GOVERNMENT SEES NO LIQUOR DEARTH

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15 (AP)—Although liquor production is at a standstill because of the war, government experts see no dearth of Christmas cheer this year for those who have the money to buy.

Or next year either, for that matter. In fact, says Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of the treasury's alcohol tax unit, government warehouses right now are bulging with enough liquor to meet normal requirements for about three and a half years.

Reports of shortages developing in some sections, he said, are probably due to transportation difficulties or other causes of a purely local nature.

Whisky production has been shut down under a war production board converting distilleries to the production of industrial alcohol, but the distillers have been given to understand that they may get occasional "vacations" during which they can turn out whisky.

Many Canadian Indians still smoke the "peace pipe," especially when a bargain is being sealed.

Communicable Diseases Here Held Below Par

Klamath county's communicable disease report was below par, according to Dr. Peter H. Rozendal when he reviewed the past week's activities in the Klamath County health unit.

Eight cases of chicken pox were reported, mostly from the Bonanza district. One case of mumps and one case of pneumonia were also reported. Two patients are in the isolation hospital, both adults. One is suffering from chickenpox, the other from pneumonia. Dr. Rozendal stated there were a number of pneumonia cases in the county which have occurred within the past few weeks and numerous colds are observed. He advised patients to call their family physician before the pneumonia bug reached the "very sick" stage.
