

Miss Kellis Bride In Chapel Rites

Reception Follows Wedding Ceremony Read at Four O'Clock Thursday

A lovely bride of early November was Rowena Blanche Kellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Kellis of this city, who became Mrs. Frank Ferrario in a four o'clock ceremony read Thursday afternoon of this week in the chapel of Sacred Heart church. The Rev. Father Timothy Casey was the officiating priest.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white tulle gown fashioned with a long torso bodice, square neck-line, long snug fitting sleeves puffed at the shoulder and a very full floor length skirt. Small ruffles outlined the neck, cuffs and bodice. The bride's fingertip length veil was of illusion net which fell from a cluster of white bouvardia. Her flowers were all white.

Miss Jean Kellis, sister of the bride, was her attendant. She wore a pale blue green batiste frock made with full bishop sleeves and long skirt. A matching shoulder length veil of net was held in place by a cluster of flowers. She carried pink roses. Little Carmel Finnigan was the flower girl. Her frock was of yellow batiste with a black velvet sash and matching bows on the shoulder and hemline. She carried an old fashioned nosegay.

Mr. Matthew Finnigan, cousin of the groom, was best man.

The traditional wedding march was played by Mrs. Lester Offield at the chapel organ.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held in the party room of the Pelican and many called to felicitate the young couple. The bride and groom cut their three tiered cake which centered the table on a wreath of sweetheart roses. Bowls of chrysanthemums were used about the room. Mrs. Matthew Finnigan served the cake and Mrs. Offield assisted about the room.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferrario left for Seattle where they will reside during the time the groom is stationed there with the United States navy. For traveling Mrs. Ferrario wore an RAF blue wool costume suit with a corsage at the lapel.

The groom is the son of Mr. Giovanni Ferrario of Dunmore, Pennsylvania and prior to going into the service was in business in this city. During the past few months the bride has resided in Seattle.
