

PARENTS HELD ROOT OF CHILD DELINQUENCY

Delinquency of parents leads to the delinquency of children, Dave Bridge, city juvenile officer, told Klamath Falls Kiwanians in a talk at the Thursday noon luncheon of the club at the Willard.

Bridge said that in the vast majority of cases that come to his attention, home conditions are unsatisfactory and often the parents are directly responsible. He gave the Kiwanis club a series of 13 or 14 case histories which he said are typical of local juvenile delinquencies.

Parents at Fault

In one case, he found a father home in bed in a drunken condition while his son was away from home on a robbery expedition. He told of one family which is receiving county support and whose members are responsible for many incidents of thievery and vandalism. He described several cases which he said started from the children keeping "late hours," in some cases where the parents themselves were out running around and did not know of the whereabouts of their children.

Bridges said that the 10 p. m. curfew law here is helpful in controlling the juvenile situation, and he expects great things from the new provision which makes parents responsible if their children violate the curfew.

Forward Steps

"As soon as this new ordinance goes into effect, we should get results," he stated. He outlined the efforts made by juvenile authorities here to provide wholesome conditions, and said that Klamath Falls is recognized for the good work it is doing along this line. He mentioned the city-wide recreation program and the boys club as two important forward steps.

In giving the case histories, Bridge said he knew that some of these would be shocking to his audience, but he said:

"The adult people of the community need to know what is going on. I am going to give you this straight from the shoulder."

Bridge was introduced by Kiwanian Vance Vaupel, chairman of the day. Paul Landry and Elton Disher presented a picture on war savings.

Dazzles Circus Crowds

Stars Will Appear Here With Cole Brothers Circus

In a startling presentation of lofty trapeze exploits, Marylin Rich, one of the internationally known Rich Sisters, aerialists, is thrilling audiences of the Cole Brothers circus this season.

Miss Rich is an outstanding member of the big show's host of entertainers. While retaining all her delightful feminine charms, this youthful aerialist nevertheless displays prodigious strength and amazing endurance that any man would envy. You gaze into the uppermost peak of the big top, and there silhouetted against the sky-blue ceiling, is a mite of a girl suspended in mid-air by one arm. There are no nets beneath—should she take a tumble, but she is unafraid. Suddenly, she throws her body into the air, literally over her own shoulder.—the one-arm somersault. Five times, twenty times, sixty times—how can a human endurance withstand such punishment?

If you should ask Marylin, who is one of the outstanding features this season with Cole Brothers circus, coming to Klamath Falls in September 12 for afternoon and night performances at South Sixth and Division streets, she would probably shrug her shoulders and tell you that it's all in a day's work. However, she has never reached the extent of her endurance, although she has gone as high as 160 consecutive somersaults. To seek the ultimate of endurance would be far too perilous, since one little slip or one over-tired muscle might send her plunging to earth far below.

A total of more than 350 men and women arenic stars appear on the gigantic program this year. Whole families and troupes of foreign artists, new to this country, are presented in acts and features never before seen in America.

Among these, the Six Wallabies from Australia, greatest of all acrobatic champions; Herbert Castle, famed tight-wire wizard; the DeMarco Troupe from England; trampoline stars; Miss Luey and Ernestine Clark, solo equestriennes, and scores of others, space forbidding mention.

The performances at 2 and 8 p. m. open with a gorgeous new super-spectacle, "Sapa-Inca," in which hundreds of people and animals take part. It is conceded to be the most magnificent

CRATER LAKE TO CLOSE LABOR DAY

No overnight accommodations will be available at Crater lake after Labor day, when the cabins will be closed for the season, according to E. P. Leavitt, superintendent of the park who was in Klamath Falls Friday to meet Owen A. Tomlinson, park service director of Region 4, with headquarters in San Francisco, here on routine inspection Friday and Saturday.

Leavitt said that the cabins were being closed earlier than usual this year because of the lack of travel and because Charles Fyock, manager, had received a call to the service. The lodge and cafeteria closed on July 27, with meals available only in the government dining room. This service, Leavitt said, will continue until the end of September, and the park will be open as usual.

The boat house on Wizard island is being moved and rebuilt, he said, the project being necessitated by snow damage to the old building and by the low level of water in the lake which prevented the boats from being taken in and out at the previous location. The new site is being moved nearer the landing dock. The motor in the government launch is also being replaced, he said.

PROFIT AND LOSS

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., (AP)—Director Frank Schade of the New Britain fresh air camp announced proudly that 175 children gained a total of about 800 pounds during the camp season.

Then he checked up on himself. He'd lost six pounds.

WOMEN ASKED FOR SHEET METAL CLASS

The War Production Training school today again reiterated a plea for women to sign up for aviation sheet metal training in classes currently being held in Klamath Union high school quarters.

Officials said that only four women from the Klamath area could be sent to the Boeing Aircraft corporation when the firm recently called for more than 40. They pointed out that women must be between the ages of 18 and 35, weigh between 110 and 140 pounds and pass a physical examination. There are at present openings for 14 women in the class, they said.

Openings also exist for eight men in the 11 p. m. to 3 a. m. welding class, they said.
