MERRILL MEN FILE FOR CITY OFFICE JOBS

MERRILL — Candidates for city offices got under the wire for the city election in November by filing last minute intentions with T. W. Chatburn this week. Without exception incumbents in all offices signified willingness to help out in city government for another term and the number was swelled by two new recruits, Paul Lewis and Levi McDonald, both of whom filed for council posts. Lewis is manager of the Ben Franklin Variety store and McDonald is proprietor of the Lost River hotel.

Dr. F. E. Trotman filed for the mayorship, Uel Dillard for recorder, Warren Fruits for treasurer, Frank Paygr, Sr., for police judge and the council seats are eyed by Chester P. Haskins, Henry Cox, C. E. Sharp and H. C. Bradbury.

Dillard, manager of the Merrill branch Bank of America, is an old hand at worrying over city records while Warren Fruits has served several years in his post. Fruits is associated with the Merrill mills. Cox and Haskins, both well known sheep men and farmers, have been in the harness for some time, but Sharp and Bradbury, both appointed to serve out unexpired terms, are new at the game of mulling over city troubles.

Ballots will be offered voters who go to the polls for the general election.

It takes a gallant lady to pluck "lifers" after she has walked for three days looking for her buck with only a blistered toe to show for it but that is what Mrs. E. E. Kilpatrick, wife of the superintendent of the Merrill schools, is doing. With the scarcity of help beginning to pinch in the basin, women are filling in wherever needed and Mrs. Kilpatrick, tired but patriotic, returned from her hunt to find she was needed in the harvest.

WITNESS FIGHTING DRAWS VFW BARBS

The local post of the Veterans of Foreign War has adopted a resolution praising the police department for its work at the time of the Jehovah's Witness incident, and directing a barbed verbal attack at the Witnesses.

Trouble at the time of the riot, the veterans asserted, "was started by Jehovah's Witnesses when they commenced selling their subversive literature among the crowd that was engaged in selling war bonds. They were armed beforehand with clubs and two-by-fours on which they had fashioned handholds so they could attack our citizens with them and they were accompanied by trained goons and pluguglies to do the fighting."

"They are willing to fight against their own American people but unwilling to fight a foreign foe that has viciously attacked them."

National Fire Prevention Week Now Being Observed

Every citizen is called to take his place in the fire front during the week of October 4 to 10 inclusive, which has been designated national fire prevention week by official proclamation, according to Fire Chief Keith Ambrose.

Although national fire prevention week has been observed annually throughout the U. S. and Canada in an effort to combat our tremendous peacetime fire loss, this year it has even greater importance. With the danger of fires set by saboteurs or incendiary bombs present in any community at any time, each citizen has a job to do in protecting his own property and that of his neighbor against the menace of the flames.

Even the smallest fires starting accidentally in a private home may set the torch to vital war plants. Now that America is both the arsenal and the bread basket of democracy the safety of every farm, factory and home against fire is a vital part of the war effort.

A huge volunteer fire army made up of professional firefighters, civic clubs, youth agencies and civilian volunteers will begin the drive to enlist all citizens in the fire front during Fire Prevention Week. In the past one of the chief observances of the week has been a national inspection of homes by fire departments, civic organizations, Boy and Girl Scouts and members of the 4-H clubs. Wherever fire hazards are found, the home owner is apprised of their existence and shown how to eliminate them.

The fire hazards that cause most of the residential fires in the United States are listed by the National Fire Protection association as flammable roofs, defective or dirty chimneys, defective flues and heating plants, misuse of electrical devices, carelessness in smoking and the handling of matches, the use of flammable fluids for home cleaning, accumulations of combustible rubbish and the keeping of hot ashes in flammable boxes and baskets. All of these hazards can be eliminated by the household.

Instruction in methods of fighting fires that have started despite all precautions have always been included in National Fire Prevention Week activities. This year a highlight of the week in many communities will be demonstrations of the most effective means of extinguishing incendiary bombs.
