STREAMLINED PRODUCTION FOR WAR EYED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson of the war production board announced today he would limit government construction to projects "directly essential" to the war effort.

Nelson notified the heads of eight governmental agencies that he had given instructions to revoke priority assistance to a large part of non-military construction for the federal government, and said a review now was under way of all military projects of the army, navy, and maritime commission, with the same end in view.

Too Big—Nelson said, "As things now stand, Nelson said, 'facilities and construction, including many projects not related to the war effort, programs for 1943, with the carry-over of uncompleted 1942 projects will absorb between one-fifth and one-fourth of the total war effort.'

Nelson was represented as having told legislators that the nation's production schedule for 1943 was becoming too big to be met with the materials that were likely to be available.

Reclassification—It was his intention, he was quoted as saying, to see to it that the vital parts of the war machine—the tanks, planes, guns, ships and other equipment—came along as fast as humanly possible.

This probably would involve, it was said, a reclassification of the whole program, with priorities on raw materials adjusted so they would flow unimpeded into the plants that were making the primary war equipment.

After this demand had been made, less essential items would take their place in the materials line, with civilian needs relegated to the third group where production would have to be geared to whatever supplies were left.

U. S. READY FOR ACTION, SOVIETS SAY

MOSCOW, Oct. 21 (AP)—Red Star, official organ of the soviet army, asserted today that the United States is ready now in men and equipment to open active military operations.

(The Russian press has expressed the view with increasing frequency recently that Russia's allies have the strength to undertake second front operations at once to relieve German pressure on the soviet forces.)

Acid Test—"Successful fulfillment of war industry problems, growth of the army and airforce and accelerated naval construction create all the necessary conditions for active operations by the United States," Red Star said. "They have enough men and machines. As to the training and operative ability of the army, this can be determined only in armed struggle."

The best substitute for being smart these days is keeping your mouth shut.

WAR WRITER'S DEATH RAISES TOLL TO NINE

GENERAL MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 21 (AP)—Byron Darnton, 44-year-old war correspondent of the New York Times, was killed accidentally Sunday in New Guinea, military authorities disclosed today.

A brief announcement expressed the deep regret of General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of allied forces in the southwest Pacific. It contained no details of the accident.

Darnton's death raised to nine the number of American correspondents who have been killed or are missing—excluding those known to be captives of the enemy—on assignments overseas since the start of the year.

Other American correspondent fatalities while on foreign assignments during the war have been:

—Ralph W. Barnes, New York Herald Tribune, in a crash of a British bomber in Yugoslavia.

—Melville Jacoby, Time, in a takeoff accident in Australia.

—Webb Miller, general European manager of the United Press, in a blackout in England.

—Don Bell, NBC correspondent, bayoneted to death by the Japanese in Manila.

—Harry Percy, United Press, died of malignant malaria in Cairo.

The missing include Witt Hancock, Associated Press, and William McDougall, United Press, who have not been heard from since the fall of Java, and Jack Singer, International News Service, who failed to return from a task force operation in the Pacific.

HIGH SCHOOL News Notes and Comment

By ANITA GWYN
 The assembly committee gathered together the other afternoon after school and made plans for the assembly to be at 1 p. m. Friday for the game with Eugene.

From Bob Brown, chairman, we gather that the theme will be aimed at the funny bone of the audience. Be prepared for the return of a comedy team of last year. There will be a speaker from the Quarterback club.

Say, wouldn't it be wonderful to be a teacher? Just happened to be in the room where a teachers' meeting was to be held. Trays of doughnuts and a pot of coffee were being eyed by the instructors before the meeting was called to order.

The report from the freshman and sophomore class meetings couldn't be had in time for this writing, for all nominees must be passed by the eligibility committee, which probably made its report late this afternoon. Results will be listed in tomorrow's column.

will hold their meeting tomorrow morning. Be prepared to nominate those you believe capable of doing good work and who believe in doing what is best for the students.

If a student wants a job and doesn't have one, it's nobody's fault but his own. Everyday, the deans and the employment office advertise jobs for high school boys and girls. This is one of the many ways the younger generation can help the war labor problem.

FORGET the RUMORS

Please Read This Statement

I have heard many rumors recently, that I had resigned the office of County Commissioner, that I had given up the nomination accorded me in the Primary Election. Some of the busy-bodies even tried to find me disqualified from office because I volunteered for Army Service.

Let's get this straight—I have never resigned nor given up my nomination. I am not disqualified because I took Basic Training this summer in the hot Sheppard Field, Texas camp. No, sir, an Army uniform does not disqualify anyone.

I am a little past the age for combat duty and can only have domestic service, so I am doing Military Police Duty in Klamath County, and am released from active Army service.

I am serving as County Commissioner at the present time.

Please don't be confused by rumors—I am qualified and I do want to be re-elected.

I solicit your support.
