

GRANGE ASKS CONSCRIPTION OF RESOURCES

By ARTHUR E. BURGESS

WENATCHEE, Wash., Nov. 19 (AP)—Conscription of resources of the nation along with its manpower and a one-year deferment of military service for essential farm workers were asked by the grange as it headed today into the final scheduled session of its national convention.

Dozens of resolutions faced the delegates as the 70th annual session neared its close.

Automatic End
The conscription resolution listed as resources: property, manufacturing, mining, agriculture, capital, labor and industry. They included a recommendation that any provisions for universal conscription should end automatically six months after the war's end.

Contending that the U. S. employment service had failed to recognize the labor requirements of agriculture, the grangers suggested that the army be urged to release on extended furloughs or to put into the class of enlisted reserves the nation's essential skilled farm workers whenever possible and practical.

Temperance Policy

The grangers pointed out in another resolution that farm time is by sun time instead of artificial wartime and suggested that a return to standard time would assist in food production. In pursuance of its long-standing temperance policy, the grange blamed liquor for a wastage of manpower—by the labor needs for its production and by its effects on workers.

In another resolution the grange declared "a breakdown of transportation would mean collapse of our war effort and the fall of our economic life." The delegates reaffirmed the

FIRE DAMAGES EXAMINER OFFICE

NEW PINE CREEK—A flu fire which had gained considerable headway before it was discovered by the night operator at the West Coast Telegraph office, did extensive damage to the Lake County Examiner's office around 3 o'clock last Wednesday morning, November 11, and to the building in which the paper is housed, which is owned by Snider and Reynolds.

Most of the fire and damage to the building was confined to the attic. Firemen extinguished the blaze in about 45 minutes.

It was believed by the partnership owners, Thornton Gale, editor-manager and Glen H. Charles, business manager, of the Examiner Publishing company, that no damage was done to the expensive printing press installed recently, nor to the stock of the newspaper is printed on. The loss is covered by insurance.

Essential Rating Asked for Portland Eating Houses

PORTLAND, Nov. 19 (AP)—Classification of Portland restaurants as essential industries was recommended today by the labor-management committee of the war manpower commission.

An acute lack of eating places exists here, the committee said, reporting that the recommendation would be forwarded to the commission's national headquarters in Washington for approval.
