

NEXT TAXPAYING DATE IS NOV. 15

November 15 is the next tax-paying date, Tax Collector Max A. Saunders said today and warned that payments must be made by that time to get the regular three per cent rebate. Saunders said the rebate amounts to the equivalent of an eight per cent interest rate. The taxes are the 1942-43 county and state levies and include all irrigation districts with the exception of the Enterprise and Horsefly districts.

Pvt. Freeman Thought to be Prisoner of Japs

Unofficial word that her son, Pvt. Robert J. Freeman, 23, is a prisoner of the Japs in Tanaga, The Philippines, has been received by Mrs. Olen Vestal of Terrebonne, Ore., according to her daughter, Mrs. Dorothea Beckwith, member of the Klamath county library staff. Young Freeman was first reported missing in action on the Bataan peninsula. He was a member of the US army air force, pursuit squadron.

Mrs. Beckwith has two other brothers in the service, Luther Vestal, PFC, 19, stationed in Hawaii until recently when he was detailed to Fort Hobbs, N. M., and Rex Vestal, PFC, 22, "somewhere in the Pacific." Rex was in Australia until a short time ago, his family learned. He is a member of the US army signal corps.

Luther Vestal is well known here where he lived for a time with the Beckwith family.

IRRIGATION PLAN MAY BE EXTENDED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 1 (AP)—Reclamation Commissioner John C. Page declared in a message directed to western reclamation states today that the war industries established there should be there to stay.

Page's message was sent to a meeting of the American Institute of Steel Construction in Colorado Springs. Noting that the theme of the day's discussion was rebuilding the west after the war, Page declared: "The war industries which have found raw materials, power, and labor in the west should be here to stay. But the extent of the peace-time operations of these industries, their ability to maintain employment, and a large part of the market for their output will depend upon a balanced economy in the arid and semi-arid regions of the 100th meridian.

"The economic foundation of the west has been, is, and will always be the proper utilization of its scant water supply."

The commissioner said his bureau was ready to accelerate its irrigation program to meet increased war needs for foods. If funds and priorities became available, he declared,

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, speaking in New Delhi, declared American and British troops would fight their way into the European continent as soon as possible and reviewed developments in five major war areas (diagonally shaded): The Atlantic, where he said the situation was better; the air offensive against Germany; the Red front, where "the Russians are going to hold"; the Mid-East, where "Rommel won't get any farther," and the Pacific and Indian theaters where, "as to the Japanese, he's got his hands full."

Tons of Scrap "Produced" by General Motors

Enough old metal to provide the scrap necessary to build two 35,000-ton battleships has been gathered by GM "waste wardens" since the first of the year. Including the flow of production scrap from metal finishing machines, the total haul from GM's intensive scrap drive amounts to 531,000,000 pounds of iron, steel, copper, aluminum and other metals essential to the war effort. Pictured above is a scrap pile at one of GM's 99 war plants. A worker is engaged in cutting up the large pieces with torch prior to shipment.
