

PICTURE NEWS
of the
WEEK

First Pictures Show Life in Tulelake Evacuee Center

NEWELL IS THE NAME—Proud Mrs. Kumiko Noda, 23, evacuee from Florin, California, holds her new son, Newell Kazuo Noda. Baby Newell arrived at 6:12 a. m., Sunday, June 12, and was the first child born at the war relocation authority center for evacuees of Japanese descent at Newell, on Tule lake.

FLOWER SEED BUYER—Nancy Motomatsu, 11, chooses a package of petunia seed from the assortment in the general store at the center. Nancy, prior to evacuation, attended the seventh grade at Woodenville, Washington. The evacuees have been busy landscaping areas in front of their quarters.

PRIZE WINNER—Shinkichi Kiyono, 36, evacuee from Longview, Washington, exhibits the cabinet which won him first prize of a plane in a furniture building contest. All pieces of furniture were made from scrap lumber.

JAPANESE CABINET WORKER—Cabinet worker's saw, is expertly used by Jime Kabayashi, 62, on the interior construction of general store No. 2 at Tule lake war relocation authority center for evacuees of Japanese descent. Jime, prior to evacuation, had resided in Sacramento for 24 years and has been a carpenter for 42 years.

GENERAL STORE SALESGIRL—Lillian Hirakke, 18, evacuee from Seattle, Washington, shows a sweater to a prospective buyer in the general store at the Tule lake war relocation authority center for evacuees of Japanese ancestry.

COMIC BOOK FANS—Four little evacuees from Sacramento read comic books in the news stand at the war relocation authority center for evacuees of Japanese descent at Tule lake.

Here are More Pictures of Klamath Falls Men Now Serving Their Country in the Armed Forces

CRAMER IN SERVICE—Keith Cramer, well known Klamath radio man, is shown as he appears as a member of the navy's construction outfit. He recently went north through Klamath Falls.

IN ALEUTIANS—Sterling B. Doege, above, is a Klamath Falls man serving in the Aleutian islands. He volunteered one year ago, and is a private, first class.

PROMOTED—Staff Sgt. James R. Peters, son of Mrs. Hazel Peters, Lakeview, Ore., and grandson of Mrs. Dora E. Givan, Klamath Falls, according to latest word has been promoted to technical sergeant. Technical Sergeant Peters is stationed at Presidio of Monterey, California, and is 21 years old. He is sergeant-major and first sergeant of the U. S. army station hospital at Presidio.

GETS ORDERS—Sergeant Clifford L. Sanders has been ordered to the anti-aircraft officers' training school at Fort Davis, N. C. Son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Sanders, 1720 Menlo way, Sanders will come out of his new training as a second lieutenant. He is a graduate of KUHS, and has been stationed at Fort Stevens since September, 1940.

NEW RANK—Raymond D. Cottrell is a corporal now. Graduate of 1939 from Klamath Union high school, he is the son of D. R. Cottrell of 9 McLean street. Raymond left here two years ago with the national guardsmen, and has been stationed at Fort Stevens with the coast artillery ever since.

MATHER GRAD—Wendell Currier, 112 South Eleventh street, Klamath Falls, has received his pilot's wings and permanent rating as staff sergeant after graduation from the west coast training center's advanced flying school at Mather Field, California.

CHOSEN—Sgt. Lewis McAninch was chosen from a group of applicants at Fort Warren, Wyo., for physical training officer in the air corps, and has been transferred to Miami Beach, Fla. McAninch is the son of F. P. McAninch of Klamath Falls, and brother of Mrs. Fred Smith.

SHIP'S COOK—William I. (Bill) Edmunson, former Klamath high athlete, has been promoted to ship's cook, third class, after four months in a school at Pearl harbor. Edmunson was attending the local high school when he joined the navy two days after the Pearl harbor attack.