

BATTLE MOVES TOWARD HEART OF NILE VALLEY

full fury of his forces against the British at 5 p. m. Saturday—his favorite hour for launching attacks to the east.

The battle then developed into fast moving fights between tanks and mobile artillery, the latter being shifted from position to position the better to strike at opposing tanks. Mobile infantry has been used mainly to occupy points after rounding up prisoners.

Full Moon
A full moon permitted the fight to continue through Saturday night and last night with scarcely any waning in intensity. The great Egyptian moon, shining on the glistening sands, makes it bright enough to read a newspaper but produces curious shadow effects which pose problems for gunners and tank crews.

Today's dawn found the battle for Egypt, now in its third day, moving deeper toward the valley of the Nile with one big battle swirling into the desert southeast of Matruh. British headquarters here announced.

British and United States bombers, blasting hard and often at the advancing axis forces, ranged over the eastward moving axis columns all weekend, setting afire numerous tanks between Salum, near the Libyan border, and Matruh.

CITY RUBBER HEAP IS 340,000 POUNDS

Sunday's combined Boy Scouts canvass and intra-house "treasure hunt" added 8000 pounds to Klamath Falls' scrap rubber total and filled Saturday's collections, brought the city's rubber heap to approximately 340,000 pounds, it was announced today.

R. O. Snodgrass, chairman of the city campaign, said that in line with President Roosevelt's proclamation extending the nationwide drive until July 10, Klamath all dealers would continue to make collections until that date.

He said that with the added ten days, the city's goal is now 425,000 pounds.

Snodgrass said that he had no word of local service stations being closed tomorrow afternoon so that operators and employees may make a house-to-house canvass. He said that Sunday's street-by-street canvass, conducted only in Klamath Falls, took the place of a similar campaign scheduled for other sections of the state tomorrow.

(H. H. Ramsey, state chairman of the petroleum committee in charge of the rubber drive, said in Portland today that gasoline sales would be suspended during Tuesday afternoon and that stations would either be closed or prepared to give emergency service only).

Of the total passenger list, 549 persons were listed as United States citizens, including Frank P. Lockhart, former consul general at Shanghai.

Repainting, Redecorating Allowed as Maintenance

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Repainting and redecorating without specific authorization are permitted under the terms of Conservation Order L-41 when they constitute "maintenance" or "repair," the war production board stated this week, according to the state priorities manager.

Conservation Order L-41 places all civilian construction under rigid control. The intent of the order is to reduce non-essential construction to a minimum so that all possible material, equipment and effort will be available for use in direct war production. To comply with this, all construction work—including repainting and redecorating—which is not absolutely necessary, should be deferred to the duration.

In drawing the order, the war production board made allowances for ordinary maintenance and repair work to return a structure to sound working condition without a change of design. Changes in material or type of equipment are permitted if the architectural or structural plan is not substantially altered in effecting the change.

Thus, repainting and redecorating needed to maintain an apartment, home or office in reasonably satisfactory condition or to return it to that condition is permissible. For example, if a new tenant occupies an apartment, home or office which has been left in an unsatisfactory condition by the previous occupant, the landlord may redecorate. Also ordinary redecorating, which is done as part of a customary maintenance program, is permissible.

On the other hand, unnecessary repainting or redecorating either by the landlord or the tenant dictated merely by a change in taste is certainly not the kind of repainting or redecorating which constitutes permissible maintenance or repair under the order. It should be kept in mind that the intent of the order is to limit maintenance and repair to that which is absolutely necessary to keep a structure in sound working condition or to restore it to that condition.

Since material, equipment and labor are needed for essential military construction, they should not be expended on non-essential civilian work. When the army and navy are trimming their own construction programs to make material available for direct production of munitions, even greater consideration should be given by civilians in their demands for material to be used in work not even indirectly related to the war.

The policy of the war production board in respect to maintenance and repair, as defined in L-41, is consistent with the requirement of the office of price administration that landlords carry out customary repairs, maintenance and repainting for tenants once a rent ceiling has been set.

Questions and Answers
Q. I rent an apartment for $100 a month. For a number of years it has been the custom of my landlord to repaint and redecorate every two years. This custom was taken into consideration by the OPA when it set a rent ceiling of $100 on my apartment. However, my landlord has informed me that he is not permitted by Conservation Order L-41, issued by the war production board, to repaint or redecorate, even though such work is included in the rent ceiling set by OPA. Is this correct, or should my landlord continue his customary repainting and redecorating program?

A. Since your rent ceiling has been set by the OPA and repainting and redecorating has been done as a part of a customary maintenance program by your landlord, there is nothing in L-41 which prohibits your landlord from continuing such maintenance work.

Q. Suppose my landlord refuses to repaint or redecorate after this has been pointed out to him, what should I do?

A. Take up the problem with your OPA area rent director.

Q. My landlord promised to build a bookcase in my apartment and I, accordingly, signed an extension to my lease. He tells me that he is not permitted to build the bookcase because he is limited to spending less than $500 for new construction during any continuous 12-month period. Is that correct?

A. He is correct in saying that less than $500 in the apartment building, beyond that limit specific authority must be obtained. The manner in which he spends the amount up to $500 is not regulated by the terms of L-41.

Q. Does the $500 limit apply just to my apartment or to the entire apartment building which has fifty additional apartments?

A. The limit applies to the entire building.

Q. Suppose my landlord wants to build my bookcase, what should he do?

A. If completion of this job will not use up the $500 limit for the apartment building, he may go ahead without authorization. If, however, the job will mean that he will exceed the $500 limit, he should fill out application form PD-200, available at local FHA field offices, requesting permission to construct the bookcase. Both you and your landlord, however, should remember that construction work which is not absolutely necessary for the health and safety of tenants should be deferred for the duration to make the material, equipment and labor available for direct war production.

RUBBER CAMPAIGN EXTENDED 10 DAYS

Early said. It compares with a total of 100,438 tons collected during the first six days of the campaign, which began June 15.

Hoarding
Ickes told reporters that he thought part of the lack of success of the scrap rubber campaign was due to hoarding, and he said there might even be people in official life who were doing a little hoarding.

Boyd reported that New York still had the lowest per capita contributions to the rubber campaign and Nevada the highest. From the bottom up, he listed the lowest per capita states as New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Alabama and the District of Columbia. The highest, from the top down, were Nevada, Montana, Idaho, Oregon and North Dakota.

State Gets Special Investigator to Control Explosives

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP)—A special investigator has been assigned to Oregon by the bureau of mines as part of a program to control non-military explosives and to forestall sabotage.

The program is nationwide and 46 of the 50 men already are on the job, including William F. McDonald with headquarters at Salem.

Dr. R. S. Rayers, director of the bureau, ordered the investigators, acting under the authority of the war-time federal explosive act, to cooperate fully with the federal bureau of investigation, the army and navy intelligence and other federal agencies as well as with local offices.

Their primary task will be to investigate disasters and accidents involving explosives.

Spy-Saboteur Band Rounded Up by FBI

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP)—Seizure of "several contacts and associates" of the band of eight nazi spy-saboteurs landed by U-boats on the east coast was announced last night by the FBI, which promised more arrests within a few days.

New developments in the startling case of the eight German agents submarine-borne to Long Island and Florida beaches with explosives intended to wreck vital American industries included the discovery of an additional cache of $20,000, increasing the total of "pay-off money" carried by the saboteurs to $170,000.

Neither the number nor the names of the persons arrested as aides of the invading saboteurs were disclosed by Earl J. Connelley, assistant to FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, in announcing the new roundup 24 hours after Hoover had revealed the capture of the agents bent on a two-year campaign of destruction against the American war effort.

DOLEFUL DRIBBLE

MARTINEZ, Calif., (AP)—A big truck rolled along the highway to Stockton, loaded with kegs of nails.

A couple of the kegs shook loose; others rattled around. Nails began dribbling out.

An incomplete count over the 50 miles showed 30 mournful motorists looking glumly at flat tires. One large truck at the roadside had six flats.

Japs who take a look at their navy these days only see the half of it.

GENERAL RATIONING PROGRAM FORESEEN

items and the committee said that several were in "two of the basic cost of living groups which means" a general rationing program.

Real Danger
Henderson, expressing belief there was "a very real danger" that "our present price ceilings will not hold," told the committee:

"What we will be able to do rests on the tax bill, and not only the amount of it but the nature of it, how much is withdrawn from current spendable income. It depends upon the amount of savings; it depends on the degree to which wages are stabilized; and it depends upon the course of farm prices, and it depends upon the rate at which the war effort proceeds."

Henderson repeatedly told the committee that transportation, rather than availability, was responsible for the sugar rationing and said that the war shipping administration had "very definitely indicated there are items preferred above sugar."

Testifying on June 11, Henderson had this to say about plans to aid automobile dealers whose cars were frozen and rationed:

"That is one thing for which I have special responsibility that I feel that we have not done a good job on. I think that the government is going to take appropriate action. Either we will let the dealer sell the cars to a pool or else the government will make an offer for them, to take them over for transportation purposes."

Roger Dwyer, 9, Injured in Crash

Roger Dwyer, 9, Langell valley resident, was painfully injured at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon when struck by a car operated by Alvin L. Martin, 22, 1330 East Main street. Young Dwyer was thrown 30 feet at the intersection of Oak and South Sixth street and moved by ambulance to the hospital where his injuries were reported not serious.

Police arrested Martin, mill worker, on a charge of reckless driving, on which he was fined $25; improper plates, $5, and no operator's license, $15. Officers said the Dwyer youth with two boys named Belton and Armstrong, were crossing South Sixth street at the time of the accident.

Oregon Buses To Maintain Schedule

PORTLAND, June 29 (AP)—Vacationists planning trips to Oregon beaches will find buses running on regular schedules throughout the summer.

Herman O. No Oregon buses are operated on this basis, Sites said.

PLANE MECHANICS INTERVIEWS TODAY

Airplane mechanics, in a wide field range, are needed desperately by the United States army air corps and men and women between the ages of 17 to 45, in good physical health, American citizens and with ability to pass examinations, are urged to enroll in these classes.

Lillian Van Loan, of the Eugene vocational school, will be at KUHS, room 204, Monday afternoon and from 7 to 10 p. m. in order to interview applicants and give immediate tests. Those wishing to take tests later must contact Eugene. Mrs. Van Loan announced trainees would be paid $75 per month until they complete the courses, which vary from six weeks to six months. Crafts include aircraft engine mechanics, aircraft propeller mechanics, instrument mechanics, electricians, sheet metal, welder, machinist, painter, leather-canvas workers, wire-worker, cable splicer and aircraft hydraulics.

supremely important ONLY until the range of land-based aircraft is EXTENDED.

Authorities, such as Severson, whose "Victory through Air Power" is the latest textbook on the subject, set five years as the limit of this transitional period. When the range of land-based aircraft is sufficiently extended, they say, the carrier will be as out-of-date as the battleship now appears to be.

In this connection, note Saturday's raid by a U. S. naval "task" force on Japanese-held Wake Island (announced in today's dispatches).

The damage was done by PLANES from the navy's carriers.

In the old days the navy's heavy ships would have steamed up to Wake and battered down its defenses with big guns. Now it sends in its planes to do the job.

Dispatches from the Kharkov front said last week's German drive through Kupiansk, 80 miles southeast of Kharkov, had been blunted and that Russian troops had taken the offensive, throwing tanks, planes and even an armored train into the battle. The Germans were retreating in some areas, the reports said.

House economy bloc leaders promptly announced they would seek to cut the $75,000,000 at least in half. The house appropriations subcommittee recommended $95,000,000 to the full committee, on the part of Rep. Johnson (D-Okl.), cut off $20,000,000.

The committee explained a $1,000,000 office of censorship cut by saying it had no criticism of that agency or its plans for a total personnel of 17,890, but believed the amount approved would be adequate. Should more be needed, it added, "consideration can be given" to a supplemental appropriation.

The committee wrote into the OPA section a ban against "the purchase of evidence of violations of the law." This, committee members said, was intended to prohibit the employment of paid "snoopers."

battleships, three or four other heavy cruisers, a light cruiser and four transport or cargo vessels. Another transport or cargo ship was listed as probably sunk.

That meant: 10 ships known sunk, two believed sunk and between 10 and 12 damaged.

The carrier losses included the destruction of 275 Japanese planes and their crews.

An Associated Press staff man who witnessed some of the Midway battle from a cruiser reported later that the Japanese fleet included five carriers. So only one of them got away.

"The personnel losses on the ships sunk," the navy's statement added, "is known to have been extremely heavy and ships receiving bomb hits probably suffered heavy losses in this respect."

WASHINGTON, June 29 (AP) Uncle Sam tomorrow will register some 3,000,000 youths of the 18 to 20 year age group for possible military service under the selective service system.

When that registration is completed, the government will have a record of about 43,000,000 men—every male in the country between 18 and 65 years of age.

The youngsters registering tomorrow will be given the same set of questions already answered by their elders. They will be asked their name, residence and mailing addresses, date and place of birth, and their employer's name and address.

Nazis Planted Explosives in U. S.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, announced that these boxes of explosives were planted on a beach near Jacksonville, Fla., by Nazi agents who landed from a submarine via rubber boats. Eight of those landed thusly were apprehended and are in custody. This FBI photo shows the boxes of explosives still in the hole on the beach.
