Father's Day

Tomorrow is Sunday, June the twenty-first. It will probably dawn like any other Sunday in the year but it is really a special day. Special because it is Father's Day, observed locally and nationally. Best observer of all will be Father who will take the advantage to oversleep and enjoy with undisguised approval all the pampering he should have had throughout the year but officially gets but this next Sunday.

Men's shops have been busy wrapping the traditional gifts of shirts, socks and ties. Luckier Fathers will get fishing tackle and gadgets to use in pet hobby fields. Telegrams will come thick and fast from sons and daughters away from home. Mother seems to get the lion's share of attention. Especially with sons off to war. But Father helped raise the Johnnys and the Jimmys who are in uniform, too! Don't forget it.

So here's to Dad. He's a marvelous American institution!
