

EVACUEES LEAVE FOR U. S. ARMY SCHOOL MONDAY

NEWELL — A farewell program for the volunteers to the military intelligence school at Savage, Minn., was arranged by the Tule Lake Project Veterans' club and the Parents' club (parents of young men in the United States army) on Sunday, November 29, at 2 p. m. Thirty-five young Japanese-Americans volunteered for active service in the United States army and left for Savage at 6 o'clock Monday morning, in company with Sergeant Tsutomu Kumagai, recruiting sergeant of the school at Savage.

John Tanigawa, World war veteran No. 1, with his wife and four children on the project, also volunteered to re-enlist in the army. Physical examination revealed that his teeth were in poor condition, however, because of his veteran's status, he was allowed to enlist provided that he have his teeth attended to. He will leave for Savage later.

The son of another World war veteran is also among those who left Monday. He is Edwin Fukui, son of Shuichi Fukui, a Japanese translator on the Tulean Dispatch, the project newspaper.

QUICK EMBROIDERY FOR MANY LINENS

7433 by Alice Brooks

No housewife ever has too many towels or pillow-cases. Here are some small motifs designed especially for these. Colorful and quick to do, they are the thing for those last minute gifts. Pattern 7433 contains a transfer pattern of 24 motifs ranging from 4 by 11 to 1 by 14 inches; materials needed.

To obtain this pattern send 11 cents in coin to The Herald and News, Household Arts Dept., Klamath Falls. Do not send this picture, but keep it and the number for reference. Be sure to wrap coin securely, as a loose coin often slips out of the envelope. Requests for patterns should read, "Send pattern No. _____, to _____ followed by your name and address."

BATTERY MAKING CUT

To conserve materials needed for war, a program for production of the minimum number of storage batteries necessary for replacement has been introduced. Purchasers of new batteries must turn in old ones for scrap.

Brighten Up Meatless Days With Cheese

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Service Staff Writer

The Swiss use cheese in many ways. Americans are beginning to discover that cheese is an inexpensive and always available source of first grade protein when meat is restricted. Virginia Pemberton, American soprano of the Chicago Opera company, collected these cheese recipes during her travels in Switzerland.

Farina Pancakes with Cheese

(Serves 4)
One quart milk, 1 teaspoon butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3-5 cup farina, 2 eggs, 1 pounds American Swiss cheese, cracker-crumbs.

Scald milk; add salt and butter. Slowly stir in farina. Beat egg and stir in. Cook until thick, then pour into well-greased pan about 1/2 inch deep. Cool. Cut into 2-inch squares. Cut cheese into 2-inch squares, 1/2 inch thick. Place squares of cheese between two squares of farina. Beat other egg with a little cold water. Dip cheese sandwiches in egg, then in cracker crumbs. Fry in butter.

Gruyere Pancakes

(Serves 4)
One-half pound Gruyere-type cheese (or Swiss cheese if Gruyere is not available), 1 cup sour cream, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoons flour, pinch black pepper, pinch dry mustard.
Grate cheese coarsely. Mix with sour cream. Add spices and lightly beaten egg yolk. Stir in flour and mix well. Beat egg whites until stiff, then fold into batter. Fry until light brown in butter, using only 1 teaspoon of butter at a time in the pan.

MENU

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, oatmeal muffins, country sausage, coffee, milk.
LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, Gruyere pancakes, apples, cookies, tea, milk.
DINNER: Leftover chicken and vegetable hash, French fried potatoes, pickled beets, fresh fruit gelatin, lemon sauce, coffee, milk.
