Trying to Ride a Wild Horse Didn't Work Out

More pluck than prudence in attempting to break a wild horse was the cause of a broken leg for Mickey Moll, 10, and scalp lacerations for his young friend Jimmy Clark, both of Bly. It all happened Wednesday and Mickey will be in the hospital thinking it over for some time, according to reports, while Jimmy, though not seriously hurt, is not apt to try it again very soon.

As the story goes, several boys were inspired with wild west notions while playing in the Devil's Garden section beyond Bly and decided to attempt to get aboard a renegade horse, never before ridden as far as is known. Pacifying him with some sugar, they managed to get close enough so that they could put a belt around his neck. While one boy held the horse, Mickey and Jimmy climbed on his back.

Instantly the horse was off, running at breakneck speed across the rocks. Then it happened. As Jimmy, who was riding behind, put it, "All at once

I looked ahead and under me and I couldn't see either Mickey or the horse." Both of the boys were thrown to the rocks, Mickey unable to move on account of his broken leg. There they remained for several agonizing hours, it was said, while one of the boys returned to Bly to obtain help and a searching party scoured the lava-strewn area for the lads. When they were finally located by the sound of the boys' crying, it was found impossible to get near them with an automobile and Mickey had to be packed out on a stretcher. The mishap occurred at 2 o'clock, it was reported, and the boys did not reach the hospital here until 7 p. m.

BONANZA-BLY ROAD FOUND STILL PASSABLE

The Bonanza-Bly road has been found rough but passable, County Commissioner John Reber said today, and no work is planned as long as weather remains dry.

Reber said the Klamath county chamber of commerce had voted to call the county court's attention to this road in connection with a discussion of stage service to Bonanza by the Lakeview Stage line. At present the Lakeview line gives on-call service to Bonanza by going in from Dairy and back on the same road.

If equipment could be taken over the road from Bonanza to Bly mountain, back-tracking by the stage would be eliminated, the chamber pointed out. The stage operator has asked permission to abandon the service.

Reber said that County Road Superintendent Ed Probst has reported the road capable of sustaining 40-mile-per-hour traffic.

He said that a blade will be sent over it when rain has sufficiently wetted the road.

In passing sentence on Olsen, Justice of the Peace Boyle said: "Due to shortage of manpower and extreme fire hazard this year, severe and even maximum penalties may be expected in this court by fire law violators."

No part of the $100 fine was suspended.

A Wartime Request

When it is necessary to telephone please be brief

Use of the telephone in the war effort of our nation has become so great that long distance facilities are now loaded to capacity—or near it—in many areas, despite record-breaking enlargement of the system in the past two years. The situation in the local central office areas, although less critical, is fast becoming serious in many communities as the load of calling associated with the present emergency continues to increase.

The peak of the war effort is still ahead—military needs for telephone service are bound to increase. Copper and other materials are practically unavailable for telephone expansion. They must now go for war weapons instead of telephone lines.

Present telephone facilities must be made to serve throughout the war emergency as effectively as possible. To this end, we ask every telephone user to avoid unnecessary telephone calls and to be brief when calling. This will help to relieve both present and future congestion on heavily burdened telephone lines, and we hope will meet the situation with a minimum of inconvenience to you.

We deeply appreciate your most helpful cooperation. You are helping to speed Victory—you are helping us to help you.
