

GREW URGES U. S. TO CARRY WAR TO JAPS

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 24 (AP)—The new Japan "is today potentially the strongest power in the world," Joseph Clark Grew, U. S. ambassador to Japan from 1932 to 1942, asserted Monday.

"Japan is getting stronger every hour, and this Japan is not merely our equal, she is potentially our military superior," he said in an address prepared for a meeting of business and civic leaders.

Time Counts

The "great slave empire of greater East Asia," he said, "can be beaten, but she can be beaten only by physical and moral strength equal to, or greater than her own, and that strength can be supplied only by the all-out effort of all Americans..."

Grew pointed out that time is on the side of the Japanese, if they could "defeat indomitable China, organize her present holdings, consolidate her position, Japan—not Germany, not Britain, not Russia, not ourselves—could become the strongest power in the world."

Indecision Costly

And, he added, "Japan is getting stronger every hour."

He warned that for the United States to lose a day in carrying the war to Japan "is as bad as losing a ship. We cannot wait. We cannot be leisurely. We cannot afford debate or disunity or indecision."

The Japanese, he said, are entrenching themselves in their newly acquired holdings so rapidly that "days are our most precious possessions in the war."

VISION SURVEY CONDUCTED HERE

A vision survey has been conducted during the past week in city schools by Walter Dry, superintendent of the state school for the blind in Salem. Dry has been assisted by several from his school in this state-wide check-up of school children. The survey is under the direction of the state department of education.

Some auditory work has also been done by Dry and his group. Children needing attention are referred to their parents and medical attention recommended. Schools will co-operate with special methods to improve vision and hearing, according to Dr. Peter H. Rozendal, Klamath county health officer. Dry spoke before the Lions club at noon Tuesday. The Lions club and auxiliary have eye conservation as their principal project.

He said that a group of senators, headed by Senator Charles L. McNary, would come west soon to hold a series of hearings on farm labor.

TROUBLED BY WARTIME CONSTIPATION?

Lack of "bulk" may be your difficulty

If you're feeling "low," dragged out, not quite up to par, consider this: In these war days your living habits are all upset. Meals especially are likely to be hurried, improperly balanced. And you're apt to forget the importance of adequate "bulk" in your diet. Yet the lack of this one food essential is one of the common causes of wartime constipation. For this trouble, medicinal laxatives are but temporary remedies; they don't get at the cause. If this is your trouble, you need more "bulk"—and KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a delicious crisp cereal, supplies it in tempting, appetizing form. Eat ALL-BRAN regularly, drink plenty of water and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

FDR Gives Some Hints on How to Make Ration Coffee

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24 (AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt confided Monday that the president considers himself something of an expert in coffee-making and she gave her press conference his recipe.

"My husband tells me," Mrs. Roosevelt related, "that if you dry out your used coffee grounds and then add a teaspoonful of fresh coffee and boil it up it will make good coffee."

This came up when she was asked what she thought about the suggestion of Mayor La Guardia of New York that limited coffee could be made to go further by saving the grounds and later in the day adding a little fresh coffee and making it over again.

Laughing, Mrs. Roosevelt said she didn't know if her husband's was a good idea or not, as she didn't care whether she got coffee, tea or even hot water.

The White House will be rationed on coffee, Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"No one will be given more than one cup of coffee a day," Mrs. Roosevelt said, except on such formal state affairs, as the stag dinner last night by the president honoring President Carlos Arroyo Del Rio, president of Ecuador. For this dinner, a demi-tasse was served.

Asked if the limit of one cup a day would apply to the president, Mrs. Roosevelt said it would. She explained that because he likes cafe au lait, which is a cup of half coffee and half hot milk, he would be able to get his remaining half cup as after-dinner coffee in the evening.

WPB Plans New Ways to Save Steel

Editor's note: War touches every home and every citizen. This column, based on official government information and prepared by the Office of War Information, shows how the war will affect Mrs. America and her home.

The expression "packed tight as sardines in a can" may be changed one of these days to include oysters. You see, the WPB has requested packers to increase by 40 to 50 per cent the amount of oysters packed in various size containers. This is intended to conserve additional supplies of tin and steel for war production. So when you buy a No. 1 can of oysters you'll be getting 71 ounces instead of five, and if you choose a No. 2 can you'll have 14 ounces instead of ten.

Christmas trees and special decorations will glow within American homes as usual this year, but the WPB is asking that outdoor decoration lighting be eliminated this year in the interest of wartime conservation. It is estimated that elimination of outdoor Christmas lighting will save enough electricity to meet the lighting and power requirements of a city of 50,000 for a year.

Mrs. America and her children are assured of a war winter by the War Production board, and the old-fashioned flannel night shirt's future is secure. Half of the looms which had been converted to making bag sheeting for war production now will be reconverted to making flannels. That means plenty material to keep Americans warm. At the same time you'll be able to find pajamas with attached foot coverings for youngsters. One-piece pajamas in children's sizes 3, 4, 5, 6 and 6x as well as girls' sizes 7 and 8 may be made in this style. A previous simplification of the WPB designed to save materials prohibited feet in children's pajamas.

If you're dependent upon curlers made with iron and steel, you might as well prepare to do without them. Curlers for beauty parlor and home use have just been added to the list of items for which iron and use of iron and steel is forbidden. Stainless steel can no longer be used for coffee pots, furniture hardware, dishes, saucers and plates as well as cutlery.

Mrs. America's kitchen garbage can is the latest household item to feel the effect of the war in a WPB order restricting and simplifying the production of galvanized ware. Fire shovels, wash tubs, wash boilers and buckets may be manufactured for the next two months on a restricted basis, but in January there will be a further cut. After January 1, manufacturers of galvanized ware will be allowed to make only six products—garbage cans, garbage pails, wash boilers, fire shovels, pails and wash tubs. Plastic and fibre substitutes are being developed to take the place of some of the galvanized ware, and the wooden tub industry probably will increase production to meet part of the demands for tubs.

One of these days if the label comes off a can of food, you won't be wracking your memory for just what it contained. The WPB is asking food canners to mark the contents on the can itself. This is being made primarily for canned goods for the army because sometimes under military operations supplies are handled under difficult conditions and labels can be torn off.

California grape wines will cost Mrs. America more now that the OPA has granted an upward adjustment in ceiling prices to cover increased production costs and the new federal excise tax. This means an immediate increase of 23 cents per gallon in the retail price of California dessert wines, and nine cents per gallon for California table wines. The new regulation does not affect wine produced in other areas.

EXTRA TIME GIVEN TO TURN IN IDLE TIRES

Motorists will be given an extra nine days in which to dispose of idle tires in order to qualify for use of gasoline under the gasoline rationing regulations, the Office of Price Administration has announced.

OPA will amend its regulations to make December 1 the date after which it will be illegal for passenger car owners to use gasoline in their vehicles if they have more than the permitted number of tires—five per car, with one additional for each running wheel of trailers or other such equipment. Previously the deadline was November 2.

Unless Really Necessary PLEASE DON'T TRAVEL

WAR SERVICE COMES FIRST!

Don't travel unless you must... War service must come first... Ask yourself, before you travel: Is this trip necessary?

These, briefly, are admonitions and warnings of our Government, for all transportation is now vitally needed to carry our Armed Forces, workers in war plants and other essential travelers.

In the past, Americans took extra trips over the Holidays, causing an above-normal volume of travel.

But these are not normal times. Today transportation is faced with a serious shortage of equipment. Trained personnel has been depleted by the need for fighting men. Lower operating speed has become necessary in order to save rubber. Now gasoline rationing will make it necessary for many additional essential travelers to depend on already overloaded buses.

That is why we appeal to you to postpone any pleasure trip you may have planned which requires the use of public transportation. But another important reason is that thousands of our boys in the Armed Forces want to be home for the Holidays. Every one of them who can get leave deserves this privilege... we are not asking them not to travel.

You, by giving up your trips, can add to their enjoyment and comfort. We are sure that every American will be eager and proud to make this sacrifice.

So please don't travel unless absolutely necessary—especially over the Holidays and week-ends.
