

BROAD WAGE STABILIZATION POLICY VOICED

ing, granted union security through a maintenance of membership clause combined with a checkoff (collection) of union dues by the companies.

Writing the principal board decision on wages, Dr. George W. Taylor said the members had paid heed to President Roosevelt's anti-inflation program and the board "has determined that the following guiding principles should be applied in evaluating claims for wage increases:

"1. For the period from January 1, 1941, to May, 1942, which followed a long period of relative stability, the cost of living increased by about 15 per cent. If any group of workers averaged less than a 15 per cent increase in hourly wage rates during or immediately preceding or following this period, their established peacetime standards have been broken. If any group of workers averaged a 15 per cent wage increase or more, their established peacetime standards have been preserved.

"2. Any claim for wage adjustments for the group whose peacetime standards have been preserved can only be considered in terms of the inequalities of the substandard conditions specifically referred to in the president's message of April 27, 1942.

"3. Those groups whose peacetime standards have been broken are entitled to have these standards reestablished as a stabilization factor.

"Due Consideration"
"4. The board, as directed by the president in his April 27 message, will continue to give due consideration to inequalities and the elimination of substandards of living."

"5. Approximately 20 wage disputes, still pending before the board, were certified prior to the stabilization date of April 27. The question arises in these cases whether wage rates being paid on April 27, 1942, can or cannot be considered as 'existing rates' within the meaning of the president's message, or whether they then had the tentative character of disputed rates. Due regard must be given to any factors or equity which would be arbitrarily swept away by a change of rules in the middle of the game."

"The guiding principles outlined above insure, in general, that claims for wage rate adjustment can be considered on an equitable basis and in a manner which will further the national purpose to stabilize the cost of living."

Token Adjustment
The four labor members said the majority deliberated "with a fixed intention" to make only a token wage adjustment.

Philip Murray, president of the CIO and of the United Steel Workers, declined comment pending the meeting of the union's policy committee in Pittsburgh today but the executive committee of five locals at Bethlehem, Pa., expressed approval and said the situation in that steel center was "tense and explosive."

Thirteen Safe as Navy Patrol Boat Runs Ashore in Fog

Aground in the sand near San Francisco's Golden Gate, an 83-foot Navy patrol boat is shown lying on the beach after its crew of three officers and 10 men were brought ashore by breeches buoy. Fog was given as the cause of the grounding near the Seal Rock "graveyard," where the freighter Ohlson and the ill-fated tanker Frank Buck ran aground. Note the breeches buoy near the boat's bow.

NAVY ANNOUNCES BOMBING OF KISKA

army post at Fort Glenn about 70 miles west of Dutch Harbor on the island of Unimak.

The old station ship Northwestern was lost in the attack on Dutch Harbor early last month when it was hit by bombs and burned and some damage, although of a minor nature, was done to American shore installations.

In addition to the 44 army and navy dead, there were 49 army and navy personnel injured and one civilian killed so far, the announcement said.

No Change
The navy's review of the situation in the Aleutians said that "there has been no material change in the general situation" since July 11.

Several new bits of information were added to what previously had been announced. These included:

That the force which attacked the Aleutians on June 3, the day before the Japanese attack on Midway in the Hawaiian group, consisted approximately of two small carriers, two seaplane tenders, several cruisers and destroyers and from four to six transports.

At the time of the Dutch Harbor attack three United States destroyers, an army transport, a mine sweeper and a coast guard cutter were in the harbor in addition to the Northwestern, which had been beached and was used as barracks for contractors' personnel.

Second Time
On June 4, the same day the American planes counter attacked, the enemy's carrier-based bombers and 16 fighters attacked Dutch Harbor and Fort Mears for the second time and simultaneously assaulted the army post, Fort Glenn, where nine enemy fighters strafed shore installations. Two of the fighters were shot down and the other seven withdrew "without inflicting damage."

On June 12, enemy ships were observed at both Attu and Kiska, islands at the tip of the Aleutian chain, and about 20 tanks and temporary structures were observed on the shore at Kiska.

Meanwhile, numerous air attacks had been made on enemy shipping and these were continued in subsequent days. Then on July 6 the army planes dropped 56 bombs on the enemy's Kiska installations but the navy did not relate what results were obtained, if they were observed at all.

The review summarized the enemy's losses as three destroyers and one transport sunk and four cruisers, three destroyers, one gunboat and one transport damaged. This summary did not include a report informally made several weeks ago by Lieutenant General Henry H. Arnold of the army air forces that an aircraft carrier had been damaged and a cruiser sunk.

Counting both the navy and army reports, the toll of Japanese ships in the area now stands at nine damaged, one believed sunk and five sunk.

In addition, the navy communiqué disclosed today, "at

DECISION ON CHIEF EXPECTED MONDAY

Armed service calls have been making inroads on the department, as well as attractions elsewhere. It is understood Red Melhorn may soon go to the service, and Robert Elder this week took a job as juvenile officer for Jackson county.

It appears the chief will have to do considerable work on the street to make up for possible manpower shortages, and that he will be confronted with new men in various department jobs.

Woman Charged With White Slavery Released on Bond

Pearl Leona Lee, believed to be a resident of Idaho and accused of a white slavery charge, has been released from the Klamath county jail on $1500 bond, it was learned today.

The sheriff's office said that the woman was picked up here on an Idaho warrant by federal officers. E. E. Driscoll acted as her attorney in posting of the bond.

Exact nature of the charge was not known here.

Broach, 45, Held On Contributing Charge Here

Lee Broach, about 35, rested in the Klamath county jail this afternoon, charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Justice court officials said the offense involved a three-year-old girl.

He waived preliminary hearing in justice court and was bound over to the grand jury. He was committed in lieu of a $2500 or $5000 cash bond.

SLOW DOWN
NEW YORK (AP)—Theodore Stamatis burned up more than the road when he sped along the West Side highway at 70 miles an hour.

"You act as if you never heard of gasoline rationing," observed Magistrate Charles E. Ramsgate in traffic court.

The magistrate himself was so burned up he fined Stamatis $50, five times the usual penalty for speeding.

AXIS, MILLION STRONG, GAINS IN SOUTH AREA

Germans were unmindful of these losses, throwing in more men and machines strongly supported by air forces, as they advanced upon Stalingrad, now less than 175 miles from the flaming front, and Rostov perhaps 130 miles to the southwest.

At Voronezh, Russian chances lightened with every new counterattack the stiffened red army forces were throwing against the invaders.

But the Germans apparently were still clinging to positions at the west side of the city. And the danger to the city from the south, where Hungarian infantry and cavalry were attacking at the confluence of the Don and Voronezh rivers, was not lessened.

The soviet information bureau estimated that Adolf Hitler already had lost 900,000 men in 60 days of spring and summer warfare.

Prosecution Closes Case Against 4 Of 8 Saboteurs

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP) The prosecution completed its case today against four of the eight submarine-landed nazis now on trial before a military commission here.

These four were those who landed on Long Island. Still to be completed is the prosecution's case against the four who landed in Florida.

Major General Frank R. McCoy, president of the military commission, made the announcement of progress and also said that the reading of a long document begun yesterday afternoon was completed at this morning's session.

Meanwhile U. S. attorneys in three districts drafted formal charges against 10 of the 14 persons recently apprehended as accomplices of the men on trial here.

Frank Campbell, manager of the auto court in which the body was found, said a man and Miss Hammer registered at his place Tuesday morning as Mr. L. B. Gireth and wife.

Yesterday morning, Campbell told police, the man came to him, said his wife was ill, and asked that the bed not be made up that day.

Miss Hammer was dead then, it appeared, as a coroner's deputy said today when the body was discovered, that she had been dead two days.

(more than 12,000 miles to New York) the IMPROVED weapon has been slow in getting into the hands of the British forces on the fighting front.

The Germans, MUCH CLOSER to their sources of supply, have been able to get their improved weapons (embodying the lessons of actual battle experience) into action MUCH QUICKER.

Showing again the advantage of short inside lines of communication.

EXCEPT for U. S. air raids in China, news from the Pacific is quiet. Our own navy is still telling us about the battle of Midway, and by way of passing the time and keeping us interested may decide to go back into the details of the battle between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis.

This writer has the feeling that UNDER THE SURFACE big events are stirring in the Pacific. Obviously the navy can't tell what it is doing IN PREPARATION for these events.

One enemy plane trying to intercept our formation was shot down. One of our fighters was lost but the pilot was saved. There was no damage to our bombers.

"On July 16 allied bombers with a fighter escort attacked the waterfront at Hankow with very satisfactory results."

Three Neutrals Involved in Belligerent Acts

The Swedish Red Cross ship Stureborg, sunk in the Mediterranean, had sailed with a safe conduct guarantee from both the axis and the allies to carry food to Greece and that the air attack on it was a "direct violation" of the assurances. Whose violation it was, however, he did not say.

One Saved
The embassy had announced yesterday that the Stureborg was sunk near the British island of Cyprus with a loss of all but one of her crew of 20. An informed British source said no British planes were anywhere in the neighborhood at the time and that the axis "undoubtedly" was to blame.

The Swedish spokesman said that "proper representations" would be made to the guilty belligerent.
