The French army in Algeria disclosed, meanwhile, that Nazi paratroopers had been dropped along with a native guide in the Saint Armano region of Algeria. That is deep behind the allied lines between Constantine, inland from Philippeville and about 100 miles west of the Tunisian border, and Setif, 60 miles further west.

The announcement said the guide was tried by a court martial and shot. Algiers had three air alarms last night. Ground batteries went into action on the first but there was no report that bombs had been dropped.

REYNOLDS TRIP WILL FURTHER PROJECTS HERE

On a trip east this month, Secretary Earl C. Reynolds of the chamber of commerce will make contacts in connection with work of the industrial development committee of the chamber.

Reynolds will leave January 17 for Washington D. C., where he is to attend a meeting of the directors of the National Association of Commercial Organization Secretaries. He is one of 12 men on this board.

The chamber secretary will stop off in Chicago to discuss the possibilities of food dehydrating plants with the American Food Products corporation and Swift and company.

He plans also to visit the Scott Paper company at Chester, Pa., for a discussion of paper manufacturing plants, and he will tell the Scott people of the resources of this area.

Reynolds may also visit the forest laboratories at Madison, Wis., in the interests of research that may result in additional industrial development at Klamath Falls.

Alcohol, starch and plastic research are subjects in which the local chamber's industrial committee is especially interested, and Reynolds on his eastern trip will gather what information is available on these matters.

Reynolds also will stop at Portland en route to Washington, to take up with industrialists various matters of interest to the Klamath community.

SCOUT LEADERSHIP NEED EMPHASIZED

Robert LaMott, Boy Scout executive for this area, emphasized the importance of competent adult leadership for the Scout movement in a talk to the Kiwanis club at Thursday noon's luncheon. He told of the vital importance Scout work and similar activities play in developing good citizenship, and urged sponsorship of Scout activities by civic organizations, churches and other responsible adult groups.

LaMott was introduced by William Constans, who spoke briefly on the Scout movement here and described the problems involved in carrying on this activity in a large and sparsely settled area. Chairman of the day was Kiwanian C. S. Elliot.

President Malcolm Epley announced the Kiwanis installation party to be held next Tuesday evening, when President-Elect Ed Ostendorf and other new officers will be installed. District Governor Phil Hitchcock of Sisters, will be installing officer, and Lieutenant Governor Archie Vaughn of North Bend will be here.

INSPECTORS CHECK EASTERN DRIVERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP)—The office of price administration said today that hundreds of inspectors, aided by state and local police, were in action "from Maine to Florida" to halt pleasure driving on "A," "B" and "C" ration books.

Simultaneously OPA gave its official definition of "pleasure driving" under the prohibition that became effective at noon on the Atlantic seaboard.

OPA said its own enforcement and other law officers were checking on "the illegal presence of passenger cars at places of amusement, recreation and entertainment."

In its definition of permitted driving are included essential shopping, going to the doctor, attending church, attending funerals, going to business or professional meetings, or driving for the purpose of meeting an emergency "involving a threat to life, health, or property."

In cases of flagrant violation, OPA stated, the agency's own inspectors can request motorists to surrender their ration books on the spot, but state or local police officials assisting OPA do not have this power.

Six Potential Firemen Sesk Civil Service Rating

Six potential firemen sought civil service rating Thursday when they took examinations in the city hall under civil service direction. Five of the six are already employed as members of the force, the sixth, if he qualifies, will be on the substitute list.

Fire Chief Keith K. Ambrose said he had lost 13 men in less than a year, some having sought defense work, others better paying jobs, and still others were drafted into the service.

Eagles Auxiliary — Regular meeting will be held tonight (Thursday) at 8 o'clock in the Eagles' hall. New candidates will be inflated, and all members are urged to attend.

HEARING HELD ON SLAYING CHARGE

minutes by District Attorney L. Orth Sisemore and later Defense Attorney Joseph C. O'Neill.

In reply to the question as to why the defendant, Kenneth Wallan, drove the Bowmans to their home at 2325 Shasta way on Christmas eve after they had attended a party given at the Willard hotel by employer of the two, James Douglas, Mrs. Bowman said, "I can't figure that out myself; it's too deep."

Party Described Mrs. Bowman, first to take the stand, stood up well under the long questioning but wept when she returned to her seat in justice court. She described going first to a "business meeting" in the blue room of the hotel, given by Douglas for his employees. She said her husband had never been involved in trouble but admitted under questioning by O'Neill, that he and a Mr. Fanning, referring to John Fanning, had wrestled on the floor at the party and she later had wiped a few drops of blood from his face. She further described the party, the trip home with Wallan and told how she had left the house and walked toward the Tik Tok to meet Mrs. Wallan, who was following in her car. En route to the Tik Tok on South Sixth street she said she was overtaken by a neighbor, Mrs. Holbrook, who told her a man had been killed. Going directly back to her home, Mrs. Bowman said she met Wallan. She testified several times that he stopped her and wanted to know "if I'd file a complaint against him if anything happened."

"I told him I had other things to take care of just then and went on home because I knew my husband was in trouble when I saw Mr. Wallan coming from the house," she stated.

Under questioning, Mrs. Bowman described the position of her husband when she returned to their home, said his clothes were wet and that he was on the back steps.

Felt Sorry "I threw myself over him but only got a couple of gulps out of him; he was bleeding from the mouth," the young woman said. Mrs. Bowman further stated that at the hospital she told Marie, (Mrs. Wallan), that she "felt sorry for her as she didn't have anything to do with it."

Mrs. Bowman said she didn't know who decided to break up the Christmas eve party but that the guests departed early. She repeated that she didn't know why Wallan drove them home and that when she left the two men in front of her residence they were "talking shop."

Dr. George H. Adler, Klamath county coroner, testified as to his findings following the autopsy conducted on Bowman Monday, December 29. He described the condition of the man upon seeing him at Klamath Valley hospital, Christmas eve, and said he had bruises about the face, skull fractures and a badly bruised right hand. Under questioning, he said he had smelled Bowman's breath and that he could smell alcohol.

Mrs. Lawrence Testifies Mrs. Nina Lawrence, 4637 Shasta way, testified during the afternoon that she witnessed the attack as she stood on the Bowman lawn returning from a trip to the store. She said she heard cursing and saw a man she identified as Wallan pull another man from the car and knock or throw him to the ground. She further testified that the man walked toward the garage where he picked up a board and returning to the man on the ground struck him several blows.

Later Mrs. Lawrence said the man she identified as Wallan approached her and said, "What would you do if someone struck you in your own car?" She said she did not answer him.

Of the six wives of Henry VIII, two were executed, two were divorced, one died naturally, and the sixth outlived him.
