Gus Krause Is Pleased

GUS KRAUSE, who heads up the civilian defense organization in Klamath Falls, was as pleased as punch Tuesday over the splendid response of civilian defense workers at the Monday night "remember Pearl Harbor" mobilization. A total of 916 persons turned out, reporting on a wintry night and traveling to posts in spite of gasoline rationing.

Klamath, said Mr. Krause, has not forgotten Pearl Harbor, and the CD mobilization proved it. There is a serious need for additional civilian defense recruits, but those who are enrolled are interested and willing.

The commander of civilian defense pointed out that Klamath county has steadily made its quotas in war savings bonds; its mills are producing way over normal to provide war materials; its farmers are ready for another heavy production season in spite of their troubles; it has given strong support to the Red Cross and other war-time activities.

When a man takes a job such as that which Mr. Krause handles—commander of the citizens' defense corps—he contracts for a lot of headaches and heartaches. If, after a test of the corps, he is enthusiastically pleased, you can put it down in your book that things have turned out all right.

Snow Removal

A FRIEND of ours, who must drive daily between here and Malin in spite of gas rationing and bad weather, has mentioned that snow removal activity does not seem to be as effective on the Klamath-Malin traffic artery as in past years.

Dozens of cars went into the ditch on the first day of bad weather in the current storms. Motorists could not see the edge of the highway, and the road was extremely hazardous.

The importance of this arterial highway, which connects Klamath Falls with the thickly settled lower valley as well as Alturas and Reno, justifies an efficient snow removal program there. Stuck cars and wrecks waste gasoline and materials.

Klamath's Yesterdays

From the files—40 years ago and 10 years ago.

From the Klamath Republican, Dec. 11, 1902

The new contract for carrying the mails between Klamath Falls and Ashland has been granted to Daniel A. Applegate at $2400 a year. A new schedule will go into effect, providing for a continuous run, with no stop over night in the mountains. The new schedule may not be so comfortable for passengers, but it will give quicker mail service, and that is what the government pays for and what people want who depend on the line.

Louis Gerber started 1000 head of mutton sheep and two bands of beef cattle from Merrill last week, their destination being Sacramento via Montague.

From The Evening Herald, Dec. 8, 1932

Eagle Ridge tavern, landmark on Upper Klamath lake's western shore, burned to the ground this morning. The caretakers, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Longmire, barely escaped with their lives.

The winter's first blizzard roared over this region today. H. J. Bowen and son, residents of the west side of the Upper lake, were out all night after their boat frozen in the water. Howard Barnhisel and Rahlen Hastings, neighbors of the Bowsens, found the two walking on a dike.

RETENTION OF DORRIS STATE PATROL ASKED

DORRIS—Hundreds of Butte valley residents this week signed petitions to the Siskiyou county board of supervisors and Raymond E. Cato, chief of the California highway patrol, demanding that the state highway patrol at Dorris be retained.

L. R. Linville, highway patrol officer of the Butte valley area, received notice Thanksgiving day to "prepare" to be transferred. No patrolman will be sent here in his place, and the most traveled highway gateway on the northern California boundary will be left without highway protection. Only law enforcement officer in the Dorris area, with the induction into armed service of Chief of Police J. W. Mather, will be Deputy Sheriff W. L. Gravier.

California Code
A petition at Dorris said: We, the undersigned residents of Siskiyou county, hereby respectfully solicit your cooperation in retaining the state highway patrol at Dorris, Calif. Recent statistics show that the Dorris gateway traffic far exceeds all other gateway travel on the northern California boundary. We cannot urge too strongly the need of the highway patrol at this point.

Section 123 of the California vehicle code states that no member of the California highway patrol shall be assigned by the chief of the California highway patrol for service outside said county for a longer period than one week, except at his own request or for duty during a temporary traffic emergency.

Five on Duty
The Dorris city council at its December meeting last Thursday voted to write a letter of protest to Chief Highway Patrol Officer Cato and the Dorris chapter of Federated Women's Clubs has written to the county board of supervisors soliciting their cooperation.

It was said that five patrol officers are on duty between Yreka and the Oregon border on highway 99.

ASPIRIN IS TAKEN

LAGUNA BEACH, Calif., (AP)—Aspirin the cat has used his last life.

Aspirin has been bowled over eight times. Each time his owner, K. Carpenter, reported the accident in his business column in a local newspaper. The cat always recovered.

Then a car laid Aspirin low for the ninth time—and this time he failed to get up.

Two Georgia men who robbed a cane chair factory now have nothing to do but sit around in jail.

SCHOOLS CHANGE OPENING TIMES

Because daylight saving hours are throwing farm schedules out of joint, several schools in the rural districts have changed their opening time to 9:30 or 10 a. m., according to Harold Ashley, clerk of the county school district.

Schools which are closely connected with the mills are on the odd daylight saving schedule, but a number of those related to farm have changed over to the later opening. In some instances, schools which open at 9:30 a. m. are taking a half hour at noon in order to close at the old time.

Parents had protested that because of daylight saving, children did not have time to help around the farm, and were leaving on school buses in pitch darkness.

que, Strasbourg and Provence. Meanwhile, Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, commanding general of the U. S. army air forces, declared it was "touch and go" whether the allies or the axis had air superiority over the North African battlefield.

Violent Tank Battle

He predicted that an air battle may develop there which would determine aerial supremacy over the whole Mediterranean—possibly over all Europe.

A violent tank battle in which the axis appeared to be making a supreme effort to hold onto Tunisia bashed thunders on its third day with the veteran British first army and American shock troops withstanding the onslaught in a horseshoe position in the hills around Tebourba.

Franco Talks

The Algiers radio reported that behind the horseshoe line which bore the brunt of nazi divebombers, Lieut. Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson was massing assault forces to carry the attack on against Bizerte and Tunis when adequate air support had been established.

In Spain, wouse Falangist government Germany and Italy helped to establish, Generalissimo Francisco Franco declared "we live in a new era—Spain has a place there in and will fulfill her part."

Activity in Libya

His speech had been advertised as one which would "settle the problem of Spain's international policy." If it did so, it was only by implication of Franco's sympathy with those who helped him to power.

In Libya, aerial activity increased, indicating perhaps that the British eighth army soon would open an offensive against the El Aghelia line on the road to Tripoli from the east.

Wharves Fired

The airbase at Gasmata, on the south shore of New Britain, and shipping in the harbor were bombed. A tanker off the harbor was one target but because of darkness the result was not certain.

Other planes pushed far north to Kavieng harbor, in New Ireland, early yesterday, and set fire to wharves and storage dumps.

The Buna area ground fighting, to push the Japanese into the sea, continued intermittently, the communique said. The allied advance has the Japanese force cut into segments and artillery pounded them from the ground, supplementing air attacks.

I guess you know who I mean! It wouldn't be telling any secrets to admit that the girls working in our stations have been a wow of a success. There's two good reasons for that. One is that they have had a real training in taking care of your car—the same kind of schooling that Standard Service Men get.

The other reason is that we've been fortunate in getting a very fine type of young lady to come and work for us. They're intelligent and hard working as well as being the kind of niece that should make Uncle Sam proud.

Incidentally, if you know of a young lady who would qualify, you might tip her off that there are still some swell openings. Your nearest Standard branch office can give her detailed information.
