

ASCENSION

An ex-Pelican ballplayer has wound up with the Brooklyn Dodgers. And we do not want anybody to say it serves him right.

The gentleman is "Big Bill" Hanauka, whose hurling here last summer was confined mainly to the verbal, what with him being laid up with a sore shoulder for the major part of last season during which the Klamaths finished second in the Oregon State circuit.

But he recovered sufficiently to heave some fine ball for Willamette again this spring. Fine enough so that the Brooklyn signed him with a $1500 bonus and shipped him to Santa Barbara of the California State league where he won three and dropped none up to the time the loop folded.

He was trans-shipped to La Mesa of the West Texas wheel thereupon. His record there, although unrevealed, was certainly not bad enough to cause that league to fold, which it did nevertheless.

The Bums still owned him, however, and packaged him off to Johnstown of the Pennsylvania league.

There a couple of weeks back he tossed a seven-inning no-hitter at a Yankee farm club for his third win against two losses.

He's still at Johnstown and, barring the draft, may be hauled into the Dodgers' spring training camp next year.

From the Willamette to the Gowanus in one year is nothing but uphill, even if you are from Salem.

WAIT AND SEE

Walt Disney's newest film, "Bambi," scheduled for release soon, is either the victim of a potentially potent boycott or the object of an extraordinary astute publicity campaign.

The medium is Outdoor Life, one of the more persistent of sportsmen's organs, which calls the picture "the worst insult ever offered in any form to American sportsmen and conservationists."

This broadside, founded on the charge that W. Disney has depicted Joe Average Sportsman as a wanton, fire-setting, doe-killing demon with a 30-30 in either hand and a torch in his hair, will either (a) bring sportsmen and their families flocking to the cinema or (b) keep them flocking at their hearthstones in tacit admission that some other guy can tell 'em what to do.

According to a "news" story, transparently masking six thick paragraphs of one side of the issue, requests for a different treatment by leading conservationists met only refusal by Disney productions.

Copies of the blurb have been sent to practically every sports editor in the land, apparently with the purpose of influencing the people.

Thank you, gentlemen, but may I withhold judgment until after I have seen the picture?

Meantime, relax and watch your circulation soar.

Butler Ten Licks Grimshaw Tires In Portland Final

PORTLAND, Aug. 20 (AP)—Portland's major city softball championship was won last night by Butler Construction 3-2 over Grimshaw Tires before 6000 spectators.

Don Skinner, formerly of Pendleton, was the winning pitcher and he also scored the run that was the margin of victory when he beat out an infield hit in the eighth and tallied on Walt Schlafle's triple.

Grid Polish, Finesse Lacking But You'll See Some Football

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Aug. 20 (AP)—Although college footballers by the hundreds have entered the armed services, competent coaches promise that you'll get your money's worth each time you plunk down $3.30 for a seat on the 50-yard line this fall.

Most of the mentors acknowledge that the polish and finesse of former years may be lacking in a slight way but all agree, in a survey made by the Associated Press, that the spectacular will become much more common and that upsets will be lurking behind every goal post.

Rex Enright of South Carolina university says he expects a slight drop in the caliber of play but "that it will not be apparent to the general public because of the evenness. There will be more variance in the quality of play from week to week because of poor reserves and the use of freshmen and this will mean more upsets."

Another coach compared the drop in quality with a track meet, declaring that the average fan "can't tell the difference between a 4:08 and 4:12 one-mile run without a stop watch."

Many conferences, led by the Big Three of Yale, Harvard and Princeton, will use freshmen—forecasting fumbles and surprise touchdowns.

Only the larger circuits—Big Ten, Pacific Coast, Big Six, Southwest, Southern and South-eastern—have remained firm in their stand not to use newcomers. The southeastern loop, how-

If the baseball fans of Ohio have any knack for solving puzzles, they might use that talent to good advantage right now by finding a reason for the sudden collapse of their two entries in the major leagues.

Not so many days ago the Cleveland Indians were runners-up in the American league, the Cincinnati Reds were skipping along in third place in the National loop, and citizens of the Buckeye state were speculating on the possibility of an all-Ohio world series for the first time in history.

But today the Indians and the Reds look as if they'll be extremely fortunate to finish in the first divisions.

Each team has lost nine of its last 11 games. The Reds have dropped into fourth place, only three games away from the second division. The Indians are hanging on to third in the American league by four percentage points but will find themselves sharing that position if the St. Louis Browns win today.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, gunning for Cincinnati's first division place, handed the Reds their sixth setback in a row yesterday and beat Paul Deringer in the bargain, 9-2. The drubbing left the Reds 5½ games behind the third-place New York Giants, who were idle.

The Detroit Tigers posted the third straight loss on the Indians, 6-1, in a twilight game. Elsewhere in the American league, the Philadelphia Athletics shut out the Washington Senators, 8-0, in a night game and the Boston Red Sox divided a doubleheader with the New York Yankees, continuing a stretch duel that would be more interesting if the Yanks ever, has a meeting in Atlanta next month at which the question will be studied again. So universal has their use become, however, that Amherst and Tufts are the only schools in New England not playing the neophytes.

The Mountain Six, formerly the Big Seven; Rocky mountain and Missouri valley loops have endorsed the youngsters.

Another coach compared the drop in quality with a track meet, declaring that the average fan "can't tell the difference between a 4:08 and 4:12 one-mile run without a stop watch."

Pelicans One Down in Post-Season Playoff

Cleveland, Cincinnati Close to Tumble Into Second Division; Reds Lose 6th

Old Dutch Lieber, hurling his last game for Medford prior to leaving for the army, had our Pelicans one game down today in the playoff series for the President's cup.

The Crater manager and ex-Coast league star checked the lads with just nine hits last night in the valley in whipping 'em, 7-3, and hanging a beating on Ken Benham of the Bigbills who allowed 10 bingles.

It was "Dutch Lieber night" in Medford and Old Dutch came through but not without the aid of Left Fielder Waite who time after time was backed far against the barrier in hauling down distance drives by Goldbar, Crapo and Hatfield of the Klamaths.

The Medfords took an immediate lead by counting thrice in the second frame although a Pelican error was in the main responsible.

The Craters added another in the third and there matters stood until the top of the seventh when Third Baseman Virgil Gross' double and Gray's single scored on for the Klamaths. Medford nullified it with one in their half, however.

The regular-season champions made it 7-1 in the eighth with two more.

In the top of the ninth a walk to Paul Crapo, Hatfield's single and Gray's single counted for the last Pelican runs.

In taking their bulge in the President's cup race, the Medfords played errorless ball while the Klamaths bobbled twice. Benham was effective enough but miscues at critical moments gave the Craters four unearned runs.

Saturday night the Craters travel across the mountain to clash with the locals in the second game of the series at 8:30 in Recreation park. A third game, if necessary, will be held next Wednesday night in Medford.

Blix Donnelly Tops Pacific Loop Hurlers

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 20 (AP)—Sacramento's Blix Donnelly has a husky lead on the rest of the regular Pacific Coast league hurlers—those with 15 games or more to their credit.

Donnelly, including contests through Tuesday, boasts a 720 average, with 18 victories against seven defeats. His nearest competitors are Seattle's twirling twins, Hal Turpin and Dick Barrett, Barrett, with 148 strikeouts, leads that department.

Hardluck last of the circuit is veteran Ad Liska of Portland's last place Beavers, who ranks third in strikeouts with 126, but is far down the won-and-lost list with 11 triumphs and 18 setbacks.

Most of us think we could do much better if we only had the opportunity which we don't realize we have.

Caps Apparently In As Western Loop Champions

By The Associated Press

While it is still too early to predict with official finality, it appeared today that Western International Baseball league standings will remain relatively unchanged for the remainder of the season—with Vancouver copping the bunting, Tacoma second, Salem third and Spokane trailing along.

The Vancouver Capitanos, already five and a half games ahead of Tacoma, won another one from the Tigers, 6-5, last night with a two-run eighth inning rally.

Spokane's weekend threat to move out of the cellar seemed dissipated again when Salem won its second straight, 12-10, in a free-hitting spree at Spokane.

Still battling to remain in the running for Pacific coast baseball league championship honors, the third place Seattle Rainiers defeated Portland, 5-4, in an erratic 10-inning set-to at Seattle last night.

The Rainiers came from behind to knot the score in the ninth and won in the extra frame as First Baseman Earl Torgeson singled, stole second and scored on Ned Stickle's single.

Sloppy baserunning and ill-luck cost the Beavers a chance to win in the tenth when Marvin Owen led off with a double only to be tagged out at the plate as a thrown ball bounced off Lindsay Brown's back as he dashed for first.

Victory came easy for the Los Angeles Angels, leading contenders for the pennant.

Extending themselves in a single inning, the eighth, when the cracked four hits for three runs, the Angels rolled up a 7-2 win over the San Francisco Seals.

The win together with Sacramento's loss of a doubleheader to San Diego, 3-2 and 2-1, gave the Angels a lead of 5½ games over the rest of the pack.

Frankie Dasso allowed six spaced hits in the nine-inning opener to win a hurling duel from Tony Freitas who yielded eight.

A doubleheader ushered out night baseball at Hollywood where the Stars walloped Oakland twice, 7-0 and 9-2.

Manny Perez spaced six hits to the Oaks in the seven-inning first game when he posed out a second-inning double with the bases full to account for three tallies.

Big Game Hunting In Douglas, Coos Counties Expected

PORTLAND, Aug. 20 (AP)—A ban on big game hunting in Douglas and Coos counties—where the bull elk season was scheduled to start Sunday—was expected to result from a meeting of the state game commission here today.

Governor Sprague said yesterday at Salem that he would order the closure, because of the danger of forest fires, but Attorney General I. H. Van Winkle ruled that commission action was necessary.
