

DIRECTORS OKEH VICTORY RODEO SHOW

Ride 'em, Cowboy!
And it's an amateur show that Klamath Buckaroo Days directors decided on at their Thursday night meeting when they discussed final plans for the Victory rodeo scheduled for two days, Saturday and Sunday, July 4 and 5.

Headquarters for Klamath Buckaroo Days will open June 22 at 418 Main street with Mrs. Newt Nelson serving as office secretary.

Lynn Roycroft will announce the two-day show, directors stated.

Mac Barbour's rodeo stock has been signed up for the show and bucking broncs, Mexican steers, roping stock and rubber necked calves will be in the chutes ready for the opening gun. The clown will be the Arizona funster, "Brahma Bill" of Arizona, who appears with his famous trained Brahmas bull.

Entry Rules
Entries from amateur performers will be accepted at rodeo headquarters. Contestants must live in Klamath, Lake, Siskiyou and Modoc counties. It was announced, and must be amateurs at the game of ridin', ropin' and throwin'.

Entire proceeds from the project will go into the troop entertainment fund, directors announced.

Admission prices were set by the directors. General admission, $1; grandstand reserved seats, $1.50; grandstand box seats, $2; children's bleachers, 20 cents. All uncovered bleacher seats will be included as general admission. These prices include all taxes, it was reported.

The big Fourth of July parade planned for Saturday will start on Main street at 10 a. m. The rodeo will start each day at 1:30 p. m. in the fairground arena.

Committee Rejects Proposal on Post War Tax Credits

WASHINGTON, June 19 (AP)—The house ways and means committee, although it has adopted the principle of post-war tax credits to corporations, nevertheless rejected today the first such specific proposal to come to a vote.

Neither Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) nor Representative Cooper (D-Tenn.) would divulge details of the rejected plan, and Cooper told newsmen who sought an explanation of it, "it is too complicated for me to give."

The committee tentatively has decided to boost corporation excess profits rates from the present graduated scale ranging up to 60 per cent to a flat 94 per cent. Administration leaders have pleaded for a reduction in that figure, or at least a provision that part of the taxes be held as a reserve against post-war conversion needs.

Turks Deny German Charges Regarding U. S. Bomber Flight

ANKARA, June 19 (AP)—German charges that four United States bombers forced down last week in Turkey "deliberately flew over Turkey on their way to objectives on the north coast of the Black sea" were denied today after an investigation by Turkish officials.

Reports reaching Istanbul said the big four-motor consolidated Liberator bombers were part of a force which attacked the Rumanian oil center of Ploesti and the Black sea port of Constanta.

Son in Fleet—Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Durkee of Klamath Falls, have just received a letter from their son Russell, who is with the Pacific fleet. The letter, which was mailed at sea after the Midway battle, says he is all right and is having plenty of excitement but can't go into details. It was their first word from him since the battle at Midway.

WAR QUIZ

1. Some sailors wear on their sleeves this insignia showing an open book. Are they teachers, printers, preachers or translators?
2. There is an outstanding hero of the army air force whose name is the reverse of what he accomplished. Who is he and what did he do?
3. Out in Hawaii, Mauna Loa, a huge volcano, recently erupted. What city does it threaten?

Not Clever
"The Japanese are not very clever about bombing," he told a press conference. "If they had a good bombsight and could use it they would be better off. They are using an electrical automatic optical bombsight similar to one I saw in Germany in 1938. It is not particularly accurate.

A formation of 18 heavy bombers, escorted by fighters, was reported by General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters to have unsuccessfully attacked the harbor area of Port Moresby yesterday, "damaging one small ship."

"Our interceptors destroyed one zero fighter and two bombers," the communique said. "We lost two planes in combat."

Hamm Disposes Of Interest in Bottling Company

E. B. Hamm, secretary-treasurer and manager of the Klamath Falls Coca-Cola Bottling company, has disposed of his interests in the local plant to Ray Lamb of Salinas, Calif., it was announced Friday just before Hamm left for Bend.

Lamb, who was here this week to complete the deal, becomes president of the local corporation and largest stockholder in the firm. Hamm, in turn, purchased Lamb's interest in the Coca-Cola Bottling company of Bend and becomes sole owner of that business.

Hamm will remain in Bend for a short time and later report for duty in the United States army, quartermaster corps, procurement division. Mrs. Hamm will remain in Bend where she will handle her husband's business interests.

Did You Look in The Dog House For Scrap Rubber?

The dog house will surely yield a mutilated ball, a rubber bone or a headless doll, and they'll all help the big guns bark sharply at the Japs. You've got just 11 days more to persuade Rover to relinquish them for the rubber salvage campaign.

CHURCHILL HELD SEEKING HELP IN MIDDLE EAST

divert some troops and thus leave the country adjacent to oil-rich Iraq open to nazi air-borne invasions—just at a time when there are increasing reports of German glider exercises in the region of Crete.

2. The Germans probably will start heavy bombing raids on Alexandria, naval base key to the eastern Mediterranean.

3. If the axis can draw away British air and naval strength the axis might try to invade Malta to ease the Italian-German supply route from Italy to Africa.

4. Rommel can be expected to open a big land offensive toward Egypt, Alexandria and Suez when and if he can remove the Tobruk thorn from the axis Libyan flank.

More U. S. Tanks
To forestall all these and to secure the southern supply route to Russia, informed sources said that Churchill would like to have more American tanks, planes and ships in the Mediterranean even if it means—as it probably does mean, because distribution of allied personnel and material is limited by shipping space—a delay in invasion of Europe.

Important political aspects also were pointed out. From the domestic standpoint, if British reverses in the middle east continue, the Churchill government might find itself in the same disfavor as after the fall of Singapore.

In addition, it was said, the prime minister must consider American opinion, which invariably suffers an anti-British turn with every British reverse, and remaining neutrals such as Turkey and Sweden which are strategically situated.

The navy department has asked for national observance of the navy-war bond rally on Friday, June 19. Purpose of the rally is to take enlistments in the navy and to sell enough war bonds in each community to completely maintain and outfit that community's quota of recruits from the time they make application to the time they are aboard ship.

Commandos, Klamath's service organization made up of young women, will be on hand to assist in the sale of war bonds and to aid in the recruiting of young men for the navy.

can be swept by British fire from nearly all angles.

In an attempt to impede these operations, a British communique disclosed, swift mechanized units of Lieut. Gen. Neil M. Ritchie's eighth army swept out from the new border defense line and knifed in behind Rommel's forces in a swift surprise attack from the south.

The communique indicated that the Tobruk defenders were holding strong positions and the post appeared in no immediate danger.

Reestablishment of the Imperial forces followed withdrawals, announced yesterday, from the desert towns of El Adem and Sidi Rezegh, south and southwest of Tobruk, the Mediterranean port which the British have held almost 17 months through offensive and counter-offensive.

tober—would be best suited for operations of a mechanized army. The Japanese want to establish a "security zone," it was stated, against the time when American war production would be translated into a full-scale offensive in the direction of Japan proper.

These quarters said they were convinced that Japan, with this in mind, had two principal objectives—Hawaii and Siberia.

The Japanese defeat in the battle of Midway precluded an attack on Hawaii, they reasoned, and Japan therefore was expected to turn against Siberia.

Fliers Unfold New Chapter in Great Coral Sea Fight

where the enemy was massing for the Coral sea thrust.

It was Capt. John Roberts of Beebe, Arka., however, who was credited with spotting the main Japanese fleet after it took off while he was flying ahead of a Coral sea patrol formation.

"When we arrived they were sitting pretty 20,000 feet below us. There was one aircraft carrier, a seaplane tender, several cruisers and a number of destroyers. Away off we could see another large convoy.

"We came in right behind Roberts and let them have all we had. We scored near misses and a direct hit. One of the cruisers which erupted smoke started to blaze furiously.

Try Escape
"As our bombs dropped, the Japanese aircraft carrier did a 180-degree turn. He really was trying to escape... and so were the others.

"Those Japs threw everything they had at us. They were rocking our plane like a feather. "Soon our naval dive bombers appeared and let the carrier—we learned later it was the Ryukaku—have it. They sank her in five minutes with 15 bombs and 10 torpedo hits.

"That last time I saw the Japanese going southward. They lost heart when they lost their carriers, and they were easy meat without aircraft protection. We got two transports this time with direct hits.
