Approximately 1200 Klamath county youths will sign up for military service in the fifth draft registration scheduled to be held from June 27 to June 30, local selective service officials said today.

The registration will be for Klamath males who have reached their 18th and 19th birthday on or before June 30, or who have reached their 20th birthday after December 31, 1941 and on or before June 30. Those who were 20 before Dec. 31 signed up in the fourth registration, officials said.

In Klamath Falls, the registration place will be the Fremont school gym at High and Seventh streets from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on June 30; and the selective service office in the courthouse between 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Saturday, June 27, and Monday, June 29.

County registration places will be the same as previously set up for other "R" days. A complete list will be announced later, the draft office said.

The office said that Don Fisher, national park service officer, will be in charge of the city registration.

Portland Shipyard May Be Post-War Aircraft Factory

PORTLAND, Ore., June 17 (AP)—Portland's speedy shipyard, the Oregon Shipbuilding corporation, may become a cargo-carrying aircraft factory after the war, Assistant General Manager Al Bauer told workmen Tuesday.

Speaking at the launching of the liberty freighter Cornelius Gilliam, Bauer said:

"Edgar Kaiser (vice president and general manager) wired (from Washington, D. C.) that he is working on the third phase (of operation of the yard) and that is the conversion of this yard to the construction of cargo transport airplanes as soon as this war is over and won. The manpower of this yard will not be idle afterward if we have the vision to convert our plant into something our country will need," Bauer continued quoting from his message from Kaiser.

Bauer also said the yard would try to reach a freight ship production pace of 20 days from keel laying to launching. At present the yard needs about 40 days.

Old Oaken Bucket Comes Into Its Own

PORTLAND, June 17 (AP)—That "Old Oaken Bucket" may be a lot more than a sentimental melody before long.

J. Fred Bergesch, state priorities manager for the war production board, learned that a 30 per cent reduction in iron and steel for the manufacture of pails and tubs has been ordered. The logical substitute, he said—wooden pails and tubs.

Committee Passes $8 1/2 Billion Ship Construction Plan

WASHINGTON, June 17 (AP)—A vast $8,550,000,000 ship construction program was approved Tuesday by house naval committee, and Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) disclosed that work had been deferred temporarily on "four or five battleships in order to concentrate on carriers."

He emphasized that the nation had not suspended or abandoned the battleship building program, but declared flatly that events of the war had demonstrated conclusively that the aircraft carrier "is the backbone of the fleet."

He said that this country would need battleships "as long as any other nation has them," and stressed the point that there has only been a "deferral on four or five" of the huge battlewagons once regarded as monarchs of the sea.

Former U. S. Ambassador to Germany Plans for Peace

By DON WHITEHEAD

NEW YORK, June 17 (Wide World)—Down in the canyon of Wall Street slight, gray-haired James W. Gerard is looking ahead to the day when war will end, and this is his formula for a lasting peace:

1. Break up the German reich into impotent atoms which never can coalesce into another dangerous union.

2. Crush the spirit of conquest so completely that it never can rise again.

3. Maintain world peace with an international police force.

The 74-year-old former ambassador to Germany during the first World War has a fighting spirit undimmed by the passing years. To him, peace is something not only to be won—but to be guarded jealously by force of arms so that no nation can wage war on another.

"The only possible solution to a lasting peace," said Gerard in an interview, "is an international army made up of the victorious nations, chiefly the United States, Great Britain, Russia and China."

"And I suggest that Franklin D. Roosevelt be made its commander-in-chief."

Gerard warned the world for years of Germany's growing military might. Soon after Hitler came to power he sensed the war that was to come—and shouted alarms that went unheeded.

And then when his predictions came true, he advocated that the United States help wipe out the Nazi menace. Speaking before a Brooklyn Sunday school union assembly in 1940, Gerard urged immediate U. S. entry into the war, and added: "If eventuality, why not now? We ought to be in this war. If not, we're cooked."

Gerard favors the creation of a Danubian empire composed of Austria, Hungary and possibly a slice of Bavarian Germany, with perhaps a Hapsburg on a restored throne.

"Eastern Germany should be given to Poland. France should have her old territory, and the northern part of Germany should be given to Denmark."

"We want to keep away from the old theory of self-determination of the peoples. That's what caused the trouble after the last war to a large degree. To follow out this thought logically, there are several counties in Pennsylvania which would go to Poland, since their population is predominately Polish."
