

City Briefs

To Report for Duty—Dr. George DeWoody Massey, recently commissioned lieutenant (j. g.) with the navy, left this afternoon for the naval hospital at Bremerton, where he has been ordered to report for duty September 9. He was accompanied by Mrs. Massey and daughter Sandra, and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Massey, who plan to return in a few days. Massey's resignation as city health officer was accepted by the city council Monday night.

End Visit Here—Major Peter Galente, his wife and baby girl, have returned to Denver, where he is stationed with the army medical corps at Fitzsimons hospital. They have been visiting with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McCabe of 522 North Fifth street, for the past two weeks. Galente was a former doctor at the Klamath Indian Agency, having left there about two and a half years ago. Mrs. Galente is the former Dorothy McCabe.

Marines Now—Enlisted here in the U. S. marine corps and ready to receive their training at San Diego, Calif., are Andy Fraser of Silver Lake; Arville L. McClendon, Burns; Dorman F. Giles, Chiloquin; Charrolton C. Moore, Grants Pass; Arville L. Meador, Butte Falls; Everett M. Crosby, Fernandina, Fla.; and Walter E. Bigby of Klamath Falls.

Few Fires—The fire department seems to be having a rest period, but they're keeping their fingers crossed. It is reported, Grass fires, flagrant disturbers of the peace during the late summer months, seem to be on the wane, with the last such call coming in on August 23. No calls for assistance have been made since Monday of this week.

New Arrival—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Macartney of 2025 LeRoy street, are parents of a baby daughter who arrived yesterday at Hillside hospital, weighing in at 9 pounds 11 1/2 ounces. She has a young brother, David.

Undergoes Operation—Mary Anne Carlile, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Carlile, is recovering satisfactorily at Klamath Valley hospital from an appendectomy which she underwent Tuesday.

Accident Reported—Martha Gilerist reported to police that a large hole in a tire and inner tube, and damage to a hub cap and fender resulted from an accident Wednesday at 5:35 p. m., when her car tangled with a pickup driven by S. R. Redkey as it pulled away from the curb on Main street near Fourth.

Spends Vacation Working—Mrs. Eleanor Kummer has been assisting in the office at police headquarters for the past 10 days. She is the former Eleanor Graham, here on vacation from San Francisco. She has been staying with her mother, Mrs. Hilda Graham of 2180 Reclamation avenue, while here.

Horses at Large—J. P. Wheeler of the Wheeler Pine Lumber company at Pelican City, reported to police that two horses, a gray and a bay, broke out of a corral at the Boy Scout sawmill and headed for the S. P. right-of-way Wednesday. He said he feared they might damage property if they were not located.

Police Record—Three persons were arrested for drunkenness, 14 paid $1 bail for traffic tickets, three paid $2 bail on traffic violations for which warrants had been issued, and one paid bail for a moving violation, according to police records Thursday.

Brother Expected—Bob Bewick was expected to arrive today from Portland for a visit with his sister, Mary Belle Bewick of 428 Pacific Terrace. He will remain until Monday night, when he will return to take up his studies at Grant high school.

Theft Reported—Jess Walters of 625 Mitchell street, reported to police that a Hamilton watch had been stolen from his home. He said he had last seen the watch on Monday.

Recuperating From Accident—James McRobert has sufficiently recovered from injuries suffered in a recent accident to be able to leave Klamath Valley hospital and return to his home at 2212 Biehn street.

Princely Paychecks Will Never Tempt the Poetic Cowboy, Says Sen. McNary

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
WASHINGTON, Sept. 3 (AP)—The princely paychecks of war industries may lure the hired man off his hayrack but Senator McNary (R-Ore.) contends mere money will never pry the American cowboy out of his saddle.

"Your true cowboy is a cross between a bottle of whiskey and a poem," the senator mused in explaining the happy labor relations he said prevailed between the buckaroo and his boss.

Dream World
"He is a figure out of another world—a dream world all his own—and he would spit in your eye if you suggested he start driving rivets in a shipyard."

McNary thoughtfully selected a clam for an assortment on his luncheon plate, squeezed a little lemon juice on it and reached for the catsup bottle as he reflected audibly how different from a rancher's was the lot of the orchardist. In private life the republican senate leader is a farmer, and the McNary acres are devoted largely to fruit trees.

Farmers Can't Pay
"I do not like to refer to my own situation," he said, "but there is a shipyard 40 miles one way from my farm, a continent 40 miles in another direction, and another army camp right over the mountains."

"In that section of Oregon fruit is the big crop, and all the spraying, picking and sorting for canning involves hand labor. The farmers just can't pay the wages possible on a war project handled on a cost-plus basis."

A dollar-and-a-half an hour and time-and-a-half for overtime don't mean a thing to a cowboy convinced of the goodness, truth and beauty of life on the open range, the senator asserted, adding:

"He is romantic and self sufficient figure. He carries a bottle of whiskey in one hip pocket, a pistol in the other, and nine cases out of ten, he'll have a poem tucked in his vest. He is utterly happy.

Broke Again
"For relaxation, when payday comes, he can go into town, clean up a dance hall, play a little poker, shoot a little pool and spend the rest of his wages on his girl."

"Of course he is soon broke again, but he considers that only fitting and proper."

"He just mounts his pony again and goes clattering happily across the prairie, breathing deeply of the winy air of the west and shouting his poems into the wind."
