

THIRD VESSEL HIT, BELIEVED TO BE DOWNED

verely; eight bombers, four fighter planes and three seaplanes destroyed.

Aleutian Islands—Japanese ships, camps and hangars at Kiska, the invader's lone remaining foothold, blasted by aerial bombs and burned by incendiaries. Resistance was relatively weak.

New Guinea—Enemy ground forces pushed back in the Owen Stanley mountains toward their Kokoda base by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's allied troops while heavy bombers dropped 1,000-pound explosives on the Japanese airbase at Rabaul, New Britain. Grounded aircraft smashed by direct hits.

Destroyer Lost
The American forces, the navy reported, lost a destroyer and two fighter planes in the Solomons. All American and allied bombers returned from the Aleutian and New Britain raids although some suffered minor damage.

Japan's losses as disclosed by navy communiques yesterday and last night, pushed her total Solomon Islands toll to 260 destroyed planes, eight vessels sunk, three probably sunk and 37 damaged. The announced American total was 10 lost ships.

The latest series of beatings administered to the Japanese in the southeastern Pacific started October 9 when marine corps aircraft damaged two cruisers and shot down three seaplanes.

On the night of October 11-12, United States cruisers and destroyers surprised Japanese vessels attempting to land reinforcements on Guadalcanal island and with torpedoes and gunfire sank a 10,000-ton heavy cruiser, four destroyers and a 5,000-ton transport. The enemy sank a destroyer unidentified as yet by the navy.

Failing in its landing mission, the Japanese fleet steamed away but was caught a few hours later in a torpedo and dive bombing assault by pursuing navy and marine corps planes. At least one more cruiser was badly damaged. Later in the day, the planes attacked again, leaving a destroyer sinking and smashing either the damaged cruiser or another one sufficiently to cause the crew to abandon ship.

They flew alongside South African air force fighters who shot down two Junkers, 87 dive bombers and damaged six others out of an enemy force which included 12 dive bombers and 20 escorting fighters.

RAF fighters, beating off an almost constant stream of axis bombers over Malta, shot down 17 axis planes yesterday, making a three-day total of 58 axis planes destroyed and more than 50 badly damaged, a joint RAF-British headquarters communique said.

"Enemy activity over Malta continued and again our fighters successfully broke up all attacks before damage could be inflicted," the communique said. The British defenders of the island, which is a constant threat to axis convoys moving across the Mediterranean, lost only one Spitfire yesterday. In addition to the 17 planes reported destroyed many others were damaged, the communique said.

Heavy and medium bombers attacked Tobruk and along the North African coast and night fighters carried out an offensive sweep over Daba, it was reported.

GERMAN-ITALIAN FRICTION VIEWED

said Himmler "has been received by Il Duce (Mussolini), with whom he had a lengthy and cordial conversation."

But the broadcast gave no hint of what Himmler, the man chiefly responsible for bending the occupied territories and even Germany's allies to Hitler's will, may have told the Italian dictator.

Reports were current in Ankara and Istanbul that one demand Germany was about to make was for full control of Italy's Adriatic port of Trieste.

Nazi Pressure

An informed Balkan observer in London suggested that such rumors might be axis-inspired—perhaps a German propaganda move to screw down more pressure on Italy.

The suggestion that recent Italian-American developments figured in the reported rift between the European axis partners came from the Stockholm correspondent of the National Zeitung of Basel, Switzerland.

He quoted the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter as reporting that the differences were accentuated by Italian permission for Myron C. Taylor's plane to land at Rome when the special envoy of President Roosevelt was on his way recently to Vatican City for conferences with the pope, and by developments in the treatment of Italians in the United States.

Mentioned specifically was the announcement by U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle that effective October 19 Italians in the United States no longer would be under restrictions as enemy aliens.

PLANS A FOOT TO DISCHARGE UNFIT, ELDERS

not have to be inducted until after 1943.

Married Men Draft
Selective service expects to begin drafting married men with dependent wives next month.

Admiral King told the senate committee that the navy, marine corps and coast guard thus far had manned all posts through volunteer enlistments, but that the sea services would face the same problem as the army "if and when" they have to depend on selective service to supply their manpower.

Secretary Stimson gave this breakdown of 1943's army needs to the house group:
Air forces, 2,200,000.
Organized ground units, 3,300,000.

Services of supply and related duties, 2,000,000.

Not Acceptable
General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff testified that because the selective service system does not now reach men younger than 20, the average age of the combat army "has risen to a point not at all acceptable to the war department."

Marshall said he was investigating the possibility of releasing older draftees from the army, after the drafting of the younger men.

Marshall was appearing before the senate military committee. Asked by Chairman Reynolds (D-N.C.) whether it was the army's intention to discharge "the physically unfit and return them to civilian life," Marshall said that it was, adding that "they are a burden to us." He said he was unable to estimate the number who would be discharged, but the army was "working on that now."

"Back Home"
Asked by Senator Hill (D-Ala.) whether passage of the 18-19-year-old bill would "take the strain off the older men with dependents," the general said he thought so.

"I am looking into it to see what we can do about getting them back home," he said, "not only about getting them back, but how quickly we can get them back."

Marshall said the average age of new divisions now being formed and trained advanced rapidly, citing as an instance one division which had an average of 26 years in June, 27 years in July and 30 years in August.

Even in amphibious divisions, which will be called upon to do what he described as "toughest kind of fighting," he said he had found 38-year-old privates.

THIS thought, in one form or another, is in the minds of those who urge conscription of EVERYTHING and EVERYBODY in time of war.

As things are and always have been, the civilian gets all the best of it.

Heilbronner Writes McNary For Jap Probe

Japanese colony. The project, he said, is consuming more than 1500 gallons of milk per day "while we are going to be rationed in the near future."

Heilbronner told Senator McNary and other Oregon congressmen and senators that 50,000 tons of coal are being shipped to the Tule lake project and that many cars are not unloaded in time and demurrage paid because the colonists "are too lazy to work and are not compelled to."

The Klamath man called attention to the fact that many of the white citizens on Tule lake are war veterans whose sons are in the present war. "How do you think they feel about it?" he asked. He asserted that Japanese at the project are "treated better than Uncle Sam's own citizens" and said "it is time to call a halt and investigate."

The Dunsuir (Siskiyou county) News and the Siskiyou Daily News of Yreka in recent editions contained articles criticizing the freedom granted Japanese evacuees at the Newell settlement.

W. I. Humphreys, writing in the Dunsuir paper, said that "by the statement of the civilians in charge . . . inmates of the camp are permitted to travel at will in the whole valley if cleared by authorities at the camp."

The Yreka paper editorially criticized what it described as "coddling" the Japanese.

Tule Lake Japs Accused of Duck Fishing

ants in the colony, Miller said the commission was told. Hundreds of thousands of ducks and geese have blanketed the vast tule marshes around the internment center, Miller said after a recent visit there.

Some Japanese, in violation of federal game laws, have baited fish-hooks and captured ducks and geese on set-lines, Miller said he was told.

Although their quarters do not include regular cooking provisions, the Japanese have managed to cook the birds on heating stoves, Miller said.

"Word Gets Around"
State game officials, anxious to protect the game birds from unscrupulous and out-of-season hunting, have been unable to help prevent the Japanese depredations, Miller said, because the project is federally controlled and the violations are federal in nature.

Miller said WRA authorities have asked state game wardens to help with the problem but a military pass is required to place an agent in the center and "the word gets around as soon as a game officer obtains a pass and enters the area."
