By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Councilman Billy Rogell's baseball school again will operate in Detroit this summer and that's good news for everyone interested in the future of baseball. . . . The former Tiger shortstop, who founded and directs the program, reports it had about 300 teams and 4000 players last year and that he expects to have 650 teams in 1943.

CUP CHASER

You've heard of golfers who used to go around to all the minor tournaments collecting silverware, but Gerard Bingham, superintendent of the Ocean View course at Norfolk, Va., is looking for another kind of cup collector. . . . Over the holidays the metal cups disappeared from nine putting greens. Bingham hasn't been able to locate new ones yet, so he's using tomato cans for the holes.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR

Bob Stedler, Buffalo Evening News: "What does a baseball scout scout these days? Maybe he's studying the old-age pension lists."

HELP WANTED

Hugh McDermott, Oklahoma football scout who says he rode everything but a horse to get to games on time last fall, says the toughest trip was to the Kansas State-Texas clash. . . . After hours of riding through the darkness, the bus rolled to a stop. The driver turned with a frustrated look on his face and asked: "Does anybody here know the way to Austin?"

CLEANING THE CUFF

Greg Rice picks Notre Dame's Ollie Hunter as the next great distance runner. . . . Geary Steffen Jr., who was promoted from a barrel-jumper to become Sonja Henie's new skating partner, is the son of V. Willie Ritchie, the old light at champion who never went in for waltzes. . . . Ching Johnson is working in Washington on a construction job, which must be quite a change for a guy who specialized in destruction as a hockey player.

Joe Worries Over Class 1A in Draft

DIMaggio Danies Quitting Rumors; Reclassified 1A So He Can't Make Plans

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Joe DIMaggio, New York Yankee baseball star, home today from a Reno visit with his estranged wife, Dorothy, had an inquiry of his own when he was asked if he was making any plans for the forthcoming baseball season. "How can you make any plan when you are about to be reclassified 1-A in the draft?" he asked. "Anyhow," he added, the Yankees won't mail out the 1943 baseball contracts until later this month.

DIMaggio, however, indignantly denied statements credited to him in a telephone interview with a San Francisco newspaper yesterday morning. The newspaper quoted him as saying that "spring training won't concern me this year," and hinted he expected to retire.

"I was asked such questions as, 'Wouldn't it be harder to get into condition in New York than in Florida?' I said that spring training wouldn't bother me any—meaning that I always kept myself in good condition during the winter, and that it wouldn't be hard for me to get into shape, no matter where we trained."

While Joe declined to commit himself, there were indications he may seek an enlistment in one of the armed services shortly. Joe's wife's six-weeks residence in Nevada will be established within a week, and after that the baseball star may receive a draft reclassification from 3-A to 1-A. The DIMaggios have one child.

Henry Whips McDaniels in Slug Match

Armstrong Ready for Next Battle After Disposing of Jim McDaniels Last Night

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 6 (AP)—Henry Armstrong, the little negro with the big shoulders, has disposed of California Jimmy McDaniels and immediately started preparations for his next bout, which will be with a surgenal at catchweights.

Armstrong demolished McDaniels in a savage 10-rounder at Olympic auditorium last night. He had intended to depart almost at once for a Philadelphia scrap with Al Tribiani and a New York date with Beau Jack, but decided to leave his ailing tonsils behind him before braving the frigid clime of the eastern seaboard.

McDaniels, who weighed in at 147 to Armstrong's 140½, was an underdog in the betting, but gave no intimation he realized it as he stood toe to toe and slugged it out with Henry for 10 blistering rounds.

Try as he would, Armstrong couldn't put the Irishman on the floor and at the finish, left eye closed and face battered, McDaniels still pressed in, flailing away with sweat-soaked gloves on the ends of arms that had lost their potency some rounds back. The decision of the referee and two judges was unanimous, and insiders figured Armstrong won eight rounds to two for Jimmy.

Baseball Will Stay at Home to Aid War Effort

Clubs Look for Home Practice Fields After Chicago Decision to Heed ODT

CHICAGO, Jan. 6 (AP)—Even baseball will stay at home this spring to aid the war effort. Complying with a recent request by Joseph Eastman, director of the office of defense transportation, to reduce train travel to a minimum, major league clubs decided yesterday to train in their own backyards or within an area north of the Potomac and Ohio rivers and east of the Mississippi. The two St. Louis clubs were given the option of a Missouri site.

This action was the result of an emergency meeting of club owners called by Commissioner K. M. Landis following his talk last week with the ODT director. The club owners yesterday also decided to: Open the season April 21 instead of April 13 and to close it October 3 instead of September 26. Retain their 154 game schedule.

Further cooperate with the government and railroads by "selecting the least congested mode of travel during the regular season." The question of reduced personnel on road trips will be left to the individual clubs, said Landis.

The move to restrict conditioning camps to a certain area sent all but three of the 16 clubs scurrying for new training sites today.

The three which already had definite training sites in mind within the accepted bounds are Boston's Red Sox and Chicago's two entities. Boston will drill at Tufts college in Medford, Mass., while the Cubs and White Sox have decided on French Lick Springs, Ind.

Opening the season eight days later than planned was regarded as a compromise between American league owners who were understood to be in favor of an April 27 start, and the National league which favored the original April 13 date.

Bronco Basketeers Eke Close Victory From Gaels, 44-42

BERKELEY, Calif., Jan. 6 (AP)—Santa Clara and St. Mary's fought through a basketball game on almost even terms last night but the Broncos ended the breathless pace a 44 to 42 winner over the Gaels from St. Mary's. The score was 22 to 22 at half time.

Frank Laney, rangy Santa Clara center, scored 18 points. The University of California breezed through a preliminary encounter with the University of San Francisco to win 49 to 28. Last week the breeze blew the other way and the Dons beat the Bears.

Vancouver Ramblers Defeat Portland Boilermen, 40-37

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 6 (AP)—The Vancouver Ramblers, a collection of former college basketball players, defeated the Portland Boilermakers, also made up largely of ex-collegians, 48-37, last night.

Hobson Eyes Oregon's First Conference Basketball Tilt

EUGENE, Jan. 6 (AP)—With land Bollermakers are on the docket here for Saturday, the day before the Webfoots leave game only a week away, Coach Howard Hobson had little idea today who would be on his traveling squad, much less his starting five.

Not even Captain Don Kirsch is sure of a first-string job, Hobson said as he shuffled players around in an effort to find a hot combination. The Webfoots' pre-season record has not been impressive—five wins in nine starts.

Hobson hopes to get a better line on six lettermen, a flock of non-lettermen varsity aspirants and three freshmen now eligible under conference rules in three more king-of-s-c contests this week. Oregon plays Willamette here tomorrow night and takes on the Bearcats again at Salem Friday night. ELLENSBURG, Jan. 6 (AP)—After a comparatively weak first half, Pasco's Naval Flyers came back strong in the second last night to defeat the Central Washington quintet, 54-47. Ken McLeod, ex-Gonzagan, with 18 points, and Ensign Frank Mandic, player-coach, set the pace for the Flyers. The college team, making its first start since beating the University of Washington, 53-49 two weeks ago, slumped after Captain Jack Hubbard went out after taking a bad head bump in the first half.

Fritzie Zivic Expects Most Active Year

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 6 (AP)—Fritzie Zivic, that fightest of the four fighting Zivic brothers, begins his 12th year in professional boxing next Tuesday night, cracking another Zivic record, and he confidently expects to have the most active, and lucrative, year of them all. The former welterweight champ tackles Maylon Padlo, Philadelphia, in the 164th bout of his career.

"And why shouldn't I have a big year?" demands the youngest of the Zivics. "I'm fighting better than I ever did anytime."

"I have several other bouts lined up and I intend to keep cashing in as many chips as I can while the cashing is good."

Fritzie, who is nearly 29, has three children and plenty of use for any and all ready cash.

The Padlo fight, getting him off on year No. 72, will be another landmark in the history of the amazing Zivics. Fritzie's oldest brother Pete, who now runs a taproom here, hung up his gloves after 11 years and 151 bouts. Brother Jack quit after ten years and 132 fights, and Eddie did 85 fights in nine years. A fifth brother, Joe, never took to boxing at all.

The Zivics, with 531 ring struggles, hold the record for any boxing family.

STRIKES to SPARE

Improve Average By Making Sparer

By FRED FITZSIMMONS
A Big League Bowler. Too Strikes are the objective of every bowler, but as even the better ones miss them quite often, they also concentrate on making spares.

How to make most frequent split combinations the ball can leave you. Some combinations are impossible to knock down unless you are a trick shot artist. The most frequent split, one which causes much trouble, is the 6-7-10. Forget all about your spot in shooting for spares. You either make them or you don't. Luck may enter the picture on your side occasionally, but you can't depend on it to raise your average.

The 6-7-10 leave is difficult because of the extreme outside positions of the 7 and 10 pins. You must cut the 6 pin on the right side with sufficient force to propel it across the alley into the 7. The ball will take care of the 10. The trick is in slicing the 6 in such a way that it will take care of the 7.

Bowl a ball that is almost straight with very little spin on it. Too much hook will cause the ball to miss the 10 after you have taken care of the 7 with the 6.

Lack of Playing Talent Baseball's Big Headache

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Baseball now has settled its spring training problem and the major league owners have expressed their determination to play a full 154-game schedule. That leaves the moguls with their biggest headache—where to get the playing talent.

That was emphasized when Joe DIMaggio hinted broadly from Reno, Nev., that he would not be with the New York Yankees this spring, and by the intimation from Dixie Walker that he probably would remain as athletic director of a war plant instead of patrolling right field for the Brooklyn Dodgers.
