League Stresses Ballot Casting

Final Candidates and Measures Meeting of Women Voters Slated Monday

"Do you know whom you will vote for next Tuesday?" "Do you know why you will vote for him?" These two questions should be answered easily by mem-bers of the Klamath County League of Women Voters who have been carrying on a widespread get-out-to-vote campaign for the past few weeks. Not only does the league urge that every citizen cast his ballot on November 3, but that he shall be prepared to vote intelligentiy, and to know before going to the polls whom he intends to vote for and why.

The climax of the Women Voters campaign will come on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when their final candidates and measures meeting will be held in the small club room of the city library.

All voters in the community, men, as well as women, are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

Mrs. Isabelle Brixner, coun-ty school supervisor, will pre-sent both sides of the Oregon State Teachers association measure, providing that all money received from the state income tax in excess of $7,-$750,000 in any year shall be distributed to public school districts and union high schools districts.

Malcolm Epley, managing editor of the Herald and News, will present pros and cons of the other six measures.

These measures include: the so-called cigarette tax; the proposed constitutional amendment increasing salaries of Oregon legislators and extending the regular legislative sessions from 40 to 50 days; the referendum of the 1941 law prohibiting net fishing on coastal streams and bays; repeal of the rural credits fund amendment; prohibition use of highway funds for any other than highway purposes, and amendment authorizing regular by law of voting privilege forfeiture.

On Monday evening at 10 o'clock, "Popular Suicide," an exciting and dramatic radio skit sponsored by the National League of Women Voters, will be heard over station KFJI.

Everyone is invited to tune in to hear this program, which will be introduced by Mrs. Harlan P. Bosworth, radio chairman of the Klamath County League. The fifteen-minute radio show goes behind the Wash-ington scene to bring out the importance of electing high caliber congressmen this fall. It presents an unpartisan appeal to all voters to choose only the best men to lead the only the best men to lead the nation through its sharpest hour of crisis, pleads that a "just average" congressman is not good enough for these times, asserts that careless, illconsidered voting this year would be nothing less than "suicide."

The program was written and produced in the nation's capital by Sylvia Milrod, di-

To the Voters of Klamath County

I. Wm. F. B. Chase, one of your candidates for County Commissioner, make the following declaration: I have been nomin-ated by petition by the electors, commonly called, Independent. On my part, as well as those who have assisted me in getting this nomination, there is no ulterior motive, and I am your candidate purely as a matter of public spirited duty, and to give the electors another choice as to the fitness of the man for this office.

Under prevailing, world war conditions, we must be united Under prevailing, world war conditions, we must be united for the one great purpose of winning this war, and cannot afford to dissipate any of our forces or power, by petty bicker-ings, and catch phrases of politics. To those that really know me, there is no reason why, that I should go into any extended argument as to my qualifications. For those who do not know me, I will state briefly, that I have the equivalent of a university education, though not a graduate of any college, except the university of "Hard Knocks." I have a certificate to practice law, both in California and this state. I have business qualification for mubic service, and

Since I have been engaged in my own business, I have made a success of same, and do not have to depend on public office for a living, but I do want to serve you and feel confident that I can do the job, better than either of my opponents. In turn, they can and should, it appears to me, do the other work that is equally important and which they can do better than I could. On this basis, I ask your well considered judgment, and your support on next Tuesday. Vote 25 X Wm. F. B. Chase, Inde-pendent. (PAID ADV.)
