

PIERCE VISIT STIRS INTEREST IN ELECTIONS

MERRILL—A slight flurry of pre-election interest followed the recent campaign visit of Congressman Walter M. Pierce, who, during his brief visit here, unofficially visited the WRA project at Newell. Pierce is expected to carry both Merrill precincts by a comfortable margin.

Even the gubernatorial contest fails to stimulate much enthusiasm, with Secretary of State Earl Snell apparently the choice of Merrill voters. City politics, in the groove of a probable hold-over in the majority of offices, are not even simmering.

City Offices

The only contest for city offices is for council seats with C. P. Haskins, Tom Barry, Paul Lewis and Henry O. Cox filling for the long terms. Haskins and Cox are veterans at city management while Lewis, manager of the Ben Franklin store, and Barry, manager of the Merrill Meat company, are new aspirants.

Levi McDonald, C. E. Sharp and H. C. Bradbury are in the race for the two-year terms, Sharp and Bradbury having filled out the unexpired terms of councilmen who have left Merrill.

Dr. F. E. Trotman is up for mayor, Warren Fruits for treasurer and Uel Dillard for recorder. There was no filing for police judge. That office is now held by Frank Paygr. Sr.

Over 200 Gather for Navy Day Observance; Form Club

More than 200 people, many of them members of the immediate families of navy men, gathered at the Legion hall Tuesday night for the observance of Navy Day and the organization of a Klamath basin navy club.

The event was sponsored by the American Legion, assisted by the Klamath Kiwanis club and ended with Frank Jenkins, chairman of the evening, empowered to name a committee to select nominees for officers of the new navy club.

CGM F. R. Duncan, former navy recruiter here and now recruiter in charge of the Portland main station, was the principal speaker of the evening. He discussed the recent history of the navy, its enormous problem in this war, and urged American support of the navy as the "first line of attack."

Another feature of the evening was the showing of a navy moving and talking picture by CBM C. J. Speakman, local navy recruiter.

Navy families in the audience were then called upon to stand and give the names of their navy men. One after another, each family arose, some listing as many as two or three men in the navy. One man produced a picture of his boy.

Bush Hayden, radio technician, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Hayden, and James Watson, yeoman third class, were introduced as active navy men. Hayden was introduced by his mother, and in turn introduced his wife, Mrs. Watson introduced Watson.

Malcolm Epley, president of the Kiwanis club, told briefly of the club's activities this year in assisting navy recruiting.

After the program, light refreshments, provided by the Kiwanis club, were served by members of the Legion auxiliary.

The meeting was opened by Fred LaForge, commander of the local Legion post.

New Regulations Control Wage, Salary Increases

higher rate than on individual earned income.

The $25,000 salary limitation is not effective until January 1, although increases are prohibited meantime.

The president, whose $75,000 salary is the only statutory federal increment exceeding $25,000, has asked the treasury, Byrnes said, that his pay be limited within the regulations. Whether he would have to turn back a portion of his salary depended on the amount of his deduction allowances.

Before reaching the $25,000 maximum, deductions are permitted for federal income taxes, customary charitable contributions, payments on life insurance policies and other fixed obligations in effect on October 3, 1942, and for past income taxes due.

Increases may be granted automatically in these classifications in cases of individual promotions or reclassifications; individual merit increases within established salary rate ranges; operation of an established system of salary increases based on service; increased productivity under an incentive plan, and in the operation of a trainee system.

ing that this project was not an evacuation camp, an internment camp or an internment center, but rather a Relocation project. Within the Center Japanese residents are allowed freedom at all times, and between sunset and sunrise this Area is patrolled by the troops stationed there. This patrolling is done by vehicles and by the aid of seven towers equipped with powerful searchlights. No Japanese resident is allowed to leave this Center between sunset and sunrise. Between the hours of sunrise and sunset Japanese residents are allowed the freedom of the Area, and the boundaries of the Area are then patrolled by the troops stationed there. While Japanese residents are allowed to cross the highway at the main gate and also to cross over the Southern Pacific railroad tracks directly across from the main gate in order to reach the hog farm, poultry farm and vegetable farm, they are not allowed to walk up and down the highway or the railroad tracks. At the present time trucks going from the Center to the various farm units must use the highway for a considerable distance. However, there is under construction a private road leading from the vegetable farm east directly to the Southern Pacific tracks. We have been advised by Southern Pacific officials that a right-of-way has been obtained adjacent to the Southern Pacific tracks and opposite the regular highway for a road which would eliminate the use of the highway by trucks driven by Japanese to a great extent except for trucks crossing the highway right at the main gate.

"We inquired as to the rumors with reference to the Japanese 'roaming the countryside.'" Mr. Shirrell informed us that one Caucasian guard had on three different occasions signed that he was accompanying parties of Japanese to various points outside of the Area—one of them being to Medicine lake and one to a nursery northeast of Tulelake. However, on these three occasions this guard did not accompany the Japanese and, therefore, there was fact for the stories that the Japanese were outside of the Area unescorted. This guard has now been dismissed from the services of the War Relocation authority, and we have been further informed by an officer of General DeWitt's staff that these facts are true.

"Mr. Shirrell stated that the salary of teachers in the Elementary school was $1660, in the high school $2000 and the salary for the head of the schools was $2800—these salaries all being based on a twelve-month basis with a 2 1/2 day a month leave. The teachers are all under Civil Service. Mr. Shirrell stated that the enrollment in the high school was 2200 and in the elementary school 1500. We failed to obtain the number of teachers and, after our return, the criticism of a light teacher load was expressed. This cannot be determined until after we have found out the number of teachers in the system. The teachers are living in quarters which were first intended for the armed forces but were not used by them and have been converted into teachers' quarters. Mr. Shirrell further reported that only one teacher was teaching in the Relocation Center who in 1941-1942 taught in the state of Oregon, and she was from Eugene, Ore.

"Mr. Shirrell advised us that they were experiencing the same food shortages at the Center as civilians were experiencing. Residents at the Center are fed by the Quartermasters department at Sacramento and are on army rations of 45¢ a day maximum; for instance their meat ration was 2 1/2 pounds per person a week and consume approximately 18,000 pounds of fish per week.

"Mr. Shirrell advised us that there were 14,475 residents at the Center and that approximately 66 2/3 per cent of them were American citizens. 65,000 of these men and women are on the payroll. The pay for common labor is $12 per month, for semi-skilled $16 per month and for professional such as doctors, dentists, attorneys, teachers, $19 per month. There is a clothing allowance of $2.25 for children, $3.25 for women and $3.75 per month for men. Mr. Shirrell said that he had no authority to force any one of these residents to work and, under the International law, could not produce food nor products of any kind for the armed forces of the United States. Likewise he could not force them to work under the same law. Mr. Shirrell admits that labor troubles are many, a great portion of which is through lack of understanding and lack of proper facilities and conditions for the laborers. In further investigating the matter of so-called strikes at the Center we asked an officer of the United States army from General DeWitt's office concerning them and his answer was, "Well, isn't that a good American custom?"

"We found that the army is now inspecting all incoming parcel post, express and freight shipments. However, first class mail, incoming or outgoing at the Center, is not censored unless censored at its source; for example foreign mail.

"In visiting the mess halls we found the quarters and personnel clean and were given to understand by our guide that there was ample food and that second helpings were served when requested. Our guide further explained that the older people in the Center desired fish, therefore the three fish days per week. This did not fully meet with the

MAN PICKS WRONG CAR FOR A TANGLE

Delmar Inman, 23, picked the wrong car to tangle with late Tuesday night when his machine and one operated by O. A. Kennerly, merchant's police officer, were involved in an accident at Esplanade and Wall.

Inman, United States navy, was charged with drunk driving and having no operator's license. Inman is being held in the city jail with a fine of $100 and 30 days on the drunk driving count, and $5 or 2 1/2 days in jail, on the no operator's charge. In the meantime officers have advised the navy office in Portland of Inman's presence in the city bastle.

have done a lot of fighting and taken a lot of losses for INSUFFICIENT REWARDS.

IN congress, Representative Maas' plan for merging the army, the navy and the Marine corps into a single amphibious (both land and water) fighting force under ONE commander is gaining increased attention.

The decision, of course, is one for unbiased, unprejudiced (if any) military minds, but to the ordinary, practical civilian mind, unhampered by tradition, it seems to have much to recommend it.

It would be a radical departure, of course, but it is likely that there may be many radical departures from the traditional and the conventional before this war is won.

HOOVER CHOICE BRANDED 'LIE'

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Oct. 28 (AP)—Attorney General Earl Warren brands as a "conscienceless lie" a statement attributed to Pat Bradley, president of the Young Democrats of California, that Warren, if elected governor, plans to appoint former President Herbert Hoover as United States senator upon the resignation of Hiram Johnson.

Warren, republican candidate for governor, issued the following statement last night when he arrived here on a campaign tour:

"Any statement by anyone to the effect that I have an understanding with Senator Hiram Johnson or anyone else whereby he will resign and I will, if elected governor, appoint former President Herbert Hoover to succeed him, is a plain, deliberate conscienceless lie.

"I have never heard of any plan of the senator to retire, and personally, I doubt if he has any such intention."
