

From Midfield

By Bob Leonard

St. Louis Calm as Yankees Close in For Inauguration of Series Tomorrow

Hotels Jammed But Aura Previous Classic Lacking

Cooper Expected to Hurl Opener for Cards; Ruffing or Bonham Will Oppose

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 29 (AP)—St. Louis remained extremely calm and collected about the impending world series as the Cardinals took their final workout today and the renowned Yankees closed in from the east.

Unless one read the newspapers, there was nothing to indicate that the two flag winners were due to start belling each other at Sportsman's park tomorrow afternoon. There were no banners; no hoarse talk in hotel lobbies about "our Cards."

In short, the so-called world series atmosphere of other years appeared to have taken a leave of absence. The hotels were choked, and it took both a reservation and a willingness to argue to get any sort of room. But they say that is a normal condition these days and in no wise related to baseball's banner attraction.

The local explanation of the seeming apathy toward the series is that the town wore itself out rooting the Cardinals home in their amazing September drive to the pennant. The fans needed a couple of days' rest before taking up the big assault on the Yankees tomorrow. All reserved seats to the first two games here were sold a week ago.

The Yanks—not riding a special train this time, but occupying uppers and lowers like everybody else—were due to arrive shortly before dark to night, too late for a workout. They will not see the field until tomorrow, but the fact is of no importance because they played the Browns 11 times at Sportsman's park this season and know its every shadow.

Shouting and carrying on much as they have all season, the flamboyant Red Birds held a long practice session yesterday, then attended a barn dance in their honor last night and were scheduled to hold another workout today. It was obvious that Manager Billy Southworth meant to keep his scrapping youngsters at razor-edge.

Last year the coast club's sophomore back, Frankie Massaro, heaved better than 50 passes against the Pelicans on Modoc field. Most of them were long but accurate enough if the Californians had possessed equally capable receivers.

This weekend Eureka will be additionally favored by daylight. The game is scheduled for 3:30 Saturday afternoon, dim-out regulations having forced cancellation of all night games in the coastal area.

Ramsey said he was pleased with the performance of the Klamath third stringers in last Friday's tiff with Redding. They look particularly good on defense, he said.

Ramsey indicated that practice this week would be devoted primarily to pass defense but ground play stoppers would not be overlooked.

The squad came through the Redding game in good shape, he said.

Twice a winner and twice a loser of the NBA's world middleweight boxing championship, Al Hostak answers the lure of the comeback trail tonight.

Once heralded as Seattle's "Savage Slav," Hostak, still only 28, and claiming to be in the best shape since he lost his title to Tony Zale, will take on young Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle, formerly of Emmett, Idaho, in a 10-round test.

It will be the first name opponent for Matthews, a hard-hitting kid who won nine knockouts and three decisions in his 12 fights here in 1941-42. The railbirds, skeptical about Hostak's fighting heart on the basis of his losses to Zale and Ker Overlin in 1941, are inclined to make Matthews the favorite, although conceding Hostak the edge on punching if he can land one of his old-time rights in the early rounds.

(Additional Sports on Page Nine)

BONE-DRY SHOES
Lace-to-toe—are light and comfortable.
8-in. logger heel...$8.95
DREW'S MANSTORE
733 MAIN

FOR LEASE
14-FOOT STORE ROOM ON MAIN ST.
Former location of Your Store, Inc.
Inquire Drew's Manstore 733 Main

Al Hostak In Seattle Comeback Go

SEATTLE, Sept. 29 (AP)—Twice a winner and twice a loser of the NBA's world middleweight boxing championship, Al Hostak answers the lure of the comeback trail tonight.

Once heralded as Seattle's "Savage Slav," Hostak, still only 28, and claiming to be in the best shape since he lost his title to Tony Zale, will take on young Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle, formerly of Emmett, Idaho, in a 10-round test.

It will be the first name opponent for Matthews, a hard-hitting kid who won nine knockouts and three decisions in his 12 fights here in 1941-42. The railbirds, skeptical about Hostak's fighting heart on the basis of his losses to Zale and Ker Overlin in 1941, are inclined to make Matthews the favorite, although conceding Hostak the edge on punching if he can land one of his old-time rights in the early rounds.

(Additional Sports on Page Nine)

Ramsey Fears Passing of Eureka Loggers' Massaro

"We fear Eureka for two reasons," Coach Frank Ramsey told Quarterback clubbers meeting in their regular Monday noon luncheon session yesterday in the Willard hotel.

The large coach said a team which keeps the ball in the air like the Loggers is always dangerous. And additionally when the squad is playing on its home field.

Last year the coast club's sophomore back, Frankie Massaro, heaved better than 50 passes against the Pelicans on Modoc field. Most of them were long but accurate enough if the Californians had possessed equally capable receivers.

This weekend Eureka will be additionally favored by daylight. The game is scheduled for 3:30 Saturday afternoon, dim-out regulations having forced cancellation of all night games in the coastal area.

Ramsey said he was pleased with the performance of the Klamath third stringers in last Friday's tiff with Redding. They look particularly good on defense, he said.

Ramsey indicated that practice this week would be devoted primarily to pass defense but ground play stoppers would not be overlooked.

The squad came through the Redding game in good shape, he said.

Twice a winner and twice a loser of the NBA's world middleweight boxing championship, Al Hostak answers the lure of the comeback trail tonight.

Once heralded as Seattle's "Savage Slav," Hostak, still only 28, and claiming to be in the best shape since he lost his title to Tony Zale, will take on young Harry (Kid) Matthews of Seattle, formerly of Emmett, Idaho, in a 10-round test.

In Series

Billy Southworth, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals is expected to name big Mort Cooper to the starting assignment against the Yanks tomorrow in St. Louis. Red Ruffing or Ernie Bonham may oppose him.

Ticket Prices Soaring for Series Seats

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 29 (AP)—A sellout of all reserved seats for world's series games starting at Sportsman's park tomorrow sent scalpers prices skyrocketing today with "brokers" asking as much as $50 for a $6.00 box seat and $20, for $5.75 reserved seats.

The scalpers or "ticket brokers" are required under federal law to register with the collector of internal revenue and must pay the government taxes of 11 per cent of the excess over the established price of the tickets. They also are required to obtain a $100 license from the city.

Five "brokers," two from Philadelphia, one from New York, another from Chicago, and one from St. Louis, have registered.

By The Associated Press
NEW ORLEANS—Sammy Angott, 197½, Washington, Pa., outpouted Aldo Spoldi, 137½, New York (10) (non-title); Richard Lemos, 135½, Los Angeles, and Bobby Ruffin, 134½, New York, drew Jackie Callera, 125½, Providence, R. I., outpouted Vince Dell'Orto, 120, New York (10).

BRIDGEPORT, Conn.—Private Joe DeMartino, 148, Fort Stearns, N. Y., won by technical knockout over Al Labarba, 145, Bridgeport, Conn. (6).

NEW YORK—Freddie Archer, 147½, Newark, outpouted Mill Kessler 145½, New York (8).

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting. The Yankees can be beaten, of course, but only the hard way.

Superlative Pitching Seen Only Way Cards Can Wallop Yankees

(This is the last of a series comprising the prospective world series opponents.)

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

When in Medford Stay at HOTEL HOLLAND Thoroughly Modern Joe and Anne Earley Proprietors

SAN FRANCISCO'S Finest Moderately Priced Hotel OXFORD EVERY ROOM WITH TUB & SHOWER ONE PERSON 2 & 2-50 RATE TWO PERSONS 2-50 & 3 COFFEE & SUGAR TOWELS MASON OF MARKET ST.

When in Medford Stay at HOTEL HOLLAND Thoroughly Modern Joe and Anne Earley Proprietors

SAN FRANCISCO'S Finest Moderately Priced Hotel OXFORD EVERY ROOM WITH TUB & SHOWER ONE PERSON 2 & 2-50 RATE TWO PERSONS 2-50 & 3 COFFEE & SUGAR TOWELS MASON OF MARKET ST.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy Southworth's wild young men start tearing around the sacks on undisclosed missions the chances are that they will be swatted firmly. The Yankees never will become flustered and present the Cards a cluster of runs.

There is only one way the Cards can defeat the proud American league champs. That is with superlative pitching, tight fielding and timely hitting.

right down to the last batter out in the seventh game. If Cooper, in particular, gets belted around at the start, it could be over in four games.

National league batters who have seen more of Cooper this year than they might have wished, say he is a truly great pitcher when "right." One manager, who will remain anonymous at his own request, predicted the other day that Cooper would handuff the Yanks every time he faced them. That indicates the respect in which his league rivals hold the Card ace.

By GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals probably should be warned in advance that the reckless hell-raising base running that has served them so well in the National league is likely to backfire on them if they try it on the Yankees in the world series.

The Yankees are not a stampeding ball club, and the first time Billy