

RAILS PARTLY STABILIZE DULL MARKET DAY

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, July 30 (AP)—

Rails again acted as a partial stabilizer for today's stock market although falling to inspire a great deal of recovery in other sections.

Transfers were around 250,000 shares.

Falling profits for industrial companies, due to heavy tax provisions and other costs, plus chances of reduced or eliminated dividends, continued to restrain buyers.

Stocks in front the greater part of the time included Santa Fe, Chesapeake and Ohio, Union Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line, Bethlehem Steel, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Kennecott, General Electric, Standard Oil (N.J.) and American Telephone.

U. S. Steel steadied after yesterday's stumble. Backward were Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Woolworth, J. C. Penney, Du Pont, Union Carbide and American Can.

Propping the rails were the Union Pacific figures showing six months' net of $5.55 a common share versus $1.70 in the same 1941 stretch.

Bonds turned uneven, as did commodities.

WHEAT

CHICAGO, July 30 (AP)—After fluctuating erratically above and below previous closing levels most of the session, wheat prices turned definitely lower just before the close, losses of a cent or more carrying quotations back to around lows for the season.

Selling was blamed on dealers placing hedges against limited amounts of wheat offered to the commercial trade and on lagging flour demand. Sporadic buying came from previous short sellers.

War news continued to unsettle the market and wheat weakened later with corn, which was depressed, traders said, by expectations that the government price for feed wheat will be lowered in order to push this grain into livestock consumption.

Wheat closed 1-1/2c lower than yesterday, September $1.17-1/2, December $1.20-1/4; corn 1-1/2c down, September 89-1/2c, December 92-1/4c; oats unchanged to 1c off; soybeans 1c down to 1c higher; rye 1-1/2c lower.

Crescent Lake

William Delbrugge has as his guests at Delcrest ranch his sister, Mrs. Anna Foegeding and his sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Delbrugge, both from near St. Louis, Mo. They drove out last week. Mrs. Delbrugge is enjoying her visit to the west. She will leave soon for Camp Haan, Calif., where her son, Orville, is stationed at present. Mrs. Foegeding will remain here for an indefinite stay. She has been coming west for five years or so, hoping to kill an Oregon muletail buck and plans to spend the hunting season this year partly in the Walker rim country.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Aulkins and their son from Tulare, are spending some time at their cabin on Crescent lake. They took friends from California and Mrs. Alida Machen up to Summit lake last week and came back with five large trout. This is doubtless one of the semi-annual good catches which come out of this lovely lake on top of the Cascades. Many a fisherman has used a choice collection of oaths on that lake, when its large fat trout refused to even nudge a tempting bait or rise to a fly.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Turnbull of Eugene spent Sunday at Wildercrest. Turnbull is the recently appointed OPA head for the six counties east of the mountains, with headquarters in Eugene.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Morrison left last week for Eugene, where Morrison has entered the government school there, studying electrical welding. They have taken an apartment there and will remain until the completion of this course. Morrison has been employed by the Southern Pacific at the club house here. His place has been taken by Paul Boyles, of Halfway, who is living with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morrison in Crescent Lake.

Perry Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morrison, returned home Saturday from a visit with relatives in eastern Oregon.

Sixteen hundred ewes and lambs belonging to Martin Daly of Crescent and Terrebonne country, trailed in last week to Wilderness ranch, where Daly has rented 600 acres of range this summer. Lambs look in excellent condition and feed is better than for some years. Late rains seem to have kept it greener and better than usual. Daly has one band of sheep at Crescent also. He expects to ship lambs next month, some of which may leave from Unli sliding, five miles south of here.

Charles Page of Fall Creek trucked a load of fat cattle to market in Eugene from his range at Black Rock ranch last Friday.

Roy Temple is putting in a concrete and rock dam on Trapper creek above Cascade Summit, for the Southern Pacific railroad. This is designed to give plenty of water for locomotives at this point where engines off double-headed trains from the valley turn on the tunnel. Y. Much trouble with ice in winter has been experienced, and it is hoped the new installation will eliminate much of this.

H. J. Todhunter of Gilchrist, who has operated the grocery store there since its opening, is selling his stock and fixtures and plans to go into some sort of business elsewhere in the next few months.

Douglas Burrell of Bend, member of the game division of the state police, spent Monday night at the William Delbrugge ranch on his horse-back patrol of this section. Burrell rode back to Crane Prairie cow camp Tuesday.

Commodity Loan Plan Protects Barley Growers

CORVALLIS, July 30 (AP)—The commodity loan program affords Oregon barley growers protection against a depressed market, the state agricultural adjustment administration said today.

Growers complying with the AAA program are eligible for loans of 60 cents a bushel, about $25 a ton, on No. 1 barley stored on farms or in warehouses on which storage charges are paid. Rate for No. 2 barley is 59 cents a bushel. Grades down to No. 5 are eligible for loans.

Current market quotations are below these loan values in most producing areas, AAA officials said as harvesting of the state's 300,000-acre crop—53 per cent more than last year—got underway.

Dairy

Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stoehler recently moved to Klamath Falls, where they both are employed.

Mrs. E. B. Schmoie was taken to Klamath Falls on Tuesday, July 28, to receive medical attention.

Mrs. Ralph Scott arrived here on Thursday, July 23, from Sacramento, to visit with her daughter, Mrs. Martin Stoehler and family and old friends. Mrs. Scott is a former resident of Dairy.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Schmoie were visitors at the Breithaupt ranch in Poe valley on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Prough and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Horsley motored to Ashland and Medford on Sunday, July 26, on a pleasure and business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fraley left last week for Vallejo, Calif., to spend a short visit with Fraley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Fraley, before Claude reports for active service with the naval reserves this coming week.

Rev. and Mrs. Mitchellmore and small son Charles, left recently for Jacksonville, where he is pastor of the Presbyterian church R. H. Anderson, delegate for Pamona grange to the state grange session at Milwaukee, reported at Monday night's meeting.

Mrs. William Hanscom, Pinola, Calif., arrived this week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Taylor, for a brief visit before returning to Pinola to make arrangements for disposing of their home before leaving for the Atlantic coast to live. Hanscom is a member of the war labor board panel and for several months has been in Chicago and Washington D. C., where he was visited recently by Mrs. Hanscom. For the duration, they will be at home in a small town in Maryland. She will be accompanied east by her two small sons, James and Robert, who have been with relative here while Mrs. Hanscom was east. Upon her return here from the capitol, Mrs. Hanscom stated that nine out of 10 people in Washington from other parts of the country, do not like the city. It is almost impossible to find housing accommodations, she stated.

Bonzanza

Rebekah lodge 106, of Bonanza, held their installation of officers Wednesday, July 22, in the lodge hall. The installation was conducted by Mrs. Adelaide Moon, who is deputy district president. The new officers are: vice grand, Mrs. Gertrude Webber; recording secretary, Earl Webber; treasurer, S. D. Moon, and noble grand, Ada Krueger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bramhall and sons of Klamath Falls spent the evening Sunday with their parents.

Martha Shops and Shops

Here is the original Martha, back again and wondering if it's a good thing to go on a vacation. . . . People enjoyed the last two columns so much, when it was written by men, that I'm worried about my reputation as a shopper and writer-upper. . . . But, anyway, I learned about a lot of new things while I was gone and maybe that will help.

Martha Thinks

WELL, I'm really back in Klamath Falls. . . . But I'm afraid in spirit I'm somewhere in the Pacific ocean with a convoy that is taking some of the nicest fellows I've ever known into the midst of the fighting.

After saying goodbye, I sat down and did a lot of thinking.

And the result is that tomorrow, when Victory House opens in Klamath Falls, I'm going to buy bonds until it hurts.

Because those young men are offering their lives as an investment for America and the United Nations, and they may never come back. . . . While the bonds I buy result in an investment for me, personally. . . . In 10 years they'll be worth a lot more than now. . . . And although it may be a small sacrifice at present, I don't risk being killed or maimed when I buy a bond.

Those fine young men on the convoy somewhere in the Pacific ocean have to depend upon us to help supply the things that will make it possible for them to wage a winning fight. . . . And when they come back, if they do. . . . Wounded or well. . . . I myself, want to be able to look them straight in the eye and say, "I did everything I could, too."

I've found that my feet are bigger in Klamath Falls than in San Francisco. . . . No fooling. . . . My shoes, which were tight here, were loose and almost too comfortable down there.

Currin's

WHILE I was in San Francisco I ran across a marvelous new preparation for keeping nails in shape. . . . So when I came back I went in to Currin's to ask Vance Vaupel why he didn't order some. . . . And what do you think? . . . He already had a shipment!

The preparation is called "Nailube" and it's made specially for gals whose nails peel, break, get ridged, or just plain snag things. . . . It's also wonderful for hardened cuticle.

You massage it in and around the nails every night. . . . And you'll love its spicy scent. . . . Then the excess heavy oil should be rubbed over the hands to keep them smooth and soft.

They told me in San Francisco that business and professional men have been using it to keep their hands looking better groomed with less attention. . . . But that's just hearsay as far as I'm concerned.

One nice thing I've discovered about this lubricator is that it doesn't affect nail polish at all. . . . And that's important, because it has to be used regularly to get results. . . . Like any treatment.
