Guadalcanal in the Solomon Islands was announced today by the navy.

Seven United States fighters were lost.

In addition to the planes definitely destroyed when the American fighter planes intercepted two enemy dive bomber formations over Guadalcanal on Wednesday (Guadalcanal time), five Japanese bombers and fighters were reported as probably destroyed.

No Details

Those definitely shot down raised the total of Japanese planes listed in navy communiqués as having been shot down or otherwise destroyed to 566 in the Solomons campaign.

Hitler Decides Against Taking French Fleet Base

Hitler decided that "no unit of the French fleet stationed at Toulon has left port." French circles here who usually have reliable information said they still believed some ships steamed away several days ago.

Although the position of the fleet was the most vital question today, the situation revolving about Marshal Petain and members of his government also was of the greatest importance.

The greatest confusion was reported in Vichy. The German correspondent of the Hamburger Fremdenblatt said frankly that some French officials were having difficulty in making up their minds whether to side with America and England or accept the Germans.

Indicative of the confusion, a broadcast by Marshal Petain was scheduled at 11 a. m., and then cancelled. Whether he would speak today no one with sources of information in Vichy professed to know.

might enable them to launch a winter offensive with good chances of success, it was stated. Advice from Istanbul last night said that Rumanian and Hungarian railroads already were crowded with German troops moving westward in the general direction of Greece and Italy.

The movements appeared to be entirely defensive and there seemed no reason to believe that they constituted a possible threat to Turkey, it was stated here.

(The Paris radio, however, in a broadcast heard in London today, said that all Turkish soldiers, sailors and airmen had been ordered to rejoin their units at once.)

SUSPENSION OF 40 HOUR WEEK ASKED

would be paid for at regular rates in bonds.

Job Freeze Protested Fulton said that in recommending bond payment for additional overtime brought about by inauguration of the 48-hour week, the committee desired to prevent inflationary cash increases in present wages.

Harry C. Bates, president of the Bricklayers, Masons and Plasterers International union, protested to a senate labor committee against "any legislation that would freeze a worker on his job."

Hiring Policy

Bates declared sufficient manpower was available if it were properly catalogued and if unemployed persons were sent to areas where their services were needed, saying thousands of building trades workers at present are unemployed in New York City, in New England and in other localities where war plants are not under construction.

In a report sharply critical of the administration's failure to evolve a comprehensive program, the committee urged that the problem of channeling sufficient workers into war industries be approached by government direction of employers' hiring policies "rather than in coercive measures applied to the individual employe."

The report, prepared under the direction of Chairman Kilgore (D-W. Va.), of a subcommittee, proposed that the work week be increased to 48 hours "wherever practicable," with the additional overtime pay given to workers in bonds which they could cash only after the war or could use only in meeting federal taxes.

Divorcee Asks Eviction of Sons From Home

SEATTLE, Nov. 12 (AP)—Mrs. Maude Butchick, divorcee, today asked Superior Judge James T. Ronald to evict from her home her 19-year-old twins, Pearl and Ruby, and to compel them to pay her $30 in overdue room rent. The judge postponed the case and appointed their aunt, Mrs. Tillis Noel of Kent, as their guardian for the suit.

The tearful twins said their mother refused to accept $10 monthly rent each agreed to pay her when they obtained employment three months ago. Mrs. Butchick did not testify.

UNITED NATIONS WARSHIPS HANG NEAR COASTLINE

Nations land forces included United States army troops under Maj. Gen. Charles Fyder and the British 1st army under Gen. K. A. N. Anderson.

As the higher-ranking officer, Gen. Anderson was in command.

Axis Claims

"At least 19 axis aircraft were set on fire (at Tunis) and as many again damaged," British headquarters announced. The Vichy (French) radio had previously denied that axis aerial forces were landing in Tunisia, as reported by the allied command yesterday.

Hitler's high command reported that axis planes, joining in the battle of northwest Africa, had bombed American-held Algiers and scored hits on two aircraft carriers, two cruisers, two destroyers and a big merchant ship off the Algerian coast.

Nazi Strength

All these claims lacked confirmation from any allied source. The communiqué said two transports totaling 16,000 tons were sunk at Bougie, allied-occupied port 110 miles east of Algiers, and declared that "continuous waves" of axis planes attacking allied landing parties had damaged 12 warships and merchant ships.

Allied reports said the Germans had sent about 1000 airmen, with dive-bombers and fighters, to Tunisia to meet the Anglo-American offensive.

American and British troops under Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were reported speeding across Algeria to combat any axis attempt to seize the key French colony and also to help trap Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armies retreating from Egypt.

A British communiqué said the mass of Rommel's battered African corps had reached a point between Bardia and Gambut, well inside Libya, under violent attack by allied warplanes.

Italians in Corsica

As for Rommel's hapless allies, left in the lurch when Nazi mechanized forces pulled stakes in headlong flight from El Alamein, the German news agency DNB reported that German transport planes were engaged every day in bringing wounded Italians from the Quattara depression to the axis stronghold at Tobruk, Libya.

While Hitler tightened his grip on southern France, Italian troops descended on the French Mediterranean island of Corsica, Napoleon's birthplace, a potential stepping-stone for allied invasion of Italy.

On the allied side of the ledger, a United Nations spokesman dropped a cryptic hint that operations may be developing about Dakar, French West Africa.

"I think they (Dakar's defenders) are in a rather hopeless position," the spokesman said. He refused to amplify the remark. French Morocco, above Dakar on the Atlantic coast, and Algeria on the African Mediterranean coast, are now firmly in American hands.

form, although they had come in civilian clothes," said Clark. "We conferred all day and night until we had gathered all the information we wanted."

Meanwhile Arab servants had decided that something suspicious was going on and had gone to the axis-controlled Vichy police. The conference of American and French officers received word that police were on the way.

"I never saw such excitement in my life," Clark said with a laugh. "Maps disappeared like lightning. A French general in military uniform changed into civilian clothes in a minute flat, and I last saw him going out the window. They were going in all directions."

Clark and his staff gathered up their papers and guns and hid in an empty wine cellar as police talked to the owner of the house over their heads.

One of the commando officers whispered, "I'm afraid if I hold this cough back any longer I'm going to choke to death."

"I'm afraid you won't choke," Clark joked.

The tall angular American general crouched in the cellar with a revolver in one hand and 15,000 francs in his pocket.

"If the police came down I was undecided whether to shoot them or bribe them," he said.

After spending an hour hidden away, the police departed, partly satisfied.

The mission members decided it was no time to linger and, gathering their papers together, they departed.

It was then that they lost their pants and shirts and practically everything else when their boats upset crossing some water nearby.

AIR ACTIVITY IN RUSSIA DROPS OFF and no deaths were caused, the dispatches said.

German garrisons, clinging to precarious footholds on the outskirts of Stalingrad, were reported placing metal nets over the windows of occupied houses for protection against Russian hand-grenades.

No Developments

Winter tightened its grip on the front. The Volga was choked with floating ice and whipped by bitter winds in sub-zero temperatures.

No major developments were reported from the other sectors. Dispatches said that, in relatively small enlargements, the initiative passed back and forth several times. In the Nalchik area an attack by two German battalions was repulsed, while the Russians drove home counter-assaults in the Tuapse sector.

RENO LICENSES

RENO, Nov. 12 (AP)—Marriage licenses: Clarence P. Nelson, 33, and Helen Hanks, 29, both Klamath Falls.

People who didn't have time to vote are now finding time to criticize the election results.

ROTARY OFFICER TO VISIT HERE

* Fred K. Jones, district governor of Rotary International, will pay his official visit to the Klamath Rotary club Friday noon.

Jones paid a visit to the Lakeview Rotary club Thursday, and was accompanied on the trip to the Lake county seat by DeLos Mills, G. C. Blohm and Hod Eller.

A club assembly of the local Rotary will be held at the Willard at 7 p. m. Thursday. Attending will be officers and committee chairmen.

COFFEE SALES TO 'FREEZE' NOV. 21

PORTLAND, Nov. 12 (AP)—C. Clark Van Fleet, OPA rationer in Oregon, said today coffee rationing plans called for a complete freeze of retail coffee sales from November 21 to midnight November 28.

Stamp No. 27 in the sugar ration book will serve as the first coffee stamp, good for one pound for five weeks from November 29 to January 3. No one under 15 years of age will qualify for coffee.

Persons without sugar ration books will contact rationing boards at a later date.

The coffee quota for institutional users—restaurants, hotels—will be based pound-for-pound on amount of coffee used in September and October. Institutional users must declare inventory when registering. Institutional registering will take place November 23-24-25.

bombs. In the past 24 hours, Moscow says, there have been only 200 German flights as compared with former averages of 1500 to 2000 flights in the same period.

A good guess is that Hitler is rushing his air strength to the Mediterranean, as it is the fighting arm that can be moved swiftly. Today's dispatches indicate that a mighty air battle, probably the greatest in history, is shaping up in Tunisia.

KEEP this in mind: So far, the emphasis has been on AMERICAN participation in the African campaign. That has been for propaganda effect on the French and the Italians.

It is certain that the British are carrying their full share of the load, and it is probable that they are carrying the major share. They are closest to the scene.

ANKARA reports today say Hitler has withdrawn 40 divisions from the Russian front—nearly one-fourth of his entire strength there. If that is true, it means the Russians are being helped materially already.

AS to the French fleet, Vichy (now ALL German) says today the Germans have agreed not to occupy Toulon and that the French warships will be "safeguarded." That has a slightly ominous sound.

Vichy Cabinet Cuts Off Giraud For Cooperation

VICHY (From French Broadcasts), Nov. 12 (AP)—The Vichy cabinet met tonight, with Marshal Petain presiding, to hear a report on the North African situation from Pierre Laval.

The Vichy radio (now axis-controlled) said a government statement had charged that General Henri Giraud, "in accepting from the enemy the command of French forces in Africa, has failed in his word, forfeited his honor and betrayed his duty as an officer."

youths reach their 18th birthdays.

"Muddled"

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) failed in the senate today to send the teen-age draft bill back to a conference committee for elimination of a provision deferring essential war workers from military service.

Asserting that the nation's manpower program had been "muddled administratively" and congress now was about to "muddle it legislatively," Pepper moved to disapprove the conference report, already adopted by the house, but his motion was ruled out of order. He announced he would vote against the report.

Pepper voiced objections to the farm labor provision, which would direct local draft boards to defer essential agricultural workers, after Senator O'Daniel (D-Tex.) announced he was abandoning attempts to force adoption of an amendment requiring a year's training before 18 and 19 year old selectees could be sent into foreign combat.

KUHS Champions To Meet Vancouver In Extra Game

iously been defeated by Bellingham.

Thus, it was brought out, the teams recognized as the most powerful in western Washington have all been defeated at least once. Eugene sportswriters, after seeing the Klamath Pelicans in action a few weeks ago, mentioned Vancouver as one of the few teams which could give the Pelicans a tough battle.

Vancouver high is coached by Dutch Shields, former University of Oregon star, and is noted for its rugged teams.

Tickets for the game will go on sale next Monday and a sell-out is expected. Places where tickets will be sold will be announced in a day or so by Ed Ostendorf, who has charge of this activity.

The Quarterback - Kiwanis meeting turned out to be a rousing affair with special honors paid the Pelicans who ended their regular season by walloping Bend 40 to 0 Armistice afternoon.

Representing the team at the meeting were Center Phil Blohm, Halfback Ralph Foster and Fullback Don Mast. The boys made short talks, Blohm praising the backfield, Mast praising the line, and Foster giving his tribute to the reserves.

Ramsay made a talk giving full credit to the boys on his squad for the spirit that carried them to the highest honors ever won by a Klamath high school gridiron outfit.

Clyde Carpenter, coach of the Montana university team, was a special guest at the meeting. He saw Wednesday's game and said he was especially impressed with the downfield blocking and defensive play of the Pelicans. Carpenter and his team have laid over in Klamath Falls between games with Oregon State and California.

Lee Jacobs, president of the Quarterback club, presided at the meeting. Speakers included Bill Constans, who told of plans for Pelican awards, and Joe Peak of the KUHS coaching staff.

Malcolm Epley, president of Kiwanis, announced the annual farmers' meeting of the club to be held November 19 at the Willard hotel. This will be a men's meeting, open to all men who wish to attend from town or country, and the principal speaker will be Dr. A. L. Strand, new president of Oregon State college.
