Cascade
The weather here has been rainy and at times snow has fallen. The rain was so heavy that Trapper creek was swollen until it was a rushing, turbulent stream. At Abernethy the culvert under the Southern Pacific tracks was unable to take care of the water and the track was covered.

John Gallegos has been sent to Nyssa, Ore., again to encourage Mexican and Spanish workers who have been engaged in beet field work to come to this territory and work for the Southern Pacific company as section laborers. Several of the sections on the Oakridge district have only one man. It has been increasingly difficult to keep section laborers due to higher wages in other fields.

MOTORISTS WARNED OF RATION THIEVES

Motorists were warned by Police Chief Earl Heuvel today to beware of gas ration book thieves.

The chief said a dozen or more cases of stolen books have been reported to the police department.

In each case the books were stolen from cars, usually from the glove compartments. He said the books will not do the thieves any good, because service stations have been requested to check license numbers on the books before honoring the coupons. He added that theft of gas books carries a heavy federal penalty.

"I would advise motorists to guard their ration books as they would their money," said Chief Heuvel.

Sawmill Burns At Johnsondale

PORTERVILLE, Calif., Dec. 5 (AP)—The Mt. Whitney Lumber company's large sawmill at Johnsondale, 40 miles southeast of here, was destroyed Thursday night by fire of unknown origin.

No estimate of the loss was available. The mill and all machinery was described as a total loss. A nearby box factory was saved as was also $350,000 worth of stacked lumber.

The mill turned out 21,000,000 board feet of lumber this year.

INTELLIGENT PRATTLE
CHICAGO, (AP)—Two-year-old Patricia Ann Hambright, holding an interview for reporters, might have been expected to exhibit her doll and prattle a little.

But her doll lay neglected and Patsy talked, demonstrating a mental development that already had given her mastery of the alphabet, which she writes, a repertoire of dozens of children's rhymes and recitations and many popular slogans.

Her mother, Mrs. George Hambright, said the child's unusual memory became evident a year ago, when they came here from Okmulgee, Okla.

IT'S THE ICE BOX OR NOTHING FOR DURATION

Editor's note: War touches every home and every citizen. This column, based on official government information and prepared by the Office of War Information, shows how the war will affect Mrs. America and her home.

The return of the ice man—or perhaps by then it will be the ice woman—to the home scene is predicted because more than 300,000 ice boxes will be made next year for civilian use. Streamlined mechanical refrigerators have gone to war and it will be the ice box or no household refrigerator for the duration. However, Mrs. America can be thankful for a serviceable and durable product though the ice boxes which can be produced for civilian use will not be of as high a quality as in normal times. The amount of iron and steel permitted in this production is the absolute minimum. And you can be sure that the variety will not be great for after January 1, a WPB order will allow only two types of ice refrigerators—those having a net ice capacity of either 50 or 75 pounds.

When Mr. America's shirt is shortened from two to three inches by the WPB to save material, don't worry about shrinkage. Shirts of unshrunk fabrics can be 3 1/2 inches whereas the overall length of shirts made of pre-shrunk fabrics is limited to 30 inches. The WPB says the quality will not change, and when this order goes into effect December 15, the amount of material saved will be enough to make 10,000,000 additional shirts. And there isn't a chance that Mr. America will have difficulty finding pajamas. Although the same conservation order snips off collars and cuffs of pajamas, the savings will mean enough material to make more than 2,200,000 additional pairs of pajamas.

If for any reason you don't have a War Ration Book one, better file your application with your local War Price and Rationing Board by December 15. Of course, Book one is necessary for the purchase of coffee, but more important it is to be presented to your local board around the first of the year so you can receive War Ration Book two. In the case of an applicant who is not entitled to a War Ration Book with sugar stamps, a book will be issued without those stamps.

The daub of whipped cream which has decorated many a dessert has retired for the duration at the request of the War Production Board. By doing without whipping cream or other heavy cream, it is hoped to help relieve the shortage of butter and of fluid milk in most sections of the country. So dairy producers no longer can deliver heavy cream to any person except to another manufacturer of butter, cheese and other foodstuffs. But this order does not affect the light cream which goes into your coffee.

Boys and girls no doubt will be learning the lesson of wartime conservation by taking care of toys and games. There just won't be any more toys or games containing certain metals and other critical materials, and this WPB order already is in effect. So even Junior isn't too young to be taught how to make goods last.

If Mrs. America has been reading the handwriting on the wall, she is prepared for fewer shopping conveniences. Now OPA has issued an order authorizing retailers to curtail or eliminate without lowered ceiling prices many shopping conveniences. The order, for example, allows a merchant to tell his customers to carry their own packages provided the parcels are of reasonable carrying weight and size and do not contain items necessary in an emergency. If your merchant wants to, the order also gives him the right to do away with sales on approval, returns of merchandise, and lay-aways.

Those colorful metal canisters and bread boxes which have added a gay note to Mrs. America's kitchen will be singing a swan song for the duration. And the same is true of all types of household storage articles of metal such as cookie containers, cake boxes, and vegetable bins. And this is the verdict of a WPB order which swept into Mrs. America's kitchen and reduced the varied array of metal kitchen gadgets to few essentials. Probably substitute materials such as wood, paperboard and other products will to a certain extent be used in replacing the metal goods.
