4-H LEADER URGES UNITY OF INTEREST

TULELAKE—Clifford Jenkins, Klamath county 4-H club leader, addressing the Tulelake Rotary club Wednesday, urged a closer unity between the boys and girls, their parents, the communities in which they live, their schools and community service clubs to stimulate interest among the young people in agricultural pursuits. Reviewing the history of 4-H, Jenkins drew attention to the remarkable growth since the organization was instituted and to the enthusiasm with which the 4-H members enter upon their projects.

In emphasizing this, he remarked that the 4-H scrap drive, completed some time ago before many other organizations had gotten their drives underway, netted 180 pounds per member, a higher average than the per capita rating for the state of Oregon.

Patriotism, too, flames high in the hearts of the young folks, he asserted, since approximately $2000 of the slightly more than $8000 taken in at this year's junior livestock sale was put into war bonds and stamps when the livestock sale was over.

Jenkins was introduced by W. H. Anderson, program chairman.

A letter read from Dr. Wilbur S. Hayden, Tulelake physician now in Australia, who has been promoted to the rank of captain, stated that he had attended several Rotary meetings in the land down under. He reiterated the hospitality of the Australians and commented on the beauty of the country, its birds and animals.

Attendance Problem
Future meetings that may be curtailed by the gasoline rationing came up for consideration and it was pointed out that Rotary clubs of the entire nation, proud of their record of fine attendance, must find a way to preserve that record.

Jerome Keefer, secretary, stated following the meeting that a suggestion has been offered whereby attendance of members at other service clubs, the Lions, Kiwanis, etc., might possibly be recognized by Rotarians if other clubs cared to cooperate.

A number of out-of-town Rotarians were greeted during the luncheon hour, including Rudy A. B. e r e c h t, YMCA organizer, Marysville; John French, Los Angeles; Vincent Court, Alturas; Fred Ruster, Corona, Calif.; Paul Mathews, Major Underwood and Wilson Wiley, all of Klamath Falls.

SPUD WORKERS LEAVE BASIN; CROPS SAFE

TULELAKE — With 99 percent of the 1942 potato crop either in storage or on wheels, migratory workers are drifting out of the basin for other localities. The crop safely under cover, Dan Crawford, secretary of the Tulelake Growers, paused long enough Thursday while harvesting his best crop to express the appreciation of every potato grower in the Tulelake basin for the fine cooperation, the good fellowship, and the willingness to "see the job through" shown by townspeople of Klamath Falls and surrounding valley towns in assisting with the harvesting.

Persons who "never before had ever dreamed of buckling on a spud sack helped," Crawford stated. Weather enabled crews to put the crop into storage in the best shape possible. There was no frost damage and with the dry days, little dirt clung to the tubers.

More Natted Gems
More potatoes were stored this season than last, due to the small percentage of disease. Internal browning that damaged last season's crop and made storage hazardous, was cut to a minimum and consequently there was little forced selling and glutting of markets. Average yield for the Tulelake area, Crawford estimated, will be about 175 sacks per acre. Some yields ran as high as 350 sacks.

More Natted Gems were raised this season than last, the acreage of White Rose being smaller. Approximately 7000 acres were grown in Modoc and Siskiyou counties.

Reports of demands for high wages were numerous. Some farmers paid as high as 15 cents a sack for picking when crews threatened walkouts.

The Growers will meet later to catch up loose ends for the season. No definite date has been set for the meeting.

America's Army Today and Tomorrow

Two years after the first draftee's number was plucked from a fishbowl in Washington—on Oct. 29, 1940—the U. S. Army has grown to a figure surpassing even its greatest strength in World War I. Destined to reach 7,500,000 troops by the end of next year, the Army will assign its soldiers as shown in bottom chart.

Chuker Partridges Cause A Stir in New Pine Creek

NEW PINE CREEK — About two dozen Chuker partridges recently liberated by Road Supervisor George Perkins, created quite a stir around town when they were discovered feeding on seeds back of the High Grade hotel. The birds resemble a quail but are considerably larger than even the largest mountain quail. They of course are still quite tame. The birds can further be distinguished in the following ways: aside from being the largest bird of the partridge family, they have seven black bars across each side and are dark grey in color. They also have a black strip that runs back across each side of their head extending down their neck.

They frequent the foothills and will be seen around old barns. They are as sleek and trim as a Chinese pheasant hen with a longer neck. When flushed they will fly for quite a long distance before alighting again, thus differing from the quail.

Perkins has built four 24 foot holding pens according to specifications laid down by the California state game commission, and intends to take different birds that are adaptable to this climate and liberate so many each year. This summer he released about 75 Chuker partridges. By doing so and cooperating with the game commission, he expects to help stock the valley with a good many different kinds of game birds.

325-Pound Deer Bagged on Kelly Creek Summit

NEW PINE CREEK — Wellman Smith, local hunter, shot with deliberate aim and intention and was proud of the result. He has a lot of fine meat and a deer head trophy with six and five points which he is having mounted.

His deer weighed 325 pounds with the liver only and was killed last Sunday up on the high summit of Kelly creek. This is thought to be the largest deer yet to be taken out of these parts and is a prize for any hunter.

Kelton Butler and Lois Smead of Lakeview were married in Reno, Nev., last Sunday. Kelton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Butler of New Pine Creek and Miss Smead is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leth Smead of Lakeview. Included in the bridal party that made the trip to Reno were Mrs. Alvin Butler, Donnie Butler, Mr. and Mrs. Smead, Vera Wakefield and John Wakefield of Lakeview. They left Saturday evening and returned Sunday.

Earl Pemberton and family, now living in Ashland and formerly of Lakeview, were here over the weekend visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pemberton.

Cecil Aldridge visited here with his parents over the weekend from Hawthorne, Nev., where he is now working.

Although some of the ducks which were quite numerous around the lake for a while have left, the geese are fast gaining in numbers. Several hundred and perhaps even a thousand are seen in a single flock. Hunters are faced with every favorable factor that makes hunting a real sport, except the paucity of shotgun shells. Some men are trying to buy shells, but practically all merchants are out of ammunition now.

TOOTH RINGS
Like trees, teeth have growth rings, found in the enamel and dentin. These "rings" reveal periods of illness and undernourishment, according to tests.
