Preacher Saw Wood

"Mr. Preacher, will you come out to our place and take a hand with the boys on the woodsaw?"

Indeed the preacher would. You see him jump into his working togs and set forth. With the country towns stripped of man power, all of us expect to fit in whenever and wherever. For we are back again to the days when the Jesse James gang and the Jesse James boys were shooting up the towns along the Kansas-Missouri border. Then, as now, the law abiding citizens ran down the desperadoes to make the country safe. Only this time it is on a world scale with the outlaws set to rob all mankind.

Yes, each of us is bound to take a hand. But more than that, Almighty God himself has an interest. For the Japanese military are an offense to him. Above him they set up their emperor as the Son of Heaven. "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof; the world and they that dwell therein." No man can strip him of his first place. The war lords may defy him, but—"He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in derision."

Hitler also must fail, since he affirms that he will put an end to belief in Christ. But our Lord commanded His people—"Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." This they have done. The Bible in whole or in part, has been translated into upwards of 1040 languages and dialects. The ends of the earth rejoice. The peoples of Asia, Africa and the islands of the sea walk miles and stand long to hear the story of redeeming love. The people who have been sitting in the region of the shadow of death welcome the Gospel light. And Christ pledges—"Behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." Shall the forces that are shooting up the world stop our Lord?

Now for our own fireside. When evening settles down and the chair that stands empty, reminds you of the boy who is away in the service, be comforted. For God also puts a value on that waiting chair; that boy of yours is fighting God's battle for world decency. And if the boy has named Christ as Saviour, be twice comforted.

Again, we ask—Was Christ the Son of God? Did He die for your sins? Have you asked and claimed forgiveness on the ground that His death settled in full for you? Where will you be one minute after death?

NEW KLAMATH TRAFFIC LAW NEARING OKAY

Klamath Falls' new traffic ordinance, a 13-page typewritten document which took Police Judge Leigh Ackerman just 45 minutes to read at last Monday night's council meeting, will be held up for the third and final reading until the traffic safety council goes into another huddle on the lengthy regulation.

The safety committee, made up of Sam Ritchey, chairman, Warren Bennet, John Sandmeyer, Fred Langell, E. A. Thomas, Odell Olson and Leigh Ackerman, has worked for almost one full year perfecting the ordinance which revises many antiquated rules of order in Klamath Falls. Model ordinances from cities in Oregon and other western states, have been studied by the committee in their effort to draft a modern, up-to-date ordinance which would bring this city's traffic ruling up to the minute.

The ordinance was to have been presented for the third and final reading Tuesday night, the regular council meeting of Monday postponed one day due to the observance of Columbus day.

DORRIS PILES UP 25 TONS OF SCRAP METAL

DORRIS—Students and faculty members of Butte Valley high school at Dorris had piled up an estimated 25 tons of scrap metal by Friday, and preparations were being made to bring in a scrap harvest of many additional tons from outlying Butte Valley ranches.

Among old articles gathered in the drive was an old naval cannon from the Dorris city hall grounds and a heavy fire bell discarded by the fire department after a new bell was purchased.

The drive received a send-off at a school assembly Monday at which Mayor William G. Hagelstein outlined the importance of metal salvage and Principal Don Doolin and Coach Harry Beck described the national scrap program and its organization.

Before the assembly was over the students were raring to get started at that moment, but Principal Doolin induced them to wait until school closing time. Competition among the classes and the faculty added zest to the two-weeks campaign. The two groups gathering the least metal must fete the others with a dance and party. The faculty

'DESPERATE' MILK SITUATION LOOMS

SEATTLE, Oct. 10 (AP)—Maj. Gen. H. G. Winsor, regional director for the war manpower commission, warned that an impending milk shortage "has not only civilians, but also the armed forces of this area and Alaska, facing a desperate situation."

In a statement, issued through the Seattle branch of the office of war information, General Winsor added:

"There is going to be a critical milk shortage. Dairy cows of this area are being slaughtered at a terrific rate."

was apparently putting up a drive comparable to the student classes, depositing a large pile of metal in the first few evenings, although students accused the teachers of "borrowing" from their piles.

Much of the success of the drive was attributed to generous offering of the use of trucks and towcars by local mills and Dorris business men.

Always read the want-ads.
