Motorists Can Delay Plan

ALTHOUGH northwest motorists so far have escaped gasoline rationing, they should remember that national rationing is a possibility during the near future, according to Dr. E. B. McDaniel, president of the Oregon State Motor association, who voices an urgent plea that every automobile user should cooperate in the government's conservation program. He says:

"Two primary needs—rubber and transportation—are the factors which will govern future rationing. If the federal authorities believe that the public is wasting rubber, they may clamp down upon all motorists with strict rationing regulations. If military requirements for tankers and tank cars become acute, and if there are none of these available for transporting motor fuel to non-producing areas, the ration program will become operative.

"Motorists can cooperate so that rationing may be delayed much later than anticipated. They can eliminate all unnecessary driving; they can double-up with their neighbors thus making one car serve the same purpose as three or four; they can use mass transportation at every available opportunity; they can keep their automobiles and tires in the best possible condition.

"If such practices are observed, plus a driving speed never in excess of 40 miles per hour, they will tend to delay the possibility of gasoline rationing. In final analysis the public will be the determining factor of whether the government installs a rationing program soon or late ... or not at all."

Dr. McDaniel emphasized that every motorist should be willing to sacrifice unnecessary or pleasure driving for the welfare of the country as a whole and as an aid to the successful prosecution of the emergency military effort.

DEAR DADDY

Dear daddy, I remember of tales you spoke
Of the foreign land and your own dear folk;
The quaint little towns where the sea gulls would soar,
And where fishing schooners sailed far from shore;
Nightingales too, sang in the still of the night
While the moon and stars cast their ray of light.
The long road, that led to the small swimming pool,
Nestled near nooks that were shady and cool.
There too was the schoolhouse hidden in the glen
Where stern teacher taught you by word and pen.
You've gone from this land, but you'll never forget
The loved ones you knew—you yearn for them yet.
There's a time, dear daddy, that comes to us all;
Many old scenes that we love to recall.
And now as I sit in my old arm chair
Of your childhood home and mine I compare.
But of all the old ramparts that I love the best
Is our first cottage home in the hills of the west,
And so let these affections never depart
Just keep them forever dear to your heart.
By MRS. ELSIE FAUGHT,
1221 E. Main.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

WASHINGTON, June 20—Current suspicions that the British granted a secret clause in their treaty with Russia, promising Stalin all the territory he wanted, cannot be true in view of the inside manner in which the treaty developed.

The still mysterious visit of Lord Beaverbrook to Washington two months or more ago was concerned with this matter. He came over to sound Mr. Roosevelt out on the soviet proposition.

His soundings must have been faulty, for he returned to London with the mistaken notion that Mr. Roosevelt would accept such a grant of territory.

When Foreign Commissar Molotov arrived in London a treaty was actually drawn by the British providing for such a post-war settlement.

But when news of it reached Washington, the mistake of Beaverbrook was officially corrected. This government put its foot down firmly against making any advance territorial commitments of any kind. It could not do otherwise.

The British thereupon tore up the territorial draft, and offered the Russians instead the 20-year mutual defense pact which Molotov was glad to negotiate.

This unofficial explanation of the matter coincides fully with the official statement of Anthony Eden to parliament, and the white paper issued by the British, both of which were flat, airtight denials that the treaty meant more than it said.

NEXT MOVE?

The Chinese think Jap seizure of some of our Aleutian islands forecasts a Jap attack on Russia. Recent Chungking advice assume that the Japs wanted to be able to intercept any American bomber aid or trans-Pacific surface aid to Russia. That is about the only military good the Japs could get out of these islands.

No one here professes to know what the acrobatic statesmen of Japan will try next. But with their sea striking force of aircraft carriers gone, there seems nothing for them to do except to sink their teeth deeper into China and try a land attack on the reds.

WPB REORGANIZATION

The war production board has done its work so well, it is working itself out of business. Another reorganization is in the making. In about 30 days, Chairman Nelson will issue a directive which will take cognizance of the changed functions, coming about gradually now as plants have been completed, changed over, contracts let, etc.

"This darn stuff wouldn't have started if your mother hadn't bought that book on child training and loaned it to mine!"

Both the production and purchasing divisions have been working in the army and navy departments already and their functions will be gradually shifted over. The industrial operations division will be shaken down as there seems to be no need now for refrigerator, washing machine committees and the like.

The whole organization will assume the character of an advisory agency rather than an administrative bureau.

Mr. Nelson, the man who did the job, apparently intends to remain in control, although it has never been officially agreed by the war and navy departments that his executive order gave him power over them.

The single-headed centralized authority certainly straightened out the mess in production with such outstanding success as to invite the adoption of a similar system for the rubber and gas mess, possibly under Mr. Nelson.

TREND-READING HARD

Congressmen, always trying to read political trends, are having some difficulty interpreting the primaries thus far. A strong supporter of FDR's foreign policy (Luther Patrick) was defeated by democrats in Alabama, while a Maine republican isolationist (Rep. James Oliver) was defeated by republicans there.

Iowa republicans defeated a Willkie man, and Illinois republicans renominated an isolationist ("Curley" Brooks) who wisely said "all foreign policy controversy is dead since Pearl Harbor."

But an overwhelming majority of those who have faced the primaries so far have been renominated.

ICKES CLEANS UP

Petroleum Coordinator and Interior Secretary Ickes has begun in a modest way to straighten out his career. In a speech to the Motor Freight association, June 11, he recalled with horror that he had made a speech to the American Automobile association in 1939, saying:

"I have promised some day to give myself the pleasure of driving down a truck-infested road in the biggest armored tank that I can find and bumping those pests off the road."

He apologized, saying he did not know how he could have been so wrong as to underestimate the value of motor transport. Earlier he even made a speech defending congress.

Mr. Ickes is apparently working his way back to correct every

COAST GUARD ASKS BIG ENLISTMENT

The constantly expanding fleet, and activities of the United States Coast Guard requires the immediate enlistment of thousands of men between 17 and 55 years old, who can produce documentary evidence of citizenship, pass the physical examination and submit character references, according to Lieut. Comdr. Ben C. Wilcox, Seattle district recruiting officer.

Many vacancies also exist in the petty officer rates of machinist's mates and motor machinist's mates. Qualifications for the ratings include a working knowledge of gasoline, diesel or steam engines, or ship experience.

Waivers will be requested on portions of the physical examination for men in the older age bracket who have minor physical defects, Commander Wilcox said.

Prospective enlistees, if married, must have the wife's consent. Minors must have the written consent of their parents before enlistment can be completed.

Coast Guard recruiting offices are at Room 37, Federal office building, Seattle; Room 411, Post Office building, Tacoma; Room 246, Post Office building, Spokane, and Room 301, Pioneer Post Office, Portland.

Russ Denounce German Sentencing In Bomb Attack

MOSCOW, June 20 (AP)—The Russian press denounced Friday as "shocking" the sentencing at Ankara of two soviet citizens charged with complicity in a miscarried bomb plot against the German ambassador to Turkey, Franz von Papen.

The defendants, Georgi Pavlov and Leonid Kornilov, were convicted Wednesday at the Turkish capital and each was sentenced to 20 years imprisonment. Two co-defendants, naturalized Turks from Yugoslavia, who testified for the state, were sentenced to 10 years each.
