ALLIES CLOSE IN ON TRAPPED ENEMY FORCE

advance over the Owen Stanley mountains.

One American force approaching Buna from the south along the coast was trying to overcome opposition at Cape Endaiadere, a few miles from the village.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 (AP) The navy announced today that American troops on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons had advanced their western flank well into territory formerly held by the Japanese.

A communique said that the advance, made by army and marine forces, had carried the western peg of the American line to a point about five miles west of the vital airfield on Guadalcanal and about one mile west of the Matanikau river, formerly the boundary of the American position.

Minor Activity

Generally reflecting a new outburst of land activity on the island, following last week's naval victories, the communique also reported that American patrols had advanced an outpost line—on which flank was not stated—and about 35 Japanese were killed while American forces suffered few casualties.

The advance to the west was made on November 18, the advance of the outpost line was on November 19, and on November 21, which was yesterday, Guadalcanal time, ground forces were reported engaged in "minor activity," but aircraft carried out 11 attack missions against enemy installations on the island.

Seventh Victim Of Bomber Crash Is Portland Boy

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 21 (AP)—Col. E. L. Olcott, public relations officer at Baer Field, today identified the seventh member of the crew of a medium bomber which crashed on a routine training flight near Versailles, O., yesterday as First Lieut. Robert S. Clever of Portland, Ore.

The entire crew was killed.

Lieut. Clever was navigator of the plane.

Fire which enveloped the plane after it crashed, and the explosion of the ship's machine gun bullets, kept rescuers at a safe distance.

would go back into the water to help someone else."

The Japanese bombers also attacked the allied positions along the shore and, after the bombing, I walked down the beach to a small native hut built on stilts where the doctors were at work on the wounded.

They had been on the ships, too, and were dead tired, but they worked on.

During the height of the attacks on the ground troops, as Robert Doyle on the Milwaukee Journal and I lay flat, hugging the shelter of a tree, we heard a soldier saying over and over:

"Damn them—but we'll get them yet."

The soldier was Sergt. Fred Nishitugi, an American of Japanese descent from Los Angeles.

sel off Cape Bon, Tunisia, and raked it with cannon fire.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (AP)—The German radio said today that Marshal Rommel's Africa corps had escaped entrapment by the British 8th army and that after receiving reinforcements of guns and tanks is "deployed in full fighting strength in thoroughly prepared and strongly fortified positions of considerable depth."

This broadcast, did not specify where Rommel had established his positions, but the reference to fortifications in depth might have indicated the El Agheila area. "Detaching the axis forces from allied troops unnoticed by the enemy may now be considered successfully concluded," the radio said.

Injured—According to word received from Ashland, a man giving his name as A. O. Roberts of Klamath Falls, suffered serious injuries when his car went over an embankment on the Pacific highway Sunday near Ashland. He is reported improving in the valley city.

allied tanks and 18 armored cars had been destroyed and a railroad station seized east of Tabarka, near the Algerian border.

Gabes Foothold

Another German report said one fighting French column had been thrown back to the Eunisian frontier in the south while others, near Beja, 55 miles west of Tunis, and Mejez El Dab, 30 miles west of Tunis, were bombed as they marched to join the main forces.

The Algiers radio said the Germans were trying to set up another foothold on the Gulf of Gabes, in eastern Tunisia, but that the French had repulsed a new landing attempt and captured some Germans in an engagement northwest of the Port of Gabes.

German reports, quoting allied sources in Spanish Morocco, said the allies were in the area of Hammamet, on the coast between Gabes and Tunis, and that a fighting French-American column moving in from the south had reached Foriana, on the railway line to Souse, and Gafsa, on the railroad to Sfax.

Struggle for Air

One allied vanguard was placed only 25 miles southeast of Tunis, five miles closer than other forces closing around both enemy strongholds.

The struggle for air supremacy apparently was unfolding as one of the keys to Hitler's whole fading grasp on North Africa.

The German-controlled Paris radio said allied air forces again blasted airfields last night inside the axis-held areas. It also was the source of a report of more German and Italian troops arriving in Tunisia.

and probably doesn't have a great deal of use for Hitler.

But don't get too much excited over his alleged opinions. Disagreements between Hitler and his generals have been frequently reported before, but the German war machine still shows no signs of beginning to break up.

DON'T believe that Germany WON'T crack up. She did before, and may again. Two thousand years ago Tacitus, the first educated and cultured observer of the Germans, noted that the Teutonic tribes were good fighters as long as they were winning but didn't stand up in the face of defeat.

GERMANY may crack up, but the crack-up won't begin until the German armies definitely taste defeat.

The allied job is to put the taste of defeat into their mouths.

Until that task is accomplished, they will go on fighting efficiently.

HOT and apparently FINAL fighting for Buna is on in New Guinea. The Americans and the Australians are within a few miles of the Buna beachhead, and today's dispatches say the Japs show no signs of evacuating it.

If they lose Buna, they will be in a fair way to lose ALL of New Guinea.

Marines, Cheered By Victory, Look For New Territory

don't know how many died in the brush," Peterkin said.

The sight of a prisoner on the island is an oddity, Peterkin stated, for "almost no prisoners are taken by either side."

"When the Japs rush, they yell in English, 'Blood for the emperor; come out, marines, you're licked.' There seems to be a lot of American-educated Japanese among the snipers. They're always shouting in English from the trees."

But the marines don't take the Japs' word for it that the leathernecks are licked, Peterkin said. Instead, the devil dogs have an easy job cleaning up the Japs, and now there is a saying on Guadalcanal that "the Japs fight for their lives, but the marines fight for souvenirs."

Among the souvenirs taken from Jap bodies were a number of revolvers "made in Connecticut."

(Connecticut manufacturers suggested, as a possible explanation, that if Japs killed on Guadalcanal, previously had been in the Philippines they would have had a good chance of capturing American pistols there.)

a postponement of a nation-wide gasoline rationing."

Likelihood increased that the group would appeal directly to the White House for a delay even as the chance that congress would pass stop legislation diminished.

Members of the bloc—largely composed of congressmen from the western oil-producing states—conceded freely there was little possibility that legislation could be whipped into shape to postpone the rationing order before the December 1 deadline.

Program Mapped

Out of a meeting of a committee representing that group came indirect intimations of the plan to lay the case before the president and ask for a delay of at least a month in order to reopen a study of the entire gasoline situation.

"We've mapped out a program," declared Rep. Jed Johnson (D-Okla.), "and I think that it will be effective—and effective at an early hour." In response to a question as to whether the program included contact with the White House, he replied: "Well, it might."

Safety Council Says Traffic Accidents Showing Decrease

Accidents in Klamath Falls have decreased from last year's amount, a report from Sam Ritchie, chairman of the traffic safety council shows.

Fatalities thus far have decreased from five during last year to two this year. Accidents reported this year number 648 as compared with 960 during the same period last year. The month of October showed better than 30 per cent decrease in accidents over the same month last year.

Although the decrease is due in part to the curtailed use of automobiles, the council cautions drivers and pedestrians to use the greatest of care during winter weather conditions which increase driving hazards.

Axis Ships Sent To Medit Bottom By British Subs

LONDON, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three British submarines have sunk an axis destroyer and an axis tanker and probably have sunk a second destroyer and another axis supply ship in the Mediterranean the admiralty announced today.

The tanker was sunk in the Aegea, and the supply ship damaged was one of a convoy of three ships attacked in the same area, the communique said.

The destroyers were hit off the Sicilian coast.

Japanese Gets Six Months for Leaving Newell

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21 (AP)—Zazue Yabasaki, 19, Japanese educated American citizen, was sentenced to six months in jail by Federal Judge Michael J. Roche today for leaving the Tulelake relocation center on a borrowed work permit.

The sentence might have been heavier, but Assistant U. S. Attorney A. J. Zirpoli said investigators found nothing to indicate a "sinister purpose" in the youth's leaving. Through an interpreter, he said he had no money and wanted to go to work in agriculture to earn some.

Yabasaki and Toshio Sonoda, 18, of Seattle, whose permit Yabasaki borrowed, both pleaded guilty to conspiracy to violate the public proclamation under which Japanese were segregated in military areas.

POLICE FORCE TO AID IN SERVICES

Six members of the Klamath Falls police force will serve as pallbearers at the funeral services to be held Monday at 2:30 p. m., at the Elks temple for United States Marshal Frank Hamm, former chief of police of this city. They will be Chief of Police Earl Heuvel, Sergeant Paul Robertson and Officers Orville Hamilton, Jack Linkenbach, Earl Kennerly and Raymond Adkins.

Honorary pallbearers will be chosen from county peace officers and city officials. All officers of the county are expected to attend in a body.

During the hours the remains lie in state, a uniformed police guard will be in attendance at Ward's chapel, it was announced.

Mr. Hamm died suddenly at his home in Portland Thursday morning. He was a member of Klamath Falls lodge, No. 1247, BPOE, Fraternal Order of Eagles, No. 2090, and Footprinters International. The Elks will have charge of the services. Interment will take place in Linkville cemetery.
