For the purpose of revising and unifying the farm program of Klamath county, with emphasis on uniting the farmers in the "Food for Fighting" demands of the nation, the Klamath grange county council, composed of representatives of all granges of Klamath county, will meet with Lost River grange Wednesday, April 22, at 8 p. m.

In accordance with the plan to make this regular quarterly meeting of the grange council of agriculture, Pomona Master Botens has authorized the calling of the regular monthly meeting of the Pomona agricultural committee to meet in conjunction with the council. Pomona Chairman C. A. Henderson will review the agricultural situation and lead in the consideration of the agricultural program.

Botens who is also president of the council, stresses an invitation to all interested in agriculture, whether members of the grange or not, to be present.

Among other matters of importance to be brought before the council will be recommendations to the Pomona grange, which meets May 9, on matters to be brought before the state grange in June. The committee transportation which attended the regional meeting at Medford, April 15, will report on what farmers may expect during the war period in solution of the farm transportation problems. The special poultry products committee will report on findings in unsatisfactory egg marketing conditions.

Lost River grange will present a short entertainment program, and the ladies of that grange home economics club will act as hostesses in serving refreshments which will be contributed by those in attendance, each to furnish one dish.

Japs 'Didn't Know What Hit 'Em' Says Gen. Ralph Joyce Of Air Raid on Philippines

By DON CASWELL
GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, MELBOURNE, April 21 (UP)—"I'll bet those damned Nips still don't know what hit them . . ."

Those were the words of Brig. Gen. Ralph Joyce, leader of the most spectacular aerial exploit of the war, in telling how American airmen dumped 110 tons of bombs on Japanese ships, troops and bases in the Philippines during a 48-hour "field day"—something in the nature of a picnic.

It was the first detailed accounting of the 4000-mile raid by 13 United States bombers blazing a historic trail into the heart of the Japanese citadel of aggression.

Joyce disclosed that while his rampaging band of flyers was spreading havoc and panic among the Japanese invaders from a secret base in the Philippines, he exchanged general messages with Lieut. Gen. J. M. Wainwright, commander of the beleaguered Corregidor fortress in Manila bay.

Their work done, 12 of the bombers winged back to Australia with more than 25 evacuees from Corregidor who stole away under the noses of the Japanese through a heavy bombardment to the secret rendezvous, along with the 10 crewmen of the only lost plane, a flying fortress bombed while being repaired on the ground.

"The most important military aspect of the mission," Joyce said, "was the frightening effect on Japanese morale and the heartening effect on the Americans and Filipinos still battling strongly on the islands, proving that their comrades still are doing their best to relieve them."

Joyce said the whole plan of the raid was drawn up by Gen. Douglas MacArthur and his staff in the first audacious implementation of his promise when he arrived in Australia to return to the Philippines and drive out the Japanese.

The evacuees from Corregidor, many of them fresh from overrun Bataan peninsula, slipped away last weekend to meet Joyce at the air field he used as an advanced striking base. "They ran a gauntlet of shells arching in from the mainland on two sides and a hail of bombs from Japanese planes."

The mission finished, the passengers were loaded into the flying fortresses and the B-25 bombers, two or three to each plane, which took off Tuesday night and made the return flight to Australia without incident.

The evacuees said Corregidor was crowded for a time by the refugees from Bataan, but they were speedily assigned special duties. At the time of the Japanese break-through in Bataan, they said, morale slumped, but soared quickly with the realization that Corregidor had plenty of food and water to hold out for "quite a while."

A few score American nurses were reported on Corregidor. Joyce, giving a chronological account of the expedition in an interview, said that with the American bomber fleet established at its secret striking base, it went into action Sunday after the crewmen had worked all night turning up their planes and stocking them with fuel and bombs.

They paid their first call on Batangas, south of Manila, where

From where I sit . . .
by Joe Marsh

Every Friday night a bunch of us fellows get together over at Bill Webster's place. We wouldn't miss these weekly get-togethers for anything.

There are seven in the group—Bill Webster, Judge Cunningham, Pete Swanson, Old Doc McGinnis the dentist, and young Doc Mitchell the M.D., the government man Bob Newcomb, and myself.

We don't play cards. We don't sing or carry on.

We just sit quietly and talk—and drink a glass or two of beer.

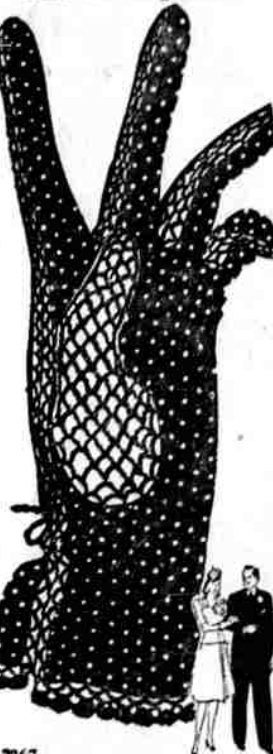

I guess we discuss just about everything under the sun—politics, business, family affairs, music, farming, hunting, fishing, and what not.

But mostly we like to chew the fat about life's experience and a man's philosophy in these times.

To sort of help out the conversation, we've found mellow beer particularly relaxing. Every one of us likes the tangy taste of beer . . . and now and then Judge Cunningham insists on ale for everybody.

Klamath Students Aid in Spring Cleaning at Reed

REED COLLEGE, Portland—Armed this year with sand bags and air raid shelter signs as well as shovels and pick axes, the usual paraphernalia for cleaning up the campus . . . Mary Margaret Scott, Richard Blohm, and Ben Hastings, Klamath Falls students at Reed college, joined with their classmates in making the annual Spring Canyon day a serious effort toward air raid defense.

Organized into squads headed by "captains" and "sergeants," the committees supplemented war safety work with an expeditionary force mobilized to burn brush in the canyon, mark off track fields, and dredge the lake.

As a reward for deserting their books for manual labor, Reed students enjoyed a baseball game, paper chases, movies, and a dance following the work activities. All entertainment was provided on campus to save tires.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By MAURICE O'CALLAGHAN

Probably the most important thing that has happened at the high school in many a moon is the nomination of student body officers for next year.

The nomination made by the nominating committee were announced, and nominations from the floor were made. Out of seven fellows nominated for student body president only two will run, according to information received by these quarters. Two were declared ineligible while three others declined. Jim Noel, and Ralph Foster are the boys who have either declined or have signified their intentions to do so. This leaves on the field just two candidates—Phil Blohm and George Proctor. Out of these two the student body will choose one to lead them next year.

Phil Blohm seems to have the edge on popularity at present.

Mary Landry, Christina Demetrakos, and Marlys Steinsiefer have been named to run for secretary treasurer of the student body.

Nominees for first vice prexy are Don Robin, Don Peterman, Gerald Elnerson, Lester Bishop, and Stanley McGee.

Second vice brought in several names for that position—Bill Wilson, Bill Abbey, Don Noel, Dave Henthorne, Bob Perkins, and Lloyd Chidester.

Thursday has been set as the day for the candidates to appear before the student body and say a few words. This is contrary to the announcement at the assembly Monday which said the named assembly would be held Friday. Many persons in the student body will be away on Friday.

Campaigning was to have started Tuesday. The election will be Monday of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Whitney who have operated the Fairview Cash store at Upham and Sargent streets for 21 years, will retire soon to a farm near Central Point, Ore., Whitney announced Monday.

Whitney, who placed particular emphasis on the fact that his new home would have a "fish pond in the middle of the lawn," said he and Mrs. Whitney had taken over the Central Point farm after three years of looking for a suitable place.

They will move to the seven-acre place as soon as they can dispose of the Fairview Cash stock, probably within a week, Whitney said.
