

GROWERS ASK HEARING ON SPUD CEILING

A hearing at which growers and dealers can present facts on the potato ceiling was asked of the OPA Tuesday by the Klamath Potato Growers association and the Tulalake growers.

The action followed a meeting of representatives of the two associations held in the county agent's office Monday afternoon.

Henry Semon, president of the Klamath Potato growers, and Chester Main, president of Tulalake Growers, sent the following telegram to Richard G. Montgomery, Oregon director for OPA:

ESCAPES FROM FORTRESS PRISON AT KOENIGSTEIN BY CLIMBING DOWN 57 FEET OF ROPE TO MOAT BELOW.

TRAPPED BY NAZIS IN 1940

Hard-fighting, resourceful Gen. Henri Giraud has two passions—love of France and hatred of Germany. Captured in World War I and this war, he escaped both times; today sees in the U. S. occupation of Vichy-North Africa a new opportunity to strike at the hated Nazis. To this end he is organizing a French African army to fight side by side with the allies. Respected personally and a military leader, the colorful general is expected to rally a large Fighting French force. NEA artist George Scarbo sketches some of Giraud's outstanding exploits.

MRS. HOUSTON, PIONEER OF CITY, PASSES

Mrs. John V. Houston, 80, for the past 52 years a resident of Klamath Falls since it was first the village of Linkville, died early Tuesday morning in a Eugene hospital following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Houston was the former Margaret Jane McClaren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McClaren, born December 11, 1861, in Freeport, Pa. Her parents were from Scotland and settled in the Pennsylvania community in the early part of the century. Miss McClaren became the bride of John V. Houston in 1882 in Leadville, Colo., where Mr. Houston was in the newspaper business. They moved to Linkville early in 1890 and from that time on were prominently identified with the growth of the city.

Moved to Eugene
Mr. Houston, who died February 14, 1935, at the age of 73, operated the old Houston Opera House which was destroyed by fire in September, 1920. The old theatre stood where the Packard garage is now located, Second and Main streets. Mr. Houston later operated the old Temple and Star theatres, disposing of his interests to Terwilliger and Patrick who, in turn, sold to the late Harry Poole. Mr. Houston retired and with his wife lived at their home, 325 North Tenth street. For 10 years the couple made their home with a daughter, Mrs. J. H. Carnahan on North Sixth street.

Mrs. Houston had been in ill health for seven years. A month ago she was moved to Eugene where her passing occurred at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday morning.

Services
Three children were born to John and Margaret Houston. A son, Merle, died here December 12, 1930. Two daughters survive, Mrs. Carnahan, (Edna Houston) of this city, and Mrs. Leland Haynes, (Elizabeth Houston) of Mobile, Ala. There are two grandchildren, Mrs. Margaret Kochman of Mobile, and Bob Houston of the U. S. marine corps, and one great-granddaughter, Margaret Elizabeth Kochman of Mobile.

Funeral services for the beloved pioneer matron will be held here with Whitlock's in charge. The remains will arrive some time Wednesday from Eugene, and burial will be in the family plot.

HEALTH PROGRAM NEARS COMPLETION

But one school remains in the county before the immunization program is completed, according to Dr. Peter H. Rozendal, who will go to Bonanza next week to complete the work started there.

Dr. Rozendal will visit Summers and Henley schools Wednesday and will administer the second shots of diphtheria toxoid and the smallpox vaccination. Thursday he will continue the same program at Fairhaven, Keno and Weyerhaeuser Camp No. 4 schools.

City schools will enter the picture Friday when first toxoids will be given at Roosevelt. The six other schools in the city will follow immediately after, Dr. Rozendal stated.

43 RECEIVE CITIZENSHIP ON SATURDAY

Forty three men and women received their final papers and were made citizens of the United States in the circuit court rooms Saturday morning before Circuit Judge David R. Vandenberg.

For the first time in more than 10 years, there were more women than men in the class, it was observed. Members of Eulalona chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, arranged a welcoming program for the new citizens. Mrs. Harry Goeller presented each with a silk American flag and Mrs. B. W. Zollman presented manuals for citizenship to each applicant.

Mrs. Wilbur Jones gave a 20-minute talk on "What the Star Spangled Banner Means." Eulalona chapter has, for more than 10 years, made the welcome of the new citizens a part of the patriotic program of the chapter and has distributed hundreds of flags and manuals to naturalized citizens. The manuals are published by National DAR at Washington, D. C., and contain information for naturalized and native-born citizens alike. Each local chapter finances the distribution of the manuals and flags, it was reported.

Those admitted to citizenship are:

FDR TO ADDRESS NATION TONIGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (P) President Roosevelt will address the nation tonight at 7:30 PWT. The president's broadcast, scheduled in connection with the New York Herald Tribune's annual forum, will give him an opportunity, if he so chooses, to discuss recent American victories in the Pacific and in the Mediterranean.

His announced topic is "The United Nations—Their Creed for a Free World." The White House said the president probably would speak for four or five minutes, unless he decided, in revising his first draft of the address, to add to it. Mr. Roosevelt listened by radio last night to Wendell Willkie's speech on the Herald-Tribune forum. To a question whether the White House had any reaction to it, Presidential Secretary Stephen Early replied: "I haven't any and I haven't heard others express any."
