

U. S., ALLIED GROUND FORCES JOIN ASSAULT

tempt which they have frustrated.

"In point of fact, reembarkation of the main forces engaged was begun six minutes after the time scheduled and has been completed nine hours after the initial landing, as planned.

"In addition to destruction of a six-gun battery and ammunition dump reported in our earlier communication, a radio location station and a Flak (anti-aircraft) battery, were destroyed.

"Apart from losses inflicted on the enemy, vital experience has been gained in the employment of substantial numbers of troops in an assault and in transportation and use of heavy equipment during combined operations.

"Our new tank landing craft were in action today for the first time.

"There was intense activity by aircraft of all operational Commands of the RAF in support of the landing of our troops against enemy defenses, and air fighting on a most intense scale also developed."

United States and allied ground forces carried out a huge commando raid against the Nazi-occupied French invasion coast at Dieppe with tanks and heavy weapons today and withdrew after nine hours of ferocious fighting with their mission completed.

The battle at Dieppe raged at its full fury all day while giant U. S. army Flying Fortresses pounded a German fighter plane base at nearby Abbeville.

Nazi Claims
The Germans claimed the destruction of three destroyers, two motor torpedo boats and two transports, 28 tanks, and the capture of some 1,500 prisoners.

The German news agency DNB asserted at 10:30 a. m. (PWT) that the big-scale allied landing attempt had ended in a debacle and that since this afternoon there was "not a single armed British, American or Canadian left on the European continent."

Heavy fighting raged in the Dieppe area late this afternoon amid indications that a major operation was unfolding — possibly even a second front, although British quarters discounted the idea of a full scale invasion.

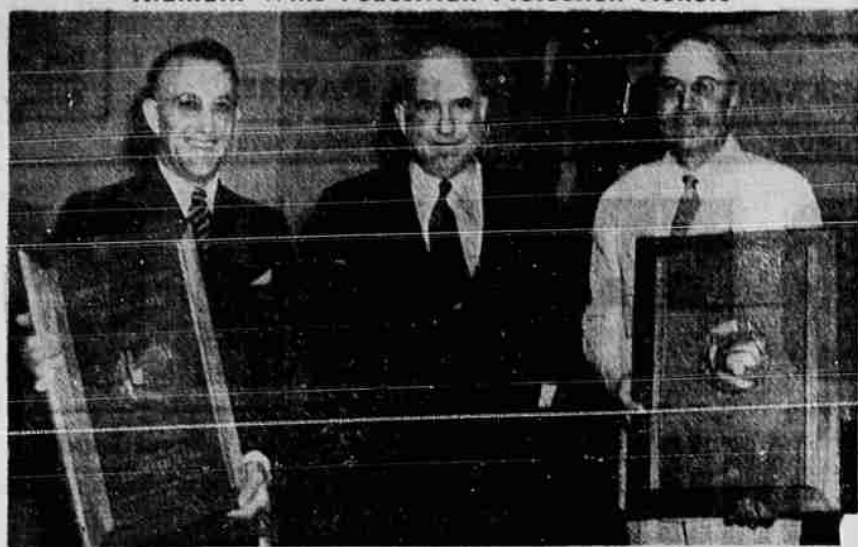

"Soft Spot"
As the allies attacked hour after hour without sign of a let-up, the possibility — if not the probability — appeared that what began as the greatest commando raid of the war may have found a "soft spot" which might become a genuine invasion spearhead.

Black-suited commandos of the four United Nations—Americans, Canadians, Britons and fighting Frenchmen — drove their tanks and guns into Nazi lines, blew up defenses and captured at least one beachhead by assault.

"Troops taking part in the raid have landed at all points selected," it was announced.

"The military force consists mainly of Canadian troops," U. S. army bombers and fighters.

Klamath Wins Pedestrian Protection Honors

High honors for the state of Oregon and the city of Klamath Falls for their efforts in pedestrian protection were awarded Monday at a luncheon in the Multnomah hotel, Portland. Oregon placed first among states in the pedestrian protection contest sponsored by the American Automobile association, and Klamath Falls placed second among cities of 10,000 to 25,000 population. NAZIS POUR TROOPS INTO RUSS BATTLE

Fyatsigorsk, 170 miles southeast of the destroyed and abandoned Malskop oil fields.

Reds Rally
(In London a British source whom it was not permitted to identify by name said the Germans had made some progress toward Stalingrad, reaching but not crossing the Don river at the bend. He declared, however, that Russian resistance had stiffened in the Caucasus, slowing German progress considerably.)

The Nazi drive down the Rostov-Baku rail line across the Caucasus had as its next apparent objective beyond Fyatsigorsk and Mineralnye Vody the rail junction town of Georgievsk, only a few miles beyond the Nazi spearheads.

Grozny, heart of the Grozny oilfield, lies 130 miles south-east along the railway, and the Caspian is 100 miles beyond Grozny.

ers joined in forming a protective "umbrella" over the land assault forces. Bitter German aerial opposition was reported.

1,000 Planes
Observers on the English shore said more planes than were ever seen or heard over the channel shuttled across to attack the enemy or reload, indicating that perhaps 1,000 or more allied aircraft were in action.

As the battle developed with the Germans conceding that allied forces were attacking on both sides of Dieppe, there was still no official indication whether it was an attempt to open a second front. The BBC had told the French people many hours earlier that it was not an invasion, presumably to forestall a popular revolt.

However, military strategy would dictate that the British have strong reserves massed in southern England ready to take advantage of any "soft spot" the commandos might find in Nazi coastal defenses.

French Warned
The BBC warned the French not to rise in support of the allies until they were given the word, in order to prevent a repetition of the tragic St. Nazaire battle in which French patriots fought the Nazis for days after British commando raiders had withdrawn. Bloody reprisals were exacted by the Germans in that instance.

Taking part in today's spectacular assault, it was announced, were American Rangers — named for Rogers' Rangers of Indian fighter fame in American colonial history — chosen "from among an avalanche of volunteers for commando training in the British Isles."

CITY BRIEFS

Reports Theft—Mae Ripley of 828 High street reported to city police today that a trunk, suitcase, cedar chest and roll of bedding had been taken from the front lawn of her son's home at 1012 Donald street sometime between 10 a. m. and four p. m. Tuesday.

FULMER PREDICTS FOOD SHORTAGE

mended government allocation of meats to butcher shops and other retail outlets to permit equitable distribution of limited supplies.

The recommendation resulted from an unprecedented war demand for meats during a seasonal shortage that developed in several sections of the country, particularly in the east. Some packers claim that the government policy of maintaining ceilings on prices of meats and none on livestock has contributed to the shortage. They explain that several packing plants have been forced to close due to financial losses. This claim is disputed by the agriculture department, which points to reports that marketings of livestock have been at a record level for this time of year.

Ration Plan
The office of price administration was advised by the committee to devise a consumer rationing plan for use if the allocations system and some readjustments in existing price ceilings on meats failed to accomplish an equitable distribution.

Ridgeway Fined on Drunk Driving Count

John Calvin Ridgeway of route 3, box 372, was fined $100 and court costs and his operator's license revoked for one year today in justice court following a jury conviction on a charge of drunken driving.

The jury's verdict was returned last week. A previous jury failed to reach agreement and was discharged.

PLANT RAZED TO GROUND BY NOON FIRE

the settlement at Dairy Tuesday afternoon.

At the latter place, however, the blaze was kept away from buildings. Likewise, county fire warden's crews and men from the Klamath Forest Protective association succeeded in keeping the blaze out of grain fields in Poe and Yonah valleys.

The fire spread so quickly Tuesday afternoon that it destroyed a pickup truck belonging to Rowe Kinney, which had been left far behind the fire line. Kinney was helping Fire Warden M. J. Barnes fight the flames.

The blaze burned in brush and grassland, but destroyed many juniper trees which farmers had planned to use for fence posts.

KFFA offices reported a fire, set by lightning, was discovered Tuesday on Deadhorse creek, about five miles above its confluence with Dairy creek, in western Lake county. A crew made a long hike to this blaze and placed it quickly under control.

CRANE NAMED TO REPRESENT INDIANS

Dice Crane of Klamath Falls was elected representative of the Klamath Indians as tribal delegate to Washington at an election held Tuesday.

Outcome of the election: Dice Crane, 79; Boyd Jackson, 75; Levi Walker, 22; Clayton Kirk, 13; Lee Corbell, 7; Tom Lang, 1.

Usually the Indians are represented by two delegates, but this year they decided to send only one back to the capital.

Planes Search For Missing Couple

NEWPORT, Ore., Aug. 19 (AP)—A search of the sea off this point of coast — participated in informally by army and navy planes — has failed so far to uncover any trace of a Newport couple which left August 10 for the fishing grounds.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stone said they left in a trolley Aug. 10 carrying only enough fuel and provisions for three days. They have not been sighted off the coast near here since, nor reported from any other port.

SOLOMONS VICTORY WAITS MOPPING-UP

New Zealand correspondent somewhere in the South Pacific said the United States had won "sufficient successes" at sea to reinforce and supply the assault troops for what may be weeks or months of "extremely bitter" fighting in the islands.

"Japanese units which were in the Solomons at the opening of operations either have been sunk or have fled to the Caroline islands," said this dispatch to the New Zealand Press association.

Still, however, the fleet of United States Vice Admiral Robert Lee Ghormley and the land-based air forces of General MacArthur scoured thousands of miles of the Pacific on the watch for enemy ships.

Showdown Looms
American naval forces were reported deployed in anticipation of a showdown battle with the Japanese for the seaways vital to holding, or broadening, the wedge already dug into the enemy's network of advance islands.

Air patrols ranging far north among the islands above Australia, including one of which an airbase at Kavieng, New Ireland, was bombed, were reported in the MacArthur headquarters communique today.

But in a continuing operation on such a broad scope as this first allied offensive in the Pacific, officials are keeping a strict cover of secrecy on blow-on-blow developments and Australian authorities are abiding steadfastly by a policy of non-interference with the United States navy's running of its own show.

GOVERNMENT TAKES OVER BOSTON PLANT

contended in a telegram to WLB that union maintenance and compulsory arbitration had nothing to do with output in a plant. The management had urged that the WLB compliance order be held up until the firm had tested its powers in court. The board had rejected this suggestion.

Second Time
It was the second time within a week and the seventh time during the current national emergency that the government had exercised its power to take over a private industry.

Last Friday the president ordered the navy to seize the plant of the General Cable corporation at Bayonne, N. J., after the employees struck in protest against a labor board decision against their demand for a wage increase.

At Pittsburgh, committeemen of the CIO Aluminum Workers union gathered to discuss a report of their president that union members were urging a general strike in the war-essential aluminum industry. They were described by their leader as displeased with a WLB decision which denied them a wage increase on the grounds they already had been given an increase of more than 15 per cent since January 1, 1941.

CIO officials said members of their union would remain away from their jobs at the Reynolds Metal company in Louisville, Ky., until granted an election by the WLB or some other federal agency.
