COUNCIL URGES CITIZENS TO CUT TALL GRASS

With summer approaching, fire protection took up the interest of the city fathers at council meeting Monday night. Fire Chief Keith Ambrose, emphasizing the danger of fire in grass that is allowed to grow, asked the cooperation of city property owners in cutting grass away from fences, outbuildings and trees.

Grass cut should be stacked, Ambrose said, and the fire department will burn it when it dries.

"It is easy to cut this grass now, while it's still green," Ambrose said, "and it's a terrible job to cut it later when it gets dry and wiry."

Suburban Problem
Suburban fire protection was left largely in the hands of the council fire committee and the fire department, with passage of a recommendation of Fire Chairman Rollin Cantrall, stating that when and if a fire truck goes out of the city limits, not more than two men shall accompany it.

The fire committee, according to the resolution, shall be given power to work with the fire chief in establishing the locations or industries that they may wish to help and protect.

The loading zone problem came up in a new form, as J. H. Robbins presented to council members the difficulties of meeting the government order of defense transportation ruling out of 25 per cent of deliveries.

"A driver, for instance, approaches a loading zone to make his delivery and finds someone else parked there," Robbins said, "so he has to either double park and get a ticket or circle the block again."

Since the purpose of the order is to cut down on use of rubber and gasoline, Robbins said, circling the block only defeats the ruling. Under the ruling, only one delivery can be made to any one merchant in a day.

Bigger Zones Asked
Asked what he would suggest to solve the problem, Robbins said "either bigger parking zones or permit double parking. And I'd like to point out that other towns are disregarding parking rules in this situation."

Councilman Rollin Cantrall warned that any action nullifying the double parking rule be carefully considered, as this rule was made to cut down on accidents.

Only PUC trucks are affected by the government order, Robbins said, which affects some 25 to 30 local organizations. "But we can't circle the blocks all the time and still cut down on mileage," Robbins summed up.

The matter was turned over to the transportation committee and, after discussion with Sam Ritchey's committee on federal transportation, will be acted on at next Monday's council meeting.

Budget Up
Next subject before the council was the city budget, and members passed a resolution to publish the budget this week.

Transfer of funds from the band levy to the emergency police fund was approved, in line with the measure passed at the May 15 primary elections.

Mayor John Houston expressed his and the council's appreciation to City Attorney D. E. Van Vactor, who is leaving "around the 24th" for duty with the armed forces.

Action on the food handlers' problem, laid over from last council meeting, was deferred to next week.

THRIFT . . . An Old Word With New Meanings.

It's a sad truth that many people have always been a little ashamed of being thrifty. There was too much of "keeping up with the Joneses"—too little pride in living within income. • All that is changed now. Good Americans are learning the satisfaction of making a little go a long way—of doing without unnecessary luxuries and services. • These people by the million are joining the ranks of Penney customers—people who have always bought for cash, who have always carried their purchases home—who have always practiced the thrift to which patriotism now compels us all.
