Preacher Knew How

"You may have five minutes; the man is dying." So said the nurse.

Guest speaker before our '42 graduates on a recent Sunday, Dr. E. B. Hart, Corvallis pastor, told us how he used those few minutes. He had barely reached the bedside before the dying man himself broke in to say that he knew his time had come. This opened the way and the doctor had yet four minutes left.

"Man, you have a worse disease than I. You have sin in your soul."

"It's too late," voiced the inn.

Three and a half minutes left, warned the watch. What word would make clear the way of life to a man hovering on the edge of eternity? This came to mind:

"Man, suppose the doctor who as your case were to step in and say he had the power to give over your t.b. and give you his health. What would you say?" And the sick man said he would be glad. Two minutes left by the watch.

"Jesus Christ waits to take our sins and give you forgiveness and His righteousness." With this the preacher urged the man to a decision and closed with a word of prayer. A plea to the God of all mercy that the man be given power to believe and to be saved. The five minutes were up.

But there was a sequel. A few days of grace were granted to the man. A hurry-up message brought his brother from Oklahoma and his last strength was spent to plead that the brother so might settle on Christ.

SUM IT UP. ONE—A pastor at a fire for souls and five minutes to be with a dying man. TWO—The Holy Spirit throwing the spotlight on the cross and Christ and His dying for our sins. THREE—Christ received and He came in to sup with the man: "Behold I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear My voice and open the door, I will come into him, and I'll sup with him, and he with Me." And out of it the man must tell his brother, just as Andrew sought out Peter with: "We have found the Messiah," a Christ.

So it was that this man went down to the dark river of death and in hand with his Lord he pledged: "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." Like this man, may you also say this same Christ to pilot across to the land where the immortal dwell. He alone can Save-Keep-Satisfy.

NOT SO LARGE

The earth, although vastly large and important to us, is not of much consequence in the solar system. It would be an almost invisible speck to the imaginary inhabitants of Jupiter, Neptune, Pluto, Saturn, or Uranus.

NEWS OF THE THEATRES

Teeming with the type of action which made Jack London world-famous, Columbia's "Adventures of Martin Eden" is currently to be seen at the Esquire tonight at midnight with Glenn Ford, Claire Trevor, Evelyn Keyes and Stuart Erwin. Based upon London's greatest novel, the new film is a savage story of unflinching struggle and warm romance, captured with vivid imagery by an artist during production.

Beautiful new star Peggy Drake plays the romantic lead opposite Jon Hall in the completely charming and unusual picture, "The Turtles of Tahiti," starring Charles Laughton. Jon is holding Black Eagle, a fighting game-cock expected to restore the Turtles' fortunes in the sport which is the consuming passion of the Tahitians. "The Turtles of Tahiti" was written by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, authors of the classic "Mutiny on the Bounty" series. Now playing at the Pelican theatre.

Albert Dekker plays a homicidal maniac in the shock-packed "Among the Living," to be shown for the first time in Klamath Falls Sunday and Monday at the Tower theatre. Dekker, pictured above with one of his victims, blonde Jean Phillips, is co-starred with Susan Hayward, Harry Carey, Frances Farmer and others. Dekker has a dual role, that of the madman, Paul, and also of John Raden, the maniac's sane twin brother.

Veronica Lake is teamed with Joel McCrea in "Sullivan's Travels," which opens Sunday at the Pine Tree.

RED CROSS-CD COOPERATION SET UP HERE

The Red Cross is to cooperate with the Citizens' Defense set-up in case of wartime emergency, but in the event of a natural disaster, such as a flood, the CD will cooperate with the Red Cross.

This was revealed at a meeting of the Emergency Medical Services group of the local CD Friday night at the chamber of commerce, when George Myers, head of the group, read a joint letter from Director James M. Landis of the OCD and Norman H. Davis, national chairman of the American Red Cross.

The arrangement places direct responsibility of command with the local CD during a wartime emergency, and the Red Cross will assist. If a natural disaster occurs, the Red Cross would be in charge and would utilize the local CD set-up.

Myers pointed out that the question of authority had not arisen here, but that in several places in the United States there was some confusion as to which organization was in command. The joint letter from the OCD head and the national Red Cross chairman to every local CD group in the country clarifies the matter, he said.

At the meeting the heads of the various groups in the Emergency Medical Services reported on their activities. All expressed their pleasure with the emergency practice held in two Klamath Falls zones Wednesday night, when simulated disasters and emergency medical service were enacted by the volunteer groups in the zones.

CIO WINS SECOND BALLOT AT MILL

The announcement was made today by George Brown, IWA representative.

Brown said that although the mill employs nearly 150 workers, little more than half of them were eligible to vote. The balance, he said, have been hired since the original ballot some months ago in which no majority was attained by either union.

Thursday the CIO decisively won an NLRB election at the Pelican Bay Lumber company.

Newspapers brought by steamers from the United States were much in demand—and Jimmy, says Galvin, charged $1 a copy.
