OPA APPROVES LUMBER PRICE CEILING BOOST

Provision for the overtime price bonuses was recently made to combat the shortage of labor in the west coast forests.

The amount of bonus is scaled to the degree of overtime operation. Each firm may continue to add the authorized surcharge to its ceiling price for its entire production so long as it continues to operate on an overtime basis.

Forty-one logging companies operating on a 48-hour week were authorized to add $1 a thousand feet for all logs produced.

There were no Klamath county lumber firms listed in the OPA price authorization. Most of the organizations were fire producers in Washington and northern Oregon.

SMOKE WIPES OUT SEATTLE FAMILY OF 5

SEATTLE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Frank Campbell Reed, 39, prominent Washington state lumberman and son of the late Mark Reed, Pacific northwest republican leader, his wife and their three sons died when trapped by fire in their palatial Lake Washington home early yesterday.

Fire inspectors, who investigated the tragedy, said none of the family of five had a chance to escape. All were believed to have died from heat and suffocation.

The fire was believed to have been started by a cigarette smoldering in an overstuffed chair or davenport in the library. The blaze spread from the library up a circular stairway and through the second floor of the beautiful residence.

Mrs. Georgine Reed, 35, was trapped in one bedroom with her two youngest sons, Frank C., 9, and Thomas Milburn, 6. The third son, Mark E., 11, died alone in his own bedroom. The body of the father was found near the bed in his room.

Emma Weys, the Reed cook, and Esther Stavdahl, a maid, who were sleeping in another section of the house, escaped. Firemen stopped the fire within a few minutes after it had badly damaged the house's interior. The loss was estimated at several thousand dollars.

POOR PAY

PRINEVILLE, Oct. 5 (AP)—Wages still are in lower brackets for burglars in these parts, police revealed today.

Tobacco Chew Leads to Death

THE DALLES, Ore., Oct. 5 (AP) Coroner C. R. Callaway today said that Fred S. Harrington, 68, of Frankfort, Ind., probably met his death yesterday because he took a chew of tobacco on a train and was looking for a place to spit.

Harrington's body was found a mile west of The Dalles beside the Union Pacific tracks. He had been en route to Portland and was to have visited two daughters, Mrs. Edna Fisher of Wheeler and Mrs. Robert Benich of Tigard.

The coroner said that a fresh chew of tobacco was in Harrington's mouth, and that he apparently had gone to the vestibule of a car, opened one of the doors and then plunged headfirst to the ground as the train rounded a curve. He died instantly.

The body is being held here pending funeral arrangements.

ROYAL CROWN COLA TALKING!

WHO SAYS MY FRIENDS AREN'T FIGHTIN' MAD?

Here's Joe. Runs a shipyard crane. Slams those hunks of ships together like he had a personal grudge against Hitler. But Joe's only human. Gets tired and down-in-the-mouth sometimes. I give him a quick-up and a fresh start... and Joe's fightin' mad all over again.

Here's Mrs. Richards. Two sons in the Navy. Two kids at home to take care of. She's fightin' mad, too. Rang every doorbell for blocks to pledge folks to buy more War Bonds and Stamps. Many's the time she turned to me for a moment of ice-cold relaxation, then went on punching doorbells—fightin' mad.

Here's Bill. So fightin' mad he enlisted in the Signal Corps. Tramps through maneuvers with a walkie-talkie packed on his back. By nightfall it weighs a ton. But at the camp canteen. I give him a lift that makes him begin to feel fightin' mad again.

Me? I'm only a 5¢ soft drink. A moment of relaxation in the home front's "war of nerves."

I and my relatives see more than 39,000,000 Americans each day. Help 'em relax. Help to send 'em back—fightin' mad. Wherever I can help—just a little bit—to keep that fightin' mad spirit burning, you'll find me on the job.

My best-by-taste-test flavor keeps me moving out of the stores... fast. I may not always be at your store. But when I am there, you'll find that same best-by-taste-test quality—unchanged!
