

COUNTY 4-H WINNERS IN BIG CONTESTS

Some of the outstanding club members from Klamath county have entered the national contests sponsored by different business firms throughout the country. The county winners in these contests determined by their years, progress and leadership in club work. Their records have been sent in for competition in the state contests, where they will be judged with entries from each county in the state of Oregon. State winners will be awarded educational trips to the national club congress in Chicago December 1, and national winners will be awarded defense bonds and college scholarships up to $300.

The different contestants and contests are as follows:
Eva Furber of Midland was county winner in the national victory garden contest sponsored by Sears, Roebuck and Company. She has had five years of 4-H club work, and has taken up the following projects: Canning, leathercraft, 2 years, health, victory garden. Eva was winner of the Herald and News victory garden contest, and was pronounced victory garden queen of Klamath county and presented with the $50 award by Frank Jenkins. Eva's 4-H poster won first place in the state poster contest held at 4-H summer school in June this year.

Patricia Masten of route 2, box 799, Klamath Falls, was county winner in the national 4-H dress revue contest sponsored by the Chicago Mail Order company. She has had eight years of 4-H club work, and has been active in the following projects: Cooking, 4 years; clothing, 4 years; canning, 4 years; beef, 2 years. Patricia has a brother and several sisters who have been active in club work for many years, and her mother is a local leader of a 4-H club.

Taylor High of route 2, box 742, Klamath Falls, was county winner in the national meat animal contest sponsored by Thomas E. Wilson. Taylor has had eight years of club work, and has exhibited some of his choice beef animals at the World's fair at San Francisco and at the Pacific International Livestock exposition, where he has made exceptional records. Taylor has been active in the following clubs: Cooking, 2 years; health, beef, 8 years; weed, potatoes, 5 years; clover seed and photography. Taylor's father and mother are both active 4-H club leaders in the Olene district.

Eris Fleming of route 2, box 568, Klamath Falls, has been a 4-H club member for nine years, and is the county winner of the national girls' record contest and the national clothing achievement contest. The girls' record contest is sponsored by Montgomery, Ward & Co., and the clothing achievement contest is sponsored by the Spool Cotton company. Eris was judged outstanding girl in club work in 1939, and has taken the following 4-H projects: Cooking, 2 years; clothing, 6 years; canning, 3 years, and homemaking, 2 years. She has also assisted with the leadership of a 4-H club.

Mary Bruner, of route 2, box 560, Klamath Falls, was chosen county winner of the national food preparation contest, sponsored by Servel, Inc. She has been an active 4-H club member for the past eight years, taking up the following 4-H club projects: Clothing, 2 years; cooking, 4 years; canning, 5 years, forestry, room improvement and dairy.

Cora Young of route 1, box 897, Klamath Falls, is county winner of the national 4-H canning achievement contest, sponsored by the Kerr Glass Manufacturing corporation. Cora has made a fine record in 4-H canning projects, winning many awards. She has participated in the following clubs: Beef, 5 years; clothing, 3 years; canning, 4 years. Cora's mother has been an active 4-H local leader for several years.

Four-H club members throughout Klamath county are looking forward to knowing the results of the state judging, with great anticipation.

Not All Japs Want to Die For Emperor, Seaman Says

PORTLAND, Oct. 24 (AP) — Some Japanese aviators, at least, are not fanatical about dying for their emperor, James Donovan, seaman first class, said here today.

Home after taking part in the battle for the Solomon islands, Donovan described a fight between anti-aircraft gunners of a U. S. fleet detachment and Japanese bombers.

"Our whole fleet opened up at once, filling the sky with bursting shells and white smoke. We had our eyes glued on the leader. Nobody seemed to see the others. The leader kept right on coming, passing straight on across the whole fleet of ships, and just above their masts. Suddenly, he swerved a bit, then exploded in mid-air and pieces of that plane fluttered to the water," he said.

"That is where we cut loose. We shouted and cheered, and jumped up and down, and slapped each other like a bunch of kids watching their team win a football game. Those other Japs were dropping out of the sky like birds. We were informed later, but I don't know whether it was true, that of 40 Japs that started for us, not one got back to his base. Our fighters took care of those the ack-ack didn't get.

"Don't let anybody tell you those Japs don't want to be saved. We picked up two of them from their plane, floating in the water, and they were glad to be saved. But they were skeptical. They thought we would kill them when we got good and ready. They wouldn't eat at first. Later, it dawned upon them that we would not harm them, and then they brightened up and smiled and laughed."

MILLS GIRL SCOUTS LEAD COOKIE SALES

The Girl Scouts wish to thank all their many friends who have bought the Girl Scout cookies on sale this month. Fifteen hundred boxes were received in the first shipment and, according to Mrs. Fred Flock, chairman of this project, all have been sold and many orders are on file awaiting the next shipment.

According to the reports to date Troop 3, Mills school, under the leadership of Mrs. Stewart Patty, has sold the greatest number of boxes. Next comes Altamont Junior high, with its three troops co-operating. These troops are led by Mrs. Emma Carter, troop 9; Miss Dea Jean Hardy, troop 11, and troop 16, Mrs. Walter Hanson.

Girl Scouts are still taking orders for the cookies and they will be delivered as soon as received from the Langendorf Bakeries.

Camp White Practices Artillery at Beagle

Artillery fire is being conducted in the Beagle area on the Camp White military reservation on the afternoons of October 26 to October 30 inclusive, according to an announcement from headquarters, Camp White, Ore.

Range guards will be posted on or before 10:00 a. m. and roads leading into the area will be closed.

The Beagle range is located directly north of upper Table rock on the reservation. Firing on any part of the area is indicated by a red flag on the Antelope range house at the corner of Wellen and Corey roads, or at the Beagle range house one mile north of the military bridge.

LEGION WORKS OUT PLAN FOR ARMISTICE DAY

Klamath Post No. 8 of the American Legion is conducting the Armistice day exercises in Klamath Falls this year in cooperation with the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Disabled American Veterans of the World war.

All patriotic organizations, service clubs, fraternal organizations and churches have been asked to conduct a program at their regular meeting closest to Armistice day commemorating the 24th anniversary of Armistice day.

The general program on Armistice day will consist of the regular 40 & 8 breakfast to be held at 7:30 a. m.; a parade which will form at the Legion hall at 10:30 a. m. and will be participated in by the Klamath Falls police department and reserves, the high school band, Pep Peppers and the various marching units of the Eagles, Moose, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts and the American Legion Drum corps.

A contingent of troops from Camp White at Medford, Ore., have been asked to participate with some anti aircraft equipment. The parade will form at 10:30 a. m. at the Legion hall and march down Main street to the Armory where the Armistice day observances will be conducted. The local bond committee will conduct a bond sale that day.

Any marching unit of any organization that would care to participate should contact James R. Fowler, who can be reached at telephone 3033.

In the evening Klamath Post No. 8 will conduct a dance at the Armory.

Klamath Post No. 8 will hold open house in their new quarters in the Legion hall all day, and all service men are invited to participate.

BOY, THAT'S HONEST!

WAYNESBORO, Pa., (AP)—H. E. Wilson, traveling man, thinks Waynesboro must be the most honest town in the nation.

On his last trip here he left his hat on a restaurant hat rack and forgot about it.

"Three months later," he said, "I came back and went into the same restaurant. And there, right where I left it, was that hat."

Unique Scrap Drive Held By Weyerhaeuser Shop Men

A unique plan for a scrap iron drive was conceived by J. H. Hunter, machine shop foreman of the Weyerhaeuser Timber company and carried out recently during the noon hour by the employees of the machine shop.

Each employee wishing to participate, paid an entrance fee of ten cents, thereby making up a purse to be won by the one gathering the most scrap in time to resume their regular work.

All contestants, equipped with sacks, gathered at a designated place and at a given signal the drive was on.

When the drive ended, 40 minutes later, it was found that 14 men had gathered 2675 pounds of scrap which otherwise would not have reached the steel mills.

The scrap gathered consisted of nuts, bolts, washers and other small pieces of metal scattered around the plant yard and not at any regular place of accumulation.

The winner in the drive was Lule Benson who gathered 315 pounds. The runnerup was Frank Barnett who gathered 303 pounds.

During the course of this drive an old scrap pile was discovered which contained much small scrap that had become covered with dirt. Several machine shop employees dug into this pile and it was estimated that they recovered 1200 pounds.

The Weyerhaeuser Timber company gave all scrap gathered to the employees who will give the proceeds of the sale to the Commandos.

WRECKED HIS RECORD

OKLAHOMA CITY, (AP) — A zealot for traffic safety, Police Inspector Dan Hollingsworth was proud of his unblemished driving record during 11 years as an officer.

While making his last inspection tour — he enlisted in the navy last week — another driver crashed into the back of his police cruiser.

Hollingsworth's last official report was that of his first accident as a policeman.
