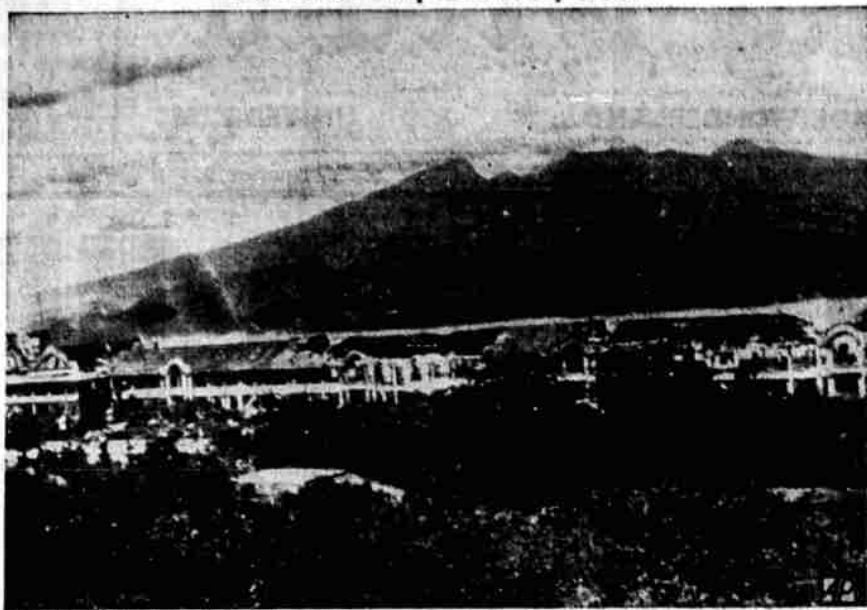

So I hasten herewith to warn you—have your cooling system checked, and have it checked now! Also, have it done by Union Oil Minute Men... and here's why:

First, they flush out the whole cooling system. This removes corrosion, rust, lime, grease and gunk that build up in radiator tubes and keep them from doing a good job of cooling. Next, if your radiator leaks, they use STOP-LEAK. This plugs up the leaks and keeps the water in.

Next, they check your fan belt, water pump, hose connections and the radiator itself. (It's always getting clogged with butterflies, bugs and other fauna.) What's the cost of all this? Well that depends on what needs to be done. But even if you have to have all of it, the cost is very little—almost insignificant compared to the results accomplished.

Remember, then—Radio-Service—Union Minute Men—Do It Now—wherever you see the sign of the big orange and blue 76.

Stars and Stripes Still Fly Here

American soldiers are making their last stand from this island fortress in defense of the Philippines. Lieut. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright reported to President Roosevelt the "flag was still flying on Corregidor." Clark Lee, Associated Press reporter, made this picture looking north from Corregidor across bomb-wrecked roofs to Bataan.

U. S. Air Power Weighed After Tests in Orient

Japanese were under-rated, particularly as regards the number of planes they would be able to throw into an all-out war. They have had numbers where numbers counted. Their bombing forays have been deadly, though their accuracy in high-altitude attacks on many occasions has been miserable.

A recent dispatch from Burma said a Japanese attack on Lashio had left military objectives almost untouched. The bomb loads were dropped from 20,000 feet. Even low-altitude attacks in the Java campaign by the Japanese frequently had indifferent results.

The Japanese frequently have achieved their effects by pattern bombing—covering a considerable area by unloading simultaneously from tight formations—and not by striking at a specific objective. In that respect they have followed the German scheme, which is in sharp contrast to the tactics developed by the British and Americans.

Any criticism of the quality of American airplanes in the Orient revolves around their motive power. The old style P-40, for instance, does not have the climb or ceiling of the much-mentioned Japanese zero fighter. It lacks the Japs' maneuverability. But it is faster and, from reports on the damage it has sustained successfully, can take more punishment.

It also has been established that the American fighter can be divided at greater speeds without coming apart.

MEDIAN AGE IN OREGON OLDER THAN AVERAGE

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)

The median age of the population of Washington and Oregon is much older than the national median, the bureau of census reported. Studies of the last census showed the national median age was 29 years on April 1, 1940 (an increase of 21 years since 1930)—and ranged from 22.2 years in South Carolina to 33 years in California.

In Oregon it was 32.4 years—second highest in the nation; in Washington it was 32.3—third highest in the nation and equalled only by New York.

The median age is that age which divides the population into two equal age groups—one half being older and one half younger than the median. Ordinarily, it is a year or two lower than the arithmetical average of the ages of the population.

"The advance in the median age," the report stated, "results chiefly from . . . lower birth rates and lower death rates in the past decade. Another factor has been the practical cessation of immigration which has permitted the foreign-born population in the U. S. to grow older without replacement by new and younger immigrants."

Treasury Tries Out Nylon in Currency

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)

Got any Nylon money? Treasury officials disclosed today that currency printed on paper containing nylon instead of silk was put into test circulation a few days ago but no one seems to have spotted it.

The first batch of the 100 per cent homemade brand of American money was distributed through the Philadelphia Federal Reserve bank as a test to determine whether it wore as well as the old kind.

General circulation of the new brand, however, must wait until the stock of silk-threaded paper is used up.

Of the missing and dead, 19 were from one of the ships, a medium-sized vessel with a crew of 48. The other craft, a small commercial ship, lost only one man from a crew of 40.

Quotas Suspended On Sugar Imports

WASHINGTON, April 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt today suspended import and domestic marketing quotas on sugar to permit the unlimited marketing of sugar.

Science plays some funny tricks, so—

Colors are not only bright this year, but they're "cooked," too. The story goes like this:

For years scientists have been faced with the problem of preparing colors for roofing or shingling that would not fade under severe weathering. Ordinary roofing, which consists of painted chips of rock, failed to retain its fresh coloring long enough to suit the scientists.

Recently it was discovered that bright colors could be fused into quartz granules under intense white heat which resulted in glistening colors that would not wear off or fade.

The heat under which this process takes place reaches 2350 degrees Fahrenheit, a degree of heat that would easily melt most metals, not to say anyone that might be holding the metal. In fact, the intensity of this heat is six times greater than that used by the housewife in the average cooking or baking.

Mr. Bruce, manager of the local Montgomery Ward store, states that this new type of roofing is being featured in the semi-annual Ward Week Sale.

"Our Bureau of Standards has just put this roofing through some of the most exacting tests imaginable," he says, "and these tests show that roofing or shingling of this type will give satisfactory service for as long as 17 years."

Tonight Ends Registration For Primary has been considerable changing from democratic to republican registration, possibly due to mounting interest in the Sprague-Snell primary governorship contest in which only republicans can vote.

At the last general election, Klamath county had 9129 republicans and 14,208 democrats on its registration books. It will be a few days before the total of the present party registrations will be compiled and ready for announcement by County Clerk Mae K. Short.

Beginning Wednesday, the county clerk may accept applications for absentee ballots.

omatic break with the United States.

These quarters said that Pottain, although remaining chief of state, would become little more than a figurehead, that Vice Premier Darlan would retain only his present post as foreign minister, and that the posts of premier and vice premier would probably be abolished.

With the loss of his navy minister post, Admiral Darlan presumably would have little opportunity to prevent the French fleet from being passed to Germany by the bitterly anti-British Laval, who now becomes France's most powerful figure.

Informed British quarters said the British government took "an exceedingly grave view" of Laval's re-entry into the Vichy government.

Diplomatic sources said Laval's return was a "tactical defeat" for the United Nations' diplomatic campaign, waged through the state department in Washington, to win Vichy from the axis.

WOMEN LEARNING TO DRIVE TRACTOR

The agricultural department of Bonanza high school is sponsoring a course in tractor driving for women and girls of this district to reduce the shortage of farm labor this season.

J. W. Kerns and company have offered their services and will furnish the teacher and part of the equipment free to the students. Farmers close to Bonanza are asked to donate the use of their tractors one half day a week to save the expense of moving one from a distance.

The first lesson was given Friday, April 19, at the Bonanza high school.

The course is complete, featuring three very important points, the first being safety; the second care of the tractor; and the third, hitching and adjusting of farm machinery.

Anyone who wishes further information may get in touch with Raleigh Carothers, the Bonanza agricultural teacher.

Samuel King, Long Resident of Fort Klamath Area, Dies

Samuel Harrison King, 85, for the past 35 years a resident of the Wood River valley area north of Fort Klamath, died in Klamath Falls Tuesday morning following an illness of several months.

He took over a small ranch north of the fort and lived there until his death. For a time he operated a dairy farm and later looked after timber holdings of the Alexander Yawkey Lumber company.

Mrs. King preceded her husband in death one year ago. Funeral services will be announced later by Whitlock's.
