ILLITERACY IS MAJOR HURDLE IN ARMY BOOST

WASHINGTON, May 30 (UP)—President Roosevelt Friday named illiteracy as a major obstacle in expanding the armed forces—a problem so serious that some 250,000 men, enough for 15 divisions, have been rejected by the army.

He told his press conference there are a startling number of Americans who lack the necessary literacy, education or mentality for service with the army and navy. He said government experts are studying plans to sharpen the wits of these people to the point where they can be of use in the war.

Dr. John W. Studebaker, director of the U. S. office of education, who discussed the problem with Mr. Roosevelt Wednesday, said that 433,000 men who would have been classified as I-A have been deferred because they could not meet army literacy requirements. At least 250,000 of these, he said, are physically fit for active duty.

"This is enough men for 15 divisions," he pointed out.

Studebaker said a program is being worked out with War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt to give the "functionally illiterate basic training in reading, writing and arithmetic." He said the government also is concerned over the problem of literacy from the standpoint of industry. The 1940 census disclosed that 13.7 per cent of the nation's total inhabitants over 25 years of age had not passed the fourth grade.

An educational background of at least a fifth grade standard is required for army induction. During the last year, when this rule was not in effect, approximately 25 per cent of the American army could neither read nor write.

Mr. Roosevelt also told his press conference that he had not yet taken up with Hershey the matter of lowering draft age limits to take in the 18 and 19 year old youths who register on June 30. He plans to discuss the matter at an early date.

ALL POPPIES SOLD BY LEGION GROUP

All poppies were disposed of at the 24th annual Poppy sale of the American Legion auxiliary on May 23, according to Mrs. Carl Schubert, chairman. The entire proceeds of the sale will be used for the benefit of needy veterans and their families.

These poppies were hand-made by the veterans in the Roseburg hospital. Materials are purchased by the department and the veteran is paid at the rate of one and one-half cents per poppy for his work. This provides a small income throughout the year for those able to do this work.

The American Legion and its auxiliary extends their heartfelt thanks to all who assisted in any manner toward making this sale a success, and especially to The Herald and News, KFJL and the Poole theatres for their assistance in the publicity, and to those who so generously purchased the little red flower of remembrance.

SUGAR RATION FOR CANNING FRUIT GIVEN

One pound of sugar will be allowed for each four quarts of finished canned fruits, according to the order received here Friday by the rationing board. One pound per year per person will be allowed for use in making jams, jellies or fruit butters.

No consumer, the ruling reads, is to be allotted more sugar than the board deems reasonable.

Application for the canning sugar should be made at the chamber of commerce rationing board headquarters. All applicants must be registered under the sugar rationing program, and should know how much sugar they used for canning purposes last year.

Those persons who reported sugar on hand and have no ration book, may make an affidavit before the rationing board showing how much sugar was used in canning last year, and receive an adjustment in the record of their sugar supplies, it was stated.

ARMY INAUGURATES TIRE CONSERVATION

WASHINGTON, May 30 (UP)—The army has inaugurated a rubber conservation program that will save 50,000 tons over a two-year period, a war department spokesman revealed Friday as congress heard more arguments for and against nationwide gasoline rationing to save tires.

The army's conservation program was disclosed by Maj. John S. Burgess who told the house interstate commerce sub-committee the seriousness of the rubber problem "cannot be over-emphasized."

Discussing the program, Burgess said that six months before Pearl Harbor a general directive was sent to chiefs of the army procurement branches ordering restrictions to the greatest degree compatible with the army's procurement program. He said the army evolved a simplification program which reduces the total number of tire sizes, "thus making it possible to reduce material in the depot stocks which must be maintained whenever a motorized or mechanized unit is operating."

He said the army also has developed a recapping and retreading system which is expected to save "thousands of tons of natural rubber." The army is conducting a salvaging campaign at posts and camps.

Broadway Showgirl Found Guilty of Slaying Refugee

NEW YORK, May 30 (UP)—Madeline Webb, whose histrionic ability met a cold shudder in Hollywood and on Broadway but found its outlet in a trial for murder, Friday was found guilty of the slaying of Mrs. Susan Reich, wealthy Polish refugee.

An all-male jury which for nearly two weeks had sat impassively through a trial almost unprecedented for its hysterical outbursts from Madeline, ex-Oklahoma country girl, show girl and nude model, recommended mercy for her but none for her paramour, Eli Shounbrun, and John Cullen, a third defendant.

Barring a successful appeal, both Shounbrun and Cullen will go to the electric chair. Madeline's sentence will be life in prison.

Oil Dealer Head Protests Cut in Fuel Deliveries

PORTLAND, May 30 (AP)—Alex G. Riddell, president of the Northwest Heating Oil Dealers' Institute, Seattle, declared yesterday that restrictions on oil for residential heating were unnecessary.

He said supplies on hand were adequate and enough oil could be carried in a 50-car train weekly to meet future needs, whether or not oil tankers operate.

Riddell, who also is president of a fuel company here, urged that gasoline imports be cut rather than heating oil. He estimated 20 per cent of Portland homes would be without adequate heat in winter if restrictions remain in effect.

War Eliminates Annual Classic At Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, May 30 (AP) At the stroke of 10 a. m. today, 33 of the world's fastest race cars roared—oops!—That's not the story from Indianapolis today.

This is 1942—a war year—and the story is that there is no 500-mile automobile race at the speedway.

For the first time in 24 years Indianapolis enjoyed a quiet Memorial day. And automobile race fans only could talk about how Mauri Rose came from far behind to win last year's race. Or perhaps—for the old timers—how Ralph DePalma's car stalled less than two laps short of victory in 1912.

The race, one of the first sports casualties of the war, was called off months ago.

And so the 21-mile oval track, the huge enclosure and the mile-long grandstands were sadly deserted.

Among The Cobras

See the King's Son let himself down into the pit among the Cobras and vipers to rescue Little Rags, the child of the drunken sot—the sot who stoned the King's carriage and muddled the front door of the palace.

Why the King's Son? Because of all who breathe, He alone is viper-proof. The venom could not enter His blood stream. And why rescue such a frail sickly outcast as Little Rags? It is because the King loved every subject in the realm, even to Little Rags and would see them, every one, made fit and clothed in royal robes.

And who are the King, the Prince and Little Rags? In this picture, God is the King; Christ the Prince and Little Rags stands for you and me and all who have ever sinned.

Now turn to the Bible and learn what goes on behind the scenes. The Book shows us as made over and becomes one of a new race dwelling here for a time and over in the glory land forever. Heaven has a new photo of you. It shows your sins lifted off and put on Another, for—"The Lord hath laid on Him—the iniquity of us all." Call the roll. Murderers, thieves, liars, unclean, crooks, vicious, all of us who have sinned stand cleared with not the scratch of a pen against us. One by one, mankind all changed over, so far as they will have it so.

The redeemed of the Lord are under orders to go out as ambassadors and shout to all mankind to face about and see God as the Great Lover. Face about, look his way; see how he has done all he can to prove his love to whoever has defied his right to rule their lives. He has taken away all your guilt and stands waiting to breathe himself into your soul and by that create you anew.

So sure as you go on facing away from the light, the door must at the end close against you. Out there you are forever, with the weeping and the wailing and the anguish.

Do you take clearance on the ground that Christ paid the debt for your sins? You wish no more to serve the world, the flesh and the devil? You count yourself as saved out of the world to live unto God? Then step ahead into your new life, looking to Christ for the power to make it through. Look away from self utterly to Him. Look to Him for Wisdom—Strength—Cheer—Joy—Peace all the way all the day. Geo. N. Taylor, Cloverdale, Ore. This space paid for by an Oregon businessman.
