WEST GOSHEN, Conn., (AP) — The West Goshen postoffice and general store, which has survived four major wars in which the United States has been involved, will close tomorrow. When I got up from the stateroom floor I grabbed the baby, but by that time the water was pouring into the ship so fast that I was swept off my feet. The boat was going down. My baby was swept out of my arm, where I found my baby in the arms of another woman. The man sang hymns and some one said a prayer to keep our spirits up.—Woman survivor of ferry steamer Caribous sunk in North Atlantic.

NOT AN ARMY MAN
PAHOKEE, Fla., (AP) — It wasn't war or the strenuous life of a soldier that worried Marvin Berry. He could put up with all that, but his tour in the army didn't work out for another reason. He's back home now, honorably discharged. Military authorities found him hopelessly allergic to wool.

The reason there is little crime and delinquency (in Chicago's Chinatown) is that in China the family name is so highly respected that every member of the family feels the dishonor of any individual's wrong doing.—Rev. John Mao, Chicago pastor.
