

ISOLATIONISTS GET MAJORITY IN PRIMARIES

By The Associated Press
Pre-war foreign views as a general political issue were discounted in at least four of five states today as primary returns gave a wide majority of officeholders victories over opponents who had assailed them as isolationists.

Example number one in national interest was the veteran Representative Hamilton Fish, pre-Pearl Harbor critic of President Roosevelt's foreign policy, who won republican nomination in the president's home district over three opponents in yesterday's balloting.

Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 republican presidential nominee who had joined with Fish's intra-party opponents, asserted in commenting on the congressman's lead that "for the sake both of the country and of the republican party the fight for his elimination must be continued."

The vote in the 20th Ohio district, however, seemed to reflect another view when the democratic voters rejected Rep. Martin L. Sweeney's bid for re-nomination. He was a pre-war opponent of administration policies and a veteran house member. Party leaders, Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland and all three Cleveland newspapers opposed Sweeney. Michael A. Feighan, Cleveland lawyer, was the winner.

Isolationists Lead
But two Ohio republican representatives who were also attacked as isolationists, Charles H. Elston of the first district (Cincinnati) and John M. Vorys of the 12th (Columbus) built up strong, early leads.

Other New York congressmen who weathered the cry of before-the-war isolationism included Representative Edwin A. Hall, Binghamton republican; Daniel A. Reed, western New York republican; Vito Marcantonio, American labor party left wing leader, and three New York City Democrats, William B. Barry, James A. O'Leary and Martin J. Kennedy.

Coffee Losses
But in Nebraska, Representative Harry B. Coffee, campaigned against on his congressional record prior to the war, lost the democratic senate nomination to Foster May, Omaha radio announcer.

The republican nomination to the senate seat now held by George W. Norris, veteran independent, was won by Kenneth S. Wherry, republican midwest director. Norris did not compete in the primary but his friends have predicted he would enter the general election again as an independent.

Governor Dwight Griswold easily won republican designation in the gubernatorial contest. The democratic nomination seemed assured for former Governor Charles W. Bryan, brother of William Jennings Bryan. Two incumbent Representatives, Karl Stefan, Norfolk republican, and Charles McLaughlin, Omaha democrat, also had commanding leads for re-nomination.

New York Convention
Meanwhile, selection of delegates to New York state's democratic convention, Aug. 19, officially started the battle for nomination pledges for Senator James M. Mead and State Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., in a test of presidential influence.

Crocheted mainly in double crochet this set, done in Shetland Floss, has stripes of dainty contrasting white flowers. They are embroidered on in lazy-daisy stitch. A new mother will be proud to own this set. Pattern 7379 contains directions for set; illustrations of stitches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send 11 cents in coin to The Herald and News, Household Arts Dept., Klamath Falls. Do not send this picture, but keep it and the number for reference. Be sure to wrap coin securely, as a loose coin often slips out of the envelope. Requests for patterns should read, "Send pattern No. _____, to _____ followed by your name and address."

on selection of the party's nominee for governor.

Mead carries the endorsement of Mr. Roosevelt and Bennett is supported by James A. Farley, state party chairman and the president's former campaign manager.

Senator John Thomas of Idaho, also labelled a non-supporter of administration measures before the war, accumulated a wide lead for republican re-nomination.

The Arkansas run-off primary gave former Representative John L. McLellan the democratic nomination for senator over Attorney General Jack Holt.

THE BOMBERS WAITED
ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Seeing a dog on the field, the Albuquerque army air base control tower operator held several bombers aloft.

Military police dashed to clear the runway.

The MP's arrived, in motorcycle and sidecar, just as three pups were born. The mother, ancestry uncertain, was as wild as a coyote and fled into the nearby sandhills.

To an Albuquerque home went the pups.

Down came the bombers.

Newspaperman Listed as Missing In South Pacific

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Aug. 12 (AP)—Vern Haugland,

Associated Press staff man, was listed as missing today five days after a plane in which he was a passenger disappeared in a storm. The plane was en route from northeast Australia to the New Guinea war front. There still was hope that the plane might have made an emergency landing at some inaccessible spot in New Guinea or on one of the islets off Australia. It was recalled here that several airmen who have been shot down or forced down over New Guinea have taken weeks to make their way back to civilization. Haugland, 34, had waited at Townsville, Australia, for several days for transportation to New Guinea. The opportunity came Aug. 7, when by a loss of a coin he won a seat in the leading plane of several that were to make the trip. An Australian reporter who lost the toss boarded the second plane. Reports Accident—Peter Nish-cr of Tullake, Calif., reported to city police Wednesday that his car was involved in an accident with another near the Henley school Tuesday morning. Name of the driver of the other car was not learned. No one was injured. Sell it through the want-ads.
